JASPER, Ala., April 26.—The map of the United States becomes more intensely interesting as you travel over the heavy black lines with little white dots indicating the railroad path that you travel.

This train left Kansas City last night for Miami via Jacksonville, a run of two nights and two days. The line of travel slants from central Kansas City on the border line of Kansas and Missouri through Springfield, and half the depth of Missouri across the northeast corner of Arkansas, through Tennessee's big city of Memphis, standing at the corner of three states, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, then on southeast through the upper part of Mississippi into Alabama, through Birmingham, Pittsburgh's rival, on through big Atlanta, down to Jacksonville and through all Florida to Miami.

LOOKING FROM the Pullman window on the rich state of Mississippi you remember that the political boss and senator, Mr. Bilbo, is said to be in training to fight Huey Long, and you wonder how that fight will come out.

Also you notice that the landscape contains more mules than automobiles. You would travel far to duplicate that phenomenon.

TODAY'S POLITICAL news, important, and with dangerous possibilities, is the attack made by Senator Bailey of North Carolina upon a Catholic priest who broadcasts, from Detroit, speeches on politics and social conditions. No answer was made in the senate yesterday to Senator Bailey who informed senators that he is the son and the grandson of a Protestant clergyman. Senator Bailey, saying he declined to refer to the broadcasting priest as "father" added "he can be called father, but he cannot be called father in American politics."

SENATOR BAILEY, concluding his attack, far too important in its possible effects to be ignored, used words that startled the senate, "I will snatch the halo from his brow and throw it into the nearest spittoon, and then throw the spittoon into the gutter."

The senate expects that a formal reply to Senator Bailey will be made by some senator with a constituency largely Catholic.

Injecting religion into politics, or politics into religion, is dangerous, productive of utmost bitterness, as shown recently in more than one nation.

SECRETARY ICKES needs and should have another competent assistant. ONE of his jobs makes Mr. Ickes head of the board of twenty-two that will spend four thousand million dollars of public money.

The house of representatives does not want Mr. Ickes to have an assistant because he has "spoken slightingly of members of congress." No congressman worth while will let that influence him.

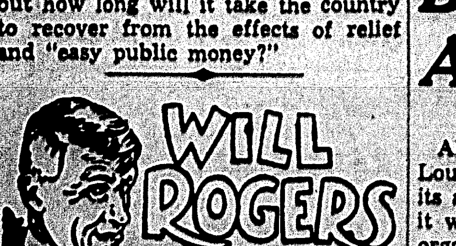
Whoever is to spend four billion dollars taken from taxpayers should have what assistants he needs and if Mr. Ickes could get an assistant that would help to prevent waste, graft and recklessness, he would be worth his ten thousand a year.

MR. ICKES, administrator of public works, says to those that "harp on balancing the budget," "It is more important in these times to preserve the morale of the people than it is to balance a set of books."

The statement is sound, but IS the morale of the people really preserved?

Can men on the "dole" or "public relief" or any other name that you choose to give to public charity, really preserve their morale, and for how long?

Relief was and is necessary, employment, even at jobs artificially made had to be provided. All important administrators of the gigantic fund are honest men, thank heaven, but how long will it take the country to recover from the effects of relief and "easy public money?"



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 27.—(Special)—Having a time with the bonus. Congress wants to pay it, the soldiers want to receive it, but every person wants it paid or received according to his own particular plan. Looks like soldiers can't agree any more than congressmen can. Better put General Pershing in charge again; he was the only man we ever had that could tell a soldier and a senator, too, where to head in.

Don't hold those dimes, quarters and halves you may have too tightly, for by tonight Mr. Roosevelt may have thought of a new price for 'em.

Yours,

CONGRESS CHIEFS PRESS FOR QUICK ACTION ON BILLS

Curtailment Of Heavy Schedule Of Measures Is Advocated

MAY ADJOURN JULY 1

Filibuster Over Anti-Lynching Plan Ties Up Senate Work

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—Optimistically seeking a July 1 adjournment, administration leaders today pressed for swifter consideration, and possibly some shortening, of President Roosevelt's legislative program.

Temperatures that brought a foretaste of summer heat and sent legislators scurrying to golf courses despite a senate filibuster, prompted some Democratic leaders to advocate curtailment by Mr. Roosevelt of a heavy schedule of administration bills.

In line with this sentiment was a proposition to postpone temporarily revision of NRA. This would be accomplished by continuing the present set-up for nine months from the expiration date of June 16 and was to be submitted to Mr. Roosevelt at the first opportunity by Senator Harrison.

The movement to extend the present NRA was intended to give congress until next March 16 to act on it finally. It has mounted rapidly in both the senate and house in the last few days. Should the president approve the temporary extension, leaders believe it would clear the way

WORK PROGRESSES ON SEVERAL JOBS IN THIS SECTION

Construction Projects Include Bridges, Paving, Buildings

Construction work is progressing steadily on a number of highway and building jobs throughout this section of Louisiana and several other jobs are scheduled to begin within a short time, while a few for which contracts have been let are still awaiting work orders, a check-up showed Saturday.

Workmen for Sullivan, Long and Hagerty of Bessemer, Ala., contractors for widening and extending Louisville avenue from the new bridge to the intersection with the Dixie-Overland highway at the Sterlington road intersection are engaged in clearing right-of-way and doing preliminary drainage work.

Most of the concrete work on the bridge proper to be done here by Central Construction company has been completed. This company laid eight spans of concrete on the east side and one span on the west side, thus completing all of the main concrete work except that to be placed by Vincennes Bridge company on the steel structure after the steel work has been completed. Except for some street paving to connect with the Dixie-Overland highway in West Monroe, Central Construction company has only a small amount of hand-railing and work of a similar nature to complete.

Workmen for Vincennes Bridge company continued riveting on the two spans of steel that have been placed on the east side and the two that have been placed on the west side of the river. During the week there was comparatively little visible progress in the steel work, as forces were engaged in riveting the steel together, instead of putting new steel in place. New material has arrived, however, and the work of placing steel is expected to go forward at a good rate.

About 50 per cent of the dirt work has been completed on the west approach to the overpass at Sicard and

McDermitt Tells Officers Of Strange Slayings In Hollywood

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(AP)—Shreds of mystery still hanging about the bizarre slaying of Paul Ivar, eccentric Hollywood dress designer, were partially cleared away today when a sailor, only survivor of the dinner party preceding the tragedy, was found and questioned aboard a battleship here.

The sailor, N. C. McDermitt, told sheriff's officers that William Howard, former naval reserve officer, shot Ivar, and then went to a nearby house where he wounded Henry Bolte, a sociology professor, and then committed suicide.

The sailor was exonerated of any participation in the crime but he was held in the ship's brig for having been absent without leave.

Promise of a sensational development in the case was made, meanwhile, by Captain Norris Stensland, in charge of the sheriff's bureau of investigation.

"Something sensational will break in this case Monday or at the inquest," he said. "And don't be surprised if somebody of real importance is found right in the middle of it."

He declined to explain or enlarge upon the statement. The date for the inquest has not been set.

Ivar's alleged boasts of a connection with the late Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambler, was another fantastic circumstance remaining to be checked by investigators.

Acquaintances of the designer said Ivar had bragged of having been entrusted by Rothstein with $1,000,000 in "hot" money. They reported Ivar had told of spending a large portion of that sum and having said "but Arnold got killed just before he found out what I did."

McDermitt's story indicated money might have been the immediate motive, although officers previously had uncovered a fantastic array of circumstances which they said indicated Ivar and Howard were "strange men who led strange lives."

McDermitt's story, as made public by Deputy Sheriffs Ray Rowe and G. A. Morford, showed Howard and the sailor had gone to Ivar's apartment for dinner.

"We had just finished dinner," he

WARNER TO SEEK JOB AS SHERIFF

Richland Parish Man Announces Platform For 1936 Campaign

RAYVILLE, La., April 27.—(Special)—Announcement that he would be a candidate for the office of sheriff of Richland parish on a platform that would serve the interests of sharecroppers, tenants and small farmers, was made here today by J. K. Warner, a farmer living in the southwestern section of the parish.

Mr. Warner has never taken any part in politics heretofore, he said in making his announcement.

"I am concerned for the widows and orphans and the laboring man," he stated, "and will seek to have a labor board set up in the parish that will consider the problems of the working man. I will also advocate the establishment of a home for the widows and orphans in the parish."

Mr. Warner said that he would have a full ticket of candidates for the parish police jury in the field. The election will not be held until next January.

The candidate for sheriff is 36 years old. He is married and has two children. Mr. Warner was born in Shreveport, after his father, Keith Warner, a volunteer in the Spanish-American war, had been killed in action in the Philippines campaign. When the child was six weeks old he was adopted by Watson Warner, a farmer living at Calhoun. Watson Warner was unrelated to the lad.

Young Warner attended school at Calhoun up to the time of the World war, when he tried to enlist, but was rejected because he was only 17 years old. Then he went to the Georgia

NAZIS CONSIDER NEW SUBMARINES IN NAVAL PLANS

Spokesmen Deny U-Boats Are Actually Under Construction

DIPLOMATS STIRRED

French See Chance To Force Showdown On German Program

BERLIN, April 27.—(AP)—Germany today officially admitted submarines were being "considered" in connection with plans to rebuild the navy.

At the same time, spokesmen either denied or sidestepped questions concerning reports that U-boats—the Reich's dread World war weapon, which the Versailles peace treaty denied her—were actually under construction.

An official spokesman at the defense ministry said:

"The whole matter of rearmament at sea is in a state of flux and nothing definite has been done. Naturally, the question of submarines plays a role in our considerations for the future."

The reports stirred foreign diplomats here and brought hundreds of inquiries at the reichswehr (army) ministry and the foreign office. Officials were as reticent, however, as they were before the recent public announcement of the fatherland's rebuilt air force and "regenerated" army.

Public excitement equalled that created by the air force announcement, and was surpassed only by the martial enthusiasm stirred by Adolf Hitler's sensational decision to restore military conscription in Germany.

U-boats, the deeds of which during the war left an indelible impression on the German people, might be an excellent starting point for the new navy, experts said, because they were the cheapest sea weapon.

A recent official visit by representatives of the British armaments firm of Vickers, Ltd., was believed in foreign military circles to furnish clues to the rumors that orders already had been placed for submarines.

These military experts recalled that several weeks ago they were invited by officials of the reichswehr ministry to meet the Vickers representatives socially. When they evinced interest in the purpose of the visit, both the Germans and Englishmen shut up like clams.

FARMER STABBED IN WEST MONROE

W. B. Thomas Is Slashed During Altercation With H. Bonnett

W. B. Thomas, about 47 years of age, farmer residing west of West Monroe, was slashed twice with a knife on his chest yesterday afternoon on a downtown street in West Monroe, and Haywood Bonnett, about 30 years of age, farmer also residing west of West Monroe, was arrested by the sheriff's department and charged with cutting with intent to kill. Trouble between the men was said to have been caused by a debt Bonnett allegedly claimed Thomas owed him.

Thomas was carried to St. Francis sanitarium, where he is expected to remain for at least several days.

Bonnett was released by the sheriff's department under bond of $500.

The condition of Thomas apparently was not serious, his physician said. The physician stated that he would be justified in making a more definite statement after the wounded man has been under observation for about two days.

Each of Thomas' wounds was inflicted on his upper left chest, in the heart region, the physician said.

The stabbing was reported to have taken place in the 100 block of Commerce street.

O. P. H. S. RECEIVES 59 POINTS AT RALLY

Ouachita parish high school, which carried off second honors at the annual high school rally at Baton Rouge, should have been credited with 59 points in the total achievements of representatives from the local school, instead of 40 points as given by the Associated Press report which was printed in Saturday morning's World.

A careful check of the standings of the students in the rally competitions shows that the report sent out from Baton Rouge failed to accord the Ouachita group all they were entitled to, it was revealed Saturday. The revised figures give Baton Rouge, 72 points; Ouachita parish, 59; Bolton of Alexandria, 39, and Lake Charles, 37.

In the list of girls from Ouachita parish high appearing in the vocal quartette, which won first place, the name of Edith Beeson should have appeared instead of Reba Hawkins.

The parish school debating team also won second place, which entitled the school to a loving cup.

FORMER RUSTON MAN DROWNS IN FALL FROM BOAT

Funeral Services For Alton Knott Will Be Conducted Today

BATON ROUGE, La., April 27.—(AP)—Alton Knott, about 30 years old, head of the highway commission road sign marking department, was drowned late last night after he had fallen from a houseboat in Bayou Plaquemine, about nine miles from the town of Plaquemine, Harry B. Henderlite, state highway engineer, reported early this morning.

Knott was a son of former State Senator and Mrs. R. B. Knott, of Ruston. He had been employed by the highway commission about seven years.

His body was recovered.

Knott, accompanied by his fiancee, Miss Mary Louise Walsh, a highway commission stenographer, and Henderlite, accompanied by Miss Catherine Lancaster, a supervisor of public accounts stenographer, were on the houseboat belonging to Jim Thomas, of Alexandria, when the accident took place about 10 o'clock.

Henderlite said he was cooking fish in the rear of the boat when Miss Lancaster came to him saying Knott had fallen overboard, that she had heard a splash and he was gone.

He said he thought she was joking for an instant, but then hurried to jump into the bayou, where after a brief search he found the body. He said that, while he did not think it was more than five minutes from the moment of the splash until the

THEATER THROWN INTO UPROAR BY WOMAN WITH GUN

Draws Pistol And Fires At Girl With Mate; Boy Is Injured

SHREVEPORT, April 27.—A capacity house in a downtown theater here was thrown into a panic tonight when a woman identified by police as Mrs. R. T. Johnson, 35, drew a pistol from her clothing and fired at Lois Thompson, 22, who was seated beside R. T. Johnson, 37, in the theater.

An unidentified man who sat near the woman grabbed the pistol and the bullet missed its target but pierced the shoulder of 10-year-old Billy Singlust, who sat one row away with his parents. His father, P. A. Singlust, is vice-president of the First National bank.

Johnson disarmed his wife while the cinema patrons panicked. Two state highway patrolmen in the theater gained possession of the weapon and took the two women and man in custody.

"I wanted to kill her. She broke up my home. I would have killed her if that man hadn't hit my arm," Mrs. Johnson was quoted by police as saying.

Officers were unable to learn the identity of "that man."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were lodged in city jail pending further investigation.

FOES OF ROOSEVELT ASSAILED BY FARLEY

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Directly flaying Republican leaders including Herbert Hoover, and such dissenters as Senator Long, Postmaster General Farley tonight closed an excoriation of Roosevelt opposition with the assertion an election tomorrow "would see no change" in last fall's overwhelming Democratic victory.

To charges by "political foes of the administration that the president is no longer a popular idol," Farley retorted that "the president's hold on the country is too close to be threatened, much less destroyed."

New Orleans Man's Case Is Reset To Commence On June 17

MORE PROBES PUSHED

Statewide Investigation Of Tax Evaders Is Made By U. S.

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—(AP)—Interest in the federal government's prosecution of alleged income tax law violators in Louisiana revolved around three developments today, most important of which was postponement of the trial of Abe L. Shushan, pillar in Senator Huey P. Long's political organization, who was scheduled to go on trial in federal court here May 6 on ten counts charging attempted tax evasion.

Announcement that the Shushan trial had been reset for June 17 came from U. S. District Attorney Rene Viosca and followed closely on the heels of the conviction late yesterday of State Representative Joseph Fisher by a federal jury on two counts, one charging failure to make an income tax return and the other accusing him of filing a false document protesting a tax assessment for 1930.

It developed today that Fisher may waive his right to appeal from the district court conviction and begin serving the 18-month sentence imposed by Judge Wayne G. Borah.

Weight was lent to the report by a statement from the office of Attorney Hugh M. Wilkinson, Fisher's counsel, stating that it had not been decided whether the Jefferson parish lawmaker and close friend of Senator Huey P. Long, would make an appeal.

Under the law Fisher is given five days to file notice of appeal. The time limit would expire May 2. A definite decision, however, was expected to be made by Fisher and his attorney prior to that time. Meanwhile he is in the federal jail here.

The third development came in Washington in the form of word from federal authorities that a statewide investigation of suspected tax evaders was being pressed in Louisiana with the belief that other indictments will follow.

The federal investigation, which started two years ago, already has resulted in the indictment of eight persons, four of whom occupy high positions in Long's organization.

In addition to Shushan and Joe Fisher, who has staunchly supported the Long administration with his vote in the lower house of the Louisiana legislature as well as campaigning vigorously for him, indictments have been returned against State Senator Jules Fisher, Joe's uncle, and Seymour Weiss, president of the board of port commissioners and acting treasurer of Long's state organization.

Trial dates have not been fixed in the Jules Fisher or Weiss cases.

It is known that Senator Long's income tax returns have been under the scrutiny of federal investigators as well as those of his political lieutenants.

Delay in the Shushan trial, Viosca stated, was agreed to by both defense and government counsel "to permit installation of a cooling system in the court room."

The prosecution will be handled by the same staff that represented the government in the Fisher case, headed by former Governor Dan Moody, of Texas. Actual trial of the case is expected to require between two and three months in view of the huge collection of data the government will seek to place in the records in its efforts to show that Shushan evaded income taxes amounting to more than $70,000 for himself and his wife.

Bar Association To Remain Active Despite Huey Long

ALEXANDRIA, April 27.—(AP)—The Louisiana Bar association decided in its annual convention here today that it would maintain and perpetuate its organization in spite of attempts of Senator Huey P. Long to wipe it out of legal status.

A resolution presented to the annual convention of the association by Judge H. H. White, of Alexandria, providing that the organization maintain its revered status was adopted unanimously.

The state bar association was displaced in Senator Long's "dictatorship" by a new organization he had formed by legislative mandate to pass upon qualifications of the bar and applicants to membership at the bar in this state.

Long charged when he set up the new organization that the venerable old bar of Louisiana had shown "ring" favoritism and the state association took pointed issue.

The state bar association today adopted resolutions, also by unanimous vote, expressing "full confidence in the honesty and integrity" of three justices of the Louisiana supreme court whom Long threatened with removal from office by the impeachment route in the last special session of the legislature on charges of "crooked jurisprudence."

The legislature decided not to impeach the judges, but a warning was issued that action might be taken.

The three justices whom Long threatened were Chief Justice Charles A. O'Niell, and Associate Justices Wynne G. Rogers and Fred M. Odom.

The resolutions adopted declared that the Long charges were "slanderous and wholly false and without foundation in fact."

The state bar association elected John D. Miller, of New Orleans, president; W. W. Young, New Orleans, re-elected secretary-treasurer; and vice presidents from the supreme court districts as follows:

First district—Monte M. Lemann, New Orleans; second district—Pike Hall, Shreveport; third district—Dan DeBaillon, Lafayette; fourth district—Carey J. Ellis, Jr., Rayville; fifth district—Charles V. Porter, Baton Rouge; sixth district—Robert E. Brumby, Franklin.

RENO AND HUEY LONG RAP ADMINISTRATION

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 27.—(AP)—A two-gun bombardment of criticism was loosed upon the national Democratic administration today by Senator Huey Long of Louisiana and Milo Reno, president of the National Farm Holiday association, before a throng of mid-western farmers here.

The Roosevelt agricultural program was the favorite target of the oratorical blasts, but outwardly there was no encouragement for a third party movement, whose crystalization some political prophets had anticipated in the platform meeting of the Louisiana dictator and the corn belt chieftain who led the farm holiday "strike" a year ago.

Long assailed the administration for burning up "the surplus when it found people starving in the midst of too much food" and as a remedy for this "depressing situation," offered his share the wealth program.

Cornell Announces Finding Of Ivory-Billed Woodpecker

ITHACA, N. Y., April 27.—(AP)—In connection with the observance of the 150th anniversary of the birth of John James Audubon, the world-famous naturalist, which was observed Friday, officials of Cornell university announced rediscovery in a Louisiana swamp of the ivory-billed woodpecker, hitherto believed to have been extinct. The birds were reported to the university by the Louisiana conservation department and a Cornell-American museum scientific expedition was sent out to take sound films of their songs and nesting.

The largest of the woodpeckers, the bird is 19 to 21 inches long with a wingspread of 30 to 33 inches, black and white plumage, and a powerful, white bill two and a half inches long. Mrs. Arthur A. Allen, wife of the leader of the Cornell expedition, wrote the university that the bird was once shot for food, described as "better than duck." It was rare in 1827 and in 1824, the Allens found three of the species in a Florida swamp, and turned over their guarding to the National Association of Audubon societies.

The Louisiana location of the bird, in the area where Audubon first found and classified them, is being kept a secret by the university. J. J. Kuhn of the department of conservation assisted the expedition in its search for the birds.

Colonies of the ivory-billed woodpecker have been reported in Madison parish and on the Avery Island bird refuge.

The announcement by Cornell university of the important rediscovery of a colony of ivory-billed woodpeckers in Louisiana is of particular interest to Monroe, because of the fact that George H. Lowery, Jr., of this city, now a graduate student at Louisiana State university, was one of the first to make report of the presence of the rare birds in this state.

Mr. Lowery, at the annual convention of the American Ornithological society, held in Chicago last October, made an address on his studies of the birds and from his report the ornithological department of Cornell

Construction Projects Include Bridges, Paving, Buildings

Construction work is progressing steadily on a number of highway and building jobs throughout this section of Louisiana and several other jobs are scheduled to begin within a short time, while a few for which contracts have been let are still awaiting work orders, a check-up showed Saturday.

Workmen for Sullivan, Long and Hagerty of Bessemer, Ala., contractors for widening and extending Louisville avenue from the new bridge to the intersection with the Dixie-Overland highway at the Sterlington road intersection are engaged in clearing right-of-way and doing preliminary drainage work.

Most of the concrete work on the bridge proper to be done here by Central Construction company has been completed. This company laid eight spans of concrete on the east side and one span on the west side, thus completing all of the main concrete work except that to be placed by Vincennes Bridge company on the steel structure after the steel work has been completed. Except for some street paving to connect with the Dixie-Overland highway in West Monroe, Central Construction company has only a small amount of hand-railing and work of a similar nature to complete.

Workmen for Vincennes Bridge company continued riveting on the two spans of steel that have been placed on the east side and the two that have been placed on the west side of the river. During the week there was comparatively little visible progress in the steel work, as forces were engaged in riveting the steel together, instead of putting new steel in place. New material has arrived, however, and the work of placing steel is expected to go forward at a good rate.

About 50 per cent of the dirt work has been completed on the west approach to the overpass at Sicard and

Bar Association To Remain Active Despite Huey Long

ALEXANDRIA, April 27.—(AP)—The Louisiana Bar association decided in its annual convention here today that it would maintain and perpetuate its organization in spite of attempts of Senator Huey P. Long to wipe it out of legal status.

A resolution presented to the annual convention of the association by Judge H. H. White, of Alexandria, providing that the organization maintain its revered status was adopted unanimously.

The state bar association was displaced in Senator Long's "dictatorship" by a new organization he had formed by legislative mandate to pass upon qualifications of the bar and applicants to membership at the bar in this state.

Long charged when he set up the new organization that the venerable old bar of Louisiana had shown "ring" favoritism and the state association took pointed issue.

The state bar association today adopted resolutions, also by unanimous vote, expressing "full confidence in the honesty and integrity" of three justices of the Louisiana supreme court whom Long threatened with removal from office by the impeachment route in the last special session of the legislature on charges of "crooked jurisprudence."

The legislature decided not to impeach the judges, but a warning was issued that action might be taken.

The three justices whom Long threatened were Chief Justice Charles A. O'Niell, and Associate Justices Wynne G. Rogers and Fred M. Odom.

The resolutions adopted declared that the Long charges were "slanderous and wholly false and without foundation in fact."

The state bar association elected John D. Miller, of New Orleans, president; W. W. Young, New Orleans, re-elected secretary-treasurer; and vice presidents from the supreme court districts as follows:

First district—Monte M. Lemann, New Orleans; second district—Pike Hall, Shreveport; third district—Dan DeBallion, Lafayette; fourth district—Carey J. Ellis, Jr., Rayville; fifth district—Charles V. Porter, Baton Rouge; sixth district—Robert E. Brumby, Franklin.

Mystery Surrounding Ivar Murder Partially Cleared When Sailor Is Questioned

McDermitt Tells Officers Of Strange Slayings In Hollywood

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(AP)—Shreds of mystery still hanging about the bizarre slaying of Paul Ivar, eccentric Hollywood dress designer, were partially cleared away today when a sailor, only survivor of the dinner party preceding the tragedy, was found and questioned aboard a battleship here.

The sailor, N. C. McDermitt, told sheriff's officers that William Howard, former naval reserve officer, shot Ivar, and then went to a nearby house where he wounded Henry Bolte, a sociology professor, and then committed suicide.

The sailor was exonerated of any participation in the crime but he was held in the ship's brig for having been absent without leave.

Promise of a sensational development in the case was made, meanwhile, by Captain Norris Stensland, in charge of the sheriff's bureau of investigation.

"Something sensational will break in this case Monday or at the inquest," he said. "And don't be surprised if somebody of real importance is found right in the middle of it."

He declined to explain or enlarge upon the statement. The date for the inquest has not been set.

Ivar's alleged boasts of a connection with the late Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambler, was another fantastic circumstance remaining to be checked by investigators.

Acquaintances of the designer said Ivar had bragged of having been entrusted by Rothstein with $1,000,000 in "hot" money. They reported Ivar had told of spending a large portion of that sum and having said "but Arnold got killed just before he found out what I did."

McDermitt's story indicated money might have been the immediate motive, although officers previously had uncovered a fantastic array of circumstances which they said indicated Ivar and Howard were "strange men who led strange lives."

McDermitt's story, as made public by Deputy Sheriffs Ray Rowe and G. A. Morford, showed Howard and the sailor had gone to Ivar's apartment for dinner.

"We had just finished dinner," he

WARNER TO SEEK JOB AS SHERIFF

Richland Parish Man Announces Platform For 1936 Campaign

RAYVILLE, La., April 27.—(Special)—Announcement that he would be a candidate for the office of sheriff of Richland parish on a platform that would serve the interests of sharecroppers, tenants and small farmers, was made here today by J. K. Warner, a farmer living in the southwestern section of the parish.

Mr. Warner has never taken any part in politics heretofore, he said in making his announcement.

"I am concerned for the widows and orphans and the laboring man," he stated, "and will seek to have a labor board set up in the parish that will consider the problems of the working man. I will also advocate the establishment of a home for the widows and orphans in the parish."

Mr. Warner said that he would have a full ticket of candidates for the parish police jury in the field. The election will not be held until next January.

The candidate for sheriff is 36 years old. He is married and has two children. Mr. Warner was born in Shreveport, after his father, Keith Warner, a volunteer in the Spanish-American war, had been killed in action in the Philippines campaign. When the child was six weeks old he was adopted by Watson Warner, a farmer living at Calhoun. Watson Warner was unrelated to the lad.

Young Warner attended school at Calhoun up to the time of the World war, when he tried to enlist, but was rejected because he was only 17 years old. Then he went to the Georgia

RENO AND HUEY LONG RAP ADMINISTRATION

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 27.—(AP)—A two-gun bombardment of criticism was loosed upon the national Democratic administration today by Senator Huey Long of Louisiana and Milo Reno, president of the National Farm Holiday association, before a throng of mid-western farmers here.

The Roosevelt agricultural program was the favorite target of the oratorical blasts, but outwardly there was no encouragement for a third party movement, whose crystalization some political prophets had anticipated in the platform meeting of the Louisiana dictator and the corn belt chieftain who led the farm holiday "strike" a year ago.

Long assailed the administration for burning up "the surplus when it found people starving in the midst of too much food" and as a remedy for this "depressing situation," offered his share the wealth program.

NAZIS CONSIDER NEW SUBMARINES IN NAVAL PLANS

DIPLOMATS STIRRED

French See Chance To Force Showdown On German Program

BERLIN, April 27.—(AP)—Germany today officially admitted submarines were being "considered" in connection with plans to rebuild the navy.

At the same time, spokesmen either denied or sidestepped questions concerning reports that U-boats—the Reich's dread World war weapon, which the Versailles peace treaty denied her—were actually under construction.

An official spokesman at the defense ministry said:

"The whole matter of rearmament at sea is in a state of flux and nothing definite has been done. Naturally, the question of submarines plays a role in our considerations for the future."

The reports stirred foreign diplomats here and brought hundreds of inquiries at the reichswehr (army) ministry and the foreign office. Officials were as reticent, however, as they were before the recent public announcement of the fatherland's rebuilt air force and "regenerated" army.

Public excitement equalled that created by the air force announcement, and was surpassed only by the martial enthusiasm stirred by Adolf Hitler's sensational decision to restore military conscription in Germany.

U-boats, the deeds of which during the war left an indelible impression on the German people, might be an excellent starting point for the new navy, experts said, because they were the cheapest sea weapon.

A recent official visit by representatives of the British armaments firm of Vickers, Ltd., was believed in foreign military circles to furnish clues to the rumors that orders already had been placed for submarines.

These military experts recalled that several weeks ago they were invited by officials of the reichswehr ministry to meet the Vickers representatives socially. When they evinced interest in the purpose of the visit, both the Germans and Englishmen shut up like clams.

FARMER STABBED IN WEST MONROE

W. B. Thomas Is Slashed During Altercation With H. Bonnett

W. B. Thomas, about 47 years of age, farmer residing west of West Monroe, was slashed twice with a knife on his chest yesterday afternoon on a downtown street in West Monroe, and Haywood Bonnett, about 30 years of age, farmer also residing west of West Monroe, was arrested by the sheriff's department and charged with cutting with intent to kill. Trouble between the men was said to have been caused by a debt Bonnett allegedly claimed Thomas owed him.

Thomas was carried to St. Francis sanitarium, where he is expected to remain for at least several days.

Bonnett was released by the sheriff's department under bond of $500.

The condition of Thomas apparently was not serious, his physician said. The physician stated that he would be justified in making a more definite statement after the wounded man has been under observation for about two days.

Each of Thomas' wounds was inflicted on his upper left chest, in the heart region, the physician said.

The stabbing was reported to have taken place in the 100 block of Commerce street.

O. P. H. S. RECEIVES 59 POINTS AT RALLY

Ouachita parish high school, which carried off second honors at the annual high school rally at Baton Rouge, should have been credited with 59 points in the total achievements of representatives from the local school, instead of 40 points as given by the Associated Press report which was printed in Saturday morning's World.

A careful check of the standings of the students in the rally competitions shows that the report sent out from Baton Rouge failed to accord the Ouachita group all they were entitled to, it was revealed Saturday. The revised figures give Baton Rouge, 72 points; Ouachita parish, 59; Bolton of Alexandria, 39, and Lake Charles, 37.

In the list of girls from Ouachita parish high appearing in the vocal quartette, which won first place, the name of Edith Beeson should have appeared instead of Reba Hawkins.

The parish school debating team also won second place, which entitled the school to a loving cup.

Shushan's Trial On Income Charges Postponed; Fisher May Begin Serving Sentence

MORE PROBES PUSHED

Statewide Investigation Of Tax Evaders Is Made By U. S.

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—(AP)—Interest in the federal government's prosecution of alleged income tax law violators in Louisiana revolved around three developments today, most important of which was postponement of the trial of Abe L. Shushan, pillar in Senator Huey P. Long's political organization, who was scheduled to go on trial in federal court here May 6 on ten counts charging attempted tax evasion.

Announcement that the Shushan trial had been reset for June 17 came from U. S. District Attorney Rene Viosca and followed closely on the heels of the conviction late yesterday of State Representative Joseph Fisher by a federal jury on two counts, one charging failure to make an income tax return and the other accusing him of filing a false document protesting a tax assessment for 1930.

It developed today that Fisher may waive his right to appeal from the district court conviction and begin serving the 18-month sentence imposed by Judge Wayne G. Borah.

Weight was lent to the report by a statement from the office of Attorney Hugh M. Wilkinson, Fisher's counsel, stating that it had not been decided whether the Jefferson parish lawmaker and close friend of Senator Huey P. Long, would make an appeal.

Under the law Fisher is given five days to file notice of appeal. The time limit would expire May 2. A definite decision, however, was expected to be made by Fisher and his attorney prior to that time. Meanwhile he is in the federal jail here.

The third development came in Washington in the form of word from federal authorities that a statewide investigation of suspected tax evaders was being pressed in Louisiana with the belief that other indictments will follow.

The federal investigation, which started two years ago, already has resulted in the indictment of eight persons, four of whom occupy high positions in Long's organization.

In addition to Shushan and Joe Fisher, who has staunchly supported the Long administration with his vote in the lower house of the Louisiana legislature as well as campaigning vigorously for him, indictments have been returned against State Senator Jules Fisher, Joe's uncle, and Seymour Weiss, president of the board of port commissioners and acting treasurer of Long's state organization.

Trial dates have not been fixed in the Jules Fisher or Weiss cases.

It is known that Senator Long's income tax returns have been under the scrutiny of federal investigators as well as those of his political lieutenants.

Delay in the Shushan trial, Viosca stated, was agreed to by both defense and government counsel "to permit installation of a cooling system in the court room."

The prosecution will be handled by the same staff that represented the government in the Fisher case, headed by former Governor Dan Moody, of Texas. Actual trial of the case is expected to require between two and three months in view of the huge collection of data the government will seek to place in the records in its efforts to show that Shushan evaded income taxes amounting to more than $70,000 for himself and his wife.

FORMER RUSTON MAN DROWNS IN FALL FROM BOAT

Funeral Services For Alton Knott Will Be Conducted Today

BATON ROUGE, La., April 27.—(AP)—Alton Knott, about 30 years old, head of the highway commission road sign marking department, was drowned late last night after he had fallen from a houseboat in Bayou Plaquemine, about nine miles from the town of Plaquemine, Harry B. Henderlite, state highway engineer, reported early this morning.

Knott was a son of former State Senator and Mrs. R. B. Knott, of Ruston. He had been employed by the highway commission about seven years.

His body was recovered.

Knott, accompanied by his fiancee, Miss Mary Louise Walsh, a highway commission stenographer, and Henderlite, accompanied by Miss Catherine Lancaster, a supervisor of public accounts stenographer, were on the houseboat belonging to Jim Thomas, of Alexandria, when the accident took place about 10 o'clock.

Henderlite said he was cooking fish in the rear of the boat when Miss Lancaster came to him saying Knott had fallen overboard, that she had heard a splash and he was gone.

He said he thought she was joking for an instant, but then hurried to jump into the bayou, where after a brief search he found the body. He said that, while he did not think it was more than five minutes from the moment of the splash until the

Draws Pistol And Fires At Girl With Mate; Boy Is Injured

SHREVEPORT, April 27.—A capacity house in a downtown theater here was thrown into a panic tonight when a woman identified by police as Mrs. R. T. Johnson, 35, drew a pistol from her clothing and fired at Lois Thompson, 22, who was seated beside R. T. Johnson, 37, in the theater.

An unidentified man who sat near the woman grabbed the pistol and the bullet missed its target but pierced the shoulder of 10-year-old Billy Singlust, who sat one row away with his parents. His father, P. A. Singlust, is vice-president of the First National bank.

Johnson disarmed his wife while the cinema patrons panicked. Two state highway patrolmen in the theater gained possession of the weapon and took the two women and man in custody.

"I wanted to kill her. She broke up my home. I would have killed her if that man hadn't hit my arm," Mrs. Johnson was quoted by police as saying.

Officers were unable to learn the identity of "that man."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were lodged in city jail pending further investigation.

FOES OF ROOSEVELT ASSAILED BY FARLEY

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Directly flaying Republican leaders including Herbert Hoover, and such dissenters as Senator Long, Postmaster General Farley tonight closed an excoriation of Roosevelt opposition with the assertion an election tomorrow "would see no change" in last fall's overwhelming Democratic victory.

To charges by "political foes of the administration that the president is no longer a popular idol," Farley retorted that "the president's hold on the country is too close to be threatened, much less destroyed."

Cornell Announces Finding Of Ivory-Billed Woodpecker

ITHACA, N. Y., April 27.—(AP)—In connection with the observance of the 150th anniversary of the birth of John James Audubon, the world-famous naturalist, which was observed Friday, officials of Cornell university announced rediscovery in a Louisiana swamp of the ivory-billed woodpecker, hitherto believed to have been extinct. The birds were reported to the university by the Louisiana conservation department and a Cornell-American museum scientific expedition was sent out to take sound films of their songs and nesting.

The largest of the woodpeckers, the bird is 19 to 21 inches long with a wingspread of 30 to 33 inches, black and white plumage, and a powerful, white bill two and a half inches long. Mrs. Arthur A. Allen, wife of the leader of the Cornell expedition, wrote the university that the bird was once shot for food, described as "better than duck." It was rare in 1827 and in 1824, the Allens found three of the species in a Florida swamp, and turned over their guarding to the National Association of Audubon societies.

The Louisiana location of the bird, in the area where Audubon first found and classified them, is being kept a secret by the university. J. J. Kuhn of the department of conservation assisted the expedition in its search for the birds.

Colonies of the ivory-billed woodpecker have been reported in Madison parish and on the Avery Island bird refuge.

The announcement by Cornell university of the important rediscovery of a colony of ivory-billed woodpeckers in Louisiana is of particular interest to Monroe, because of the fact that George H. Lowery, Jr., of this city, now a graduate student at Louisiana State university, was one of the first to make report of the presence of the rare birds in this state.

Mr. Lowery, at the annual convention of the American Ornithological society, held in Chicago last October, made an address on his studies of the birds and from his report the ornithological department of Cornell

NINE HAMILTON JURORS NAMED

More Than 80 Talesmen Examined In LaSalle Murder Trial

JENA, La., April 27—(Special)—Nine jurors had been selected when court adjourned late Saturday for the trial of Louis Hamilton, 29, Tulane medical student, Floyd Miller, 31, former painter, and 'Buck' Sheppard, 28, charged jointly with murder in connection with the death of Hamilton's father, Dr. Fred Hamilton, two years ago.

Since the trial of the case opened Friday more than 80 talesmen had been examined. From this number 10 jurors were selected, but one of them later was excused because of illness in his family, leaving three still to be chosen.

Those who have been selected are W. A. Parham, T. E. Windham, Joe Caney, J. S. King, Lonnie Evans, J. M. Hudnall, Richard Ford, Washington Masters and C. W. Wilson.

On an order issued in court Saturday afternoon the jury commission convened and was instructed to select 100 names for the tally box. Court will convene at 7:45 o'clock Monday morning and at that time the names of 28 additional veniremen will be drawn and they will be summoned immediately. Despite the fact that both sides are putting up a strong fight in the jury selection, it is hoped that the jury will be completed by noon Monday.

Dr. Hamilton, former LaSalle parish coroner, met his death on the night of June 10, 1933, when his charred body was found after his combination apartment and office building had been burned to the ground. The defendants are accused of killing the physician and buring the house to conceal the crime. The motive was said to have been insurance collected on a war risk policy.

The case is attracting more attention than any trial in this parish in recent years and the courtroom is crowded at each session.

A cowboy of renown, it appears as if Representative Percy L. Gassaway of Oklahoma may be ruminating over taking up bullfighting as a serious occupation. Requirements Of Safety Glass To Be Balloted

While state after state has been passing much needed laws requiring the use of scatterproof glass in vehicles, the question: "What is safety glass, shatterproof glass, scatterproof glass?" has been left to the individual states. It is possible that a car may be "safety" in one state and not in an adjoining one. Some states are very liberal as to what constitutes "safety" glass, others are not liberal enough.

At last a code covering the characteristics for satisfactory performance of safety glass for automobiles has, by vote of the Committee of the American Standards Association Z26, been sent out by letter ballot for vote on its adoption as an American Tentative Standard.

Fourteen states have tests of one sort or another which are used to determine the acceptability of safe glass. These test requirements vary, in some instances quite widely. It has appeared quite necessary to prepare a code for uniform adoption.

It is hoped that the tentative code as now prepared will be found acceptable and will be speedily approved by letter ballot so that it may be submitted for use by the various state motor vehicle bureaus. One uniformly adopted, the chances for much more rapid development in the art of manufacture appears likely, as experience in the different states crystallizes into sound conclusions.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

It is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S. Tonic is waiting to help you... and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S. is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food... sound sleep... steady nerves... a good complexion... and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 regular size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the upроad today.

NINE HAMILTON JURORS NAMED

More Than 80 Talesmen Examined In LaSalle Murder Trial

JENA, La., April 27.—(Special)—Nine jurors had been selected when court adjourned late Saturday for the trial of Louis Hamilton, 29, Tulane medical student, Floyd Miller, 31, former printer, and "Buck" Sheppard, 25, charged jointly with murder in connection with the death of Hamilton's father, Dr. Fred Hamilton, two years ago.

Since the trial of the case opened Friday more than 80 talesmen had been examined. From this number 10 jurors were selected, but one of them later was excused because of illness in his family, leaving three still to be chosen.

Those who have been selected are W. A. Parham, T. E. Windham, Joe Ganey, J. S. King, Lonnie Evans, J. M. Hudnall, Richard Ford, Washington Masters and C. W. Wilson.

On an order issued in court Saturday afternoon the jury commission convened and was instructed to select 100 names for the tally box. Court will convene at 7:45 o'clock Monday morning and at that time the names of 28 additional veniremen will be drawn and they will be summoned immediately. Despite the fact that both sides are putting up a strong fight in the jury selection, it is hoped that the jury will be completed by noon Monday.

Dr. Hamilton, former LaSalle parish coroner, met his death on the night of June 10, 1933, when his charred body was found after his combination apartment and office building had been burned to the ground. The defendants are accused of killing the physician and buring the house to conceal the crime. The motive was said to have been insurance collected on a war risk policy.

The case is attracting more attention than any trial in this parish in recent years and the courtroom is crowded at each session.

Despite the inclement weather last Saturday afternoon, more than 30 children were delightfully entertained in the home of Mrs. J. B. Richmond.

It was the sixth birthday of little Allen Drew of Minden, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Richmond.

The decorations were spring flowers of varied shade and Easter suggestions. An Easter egg hunt was enjoyed on the lawn and many contests and games were held.

The favors were large colored eggs filled with candy.

Late in the evening ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. C. B. Colvin was hostess to the Rook club. The rooms were tastefully decorated with bowls of roses.

The hostess served a most tempting refreshment course to the following, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bagly, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mondart and C. B. Colvin.

These gifts will be presented after authentic information is received from attending physicians attesting the hour of arrival of the first May Day baby. The time of arrival is important, so physicians are asked to make a precise record of the hour and the minute, so that no question may occur as to precedence. The prizes to be given include:

MAYBE GASSAWAY WILL TOSS THIS AT HUEY

A cowboy of renown, it appears as if Representative Percy L. Gassaway of Oklahoma may be ruminating over taking up bullfighting as a serious occupation. But it's a capital joke that the southwesterner merely keeps the bull on hand to weight down a copy of "Every Man a King," literary masterpiece of Huey Long, with whom Gassaway has a feud, ridiculing the Kingfish's share the wealth idea.

City Briefs

Many persons attended the annual student nurses' dance on Friday night on Cherokee terrace, Hotel Frances. The net proceeds will be used for the library fund at St. Francis sanitarium.

"So This Is College" was the play given Friday night at the Ouachita parish high school auditorium by members of the theater guild of Northeast Center of L. S. U. The crowd was large and appreciative.

W. R. Hammond, of the faculty of Northeast Center of L. S. U., has offered a silver medal to the winner of a contest in American history to be held at the college on May 7. The award is to be made at commencement.

The Girl Reserves from the Neville high school and other schools of the city are to attend in a body the 11 o'clock service at Grace Episcopal church this morning. The sermon will be specially suited to this group.

Hugh Cherry, formerly engaged in the insurance business in Monroe, who was promoted by his company to an inspector's position with headquarters in Lubbock, Texas, spent the week-end in Monore, coming to bring his wife here to remain with relatives after a severe attack of illness caused by "dust storms." Mr. Cherry also was ill for nearly a week and for a time was threatened with pneumonia.

An enthusiastic class of junior first aid is being conducted in the rooms of the Red Cross chapter on South Grand street by Parker McComb each Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. The course will last for six weeks and will comprise one hour of lectures and one hour of demonstrations each week. Those enrolled in the class are Claude Younger, Bobby George, George Murphy, Bill Eason, James Digby, Mary Gill, Marion Moss and Jean St. Cyr.

J. E. Johnson, manager of a local studio, has just returned from Dallas, Texas, where he attended the annual convention of the Southwestern Photographers' association, embracing the states of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana. A picture entered by Mr. Johnson was rated 75 per cent, and only one other was rated over 70 per cent. A 50 per cent rating is regarded as the average given.

The picture submitted by the local photographer was that of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Peters of Monroe.

Only feminine characters are included in the cast of "Clubbing a Husband," a three-act comedy which is to be presented at Crosley school auditorium Friday at 8 p.m. The young women's missionary circle of the First Methodist church in West Monroe, is sponsoring the production. Every act is said to be replete with merriment.

L. A. Stulce, educational director of the First Baptist church, who has been in Fort Smith, Ark., the past several weeks aiding in the conduct of a revival being held by Dr. C. C. Morris, will return home on Monday.

An all-day meeting of home demonstration agents of northeast Louisiana was held yesterday at the Ouachita parish courthouse with Miss Ellen LeNoir, state home demonstration agent, presiding. Business of the meeting included a discussion of summer activities, the arranging of itineraries of departmental specialists of the state home demonstration office, and a discussion of projects for 1936.

MONROE MAY GET BAKERS' MEETING

While Monroe was not officially chosen as the next convention city by the Louisiana Bakers' association, which met last week in Baton Rouge, there is every indication that this city may obtain the meeting if the proper efforts are exerted, J. W. Rohr, past president and chairman of the executive committee, reported. Selection was deferred to the board of governors, which will meet 90 days later in Shreveport, where a group session is planned and where the convention city for 1936 will be chosen.

The meeting held at the capitol city was highly successful, Mr. Rohr said, and fully 90 per cent of Monroe and West Monroe bakers were present. The entire attendance was 138.

Mr. Rohr returned to Monroe on Saturday.

OFFER BUILDING MATERIALS FREE

West Monroe Legion Post Willing To Back Community House

The Burnett-Downs American Legion post in West Monroe is willing to provide all building material free of cost for the construction of a community house in West Monroe. This offer, made to the Ouachita Valley Fair association, was made known by Post Commander Sam H. Humphries at a meeting recently held in West Monroe.

The fair association is still considering purchase of a site near McGuire park for the holding of annual exhibitions and for the possible erection of a community house.

It is the desire of the Legion post to secure a home of its own and to this end is willing to donate material for a building.

Requirements Of Safety Glass To Be Balloted

While state after state has been passing much needed laws requiring the use of scatterproof glass in vehicles, the question: "What is safety glass, shatterproof glass, scatterproof glass?" has been left to the individual states. It is possible that a car may be "safety" in one state and not in an adjoining one. Some states are very liberal as to what constitutes "safety" glass, others are not liberal enough.

At last a code covering the characteristics for satisfactory performance of safety glass for automobiles has, by vote of the Committee of the American Standards Association Z26, been sent out by letter ballot for vote on its adoption as an American Tentative Standard.

Fourteen states have tests of one sort or another which are used to determine the acceptability of safe glass. These test requirements vary, in some instances quite widely. It has appeared quite necessary to prepare a code for uniform adoption.

It is hoped that the tentative code as now prepared will be found acceptable and will be speedily approved by letter ballot so that it may be submitted for use by the various state motor vehicle bureaus. One uniformly adopted, the chances for much more rapid development in the art of manufacture appears likely, as experience in the different states crystallizes into sound conclusions.

Buttermilk has approximately the same food value as skim milk.

NORTH LOUISIANA AGENTS TO MEET

Agricultural Experts To Talk Tax Exemption Applications

A meeting of north Louisiana parish agricultural agents and their assistants will be held at Winnsboro next Thursday, beginning at 9 a. m., for the purpose of discussing the preparation of farmers' applications for cotton tax exemption certificates under the Bankhead act for 1935, it was learned Saturday from E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent.

Similar meetings will be held for other sections of the state, beginning at 9 a. m., on dates as follows: Monday, Baton Rouge; Tuesday, Crowley; Wednesday, Alexandria; Friday, Coushatta. The agents and their assistants are expected to attend the meeting held nearest their respective localities.

Cotton farmers are, under the Bankhead act, allowed to gin certain amounts of cotton without paying a tax. Last year the filing of applications for such exemptions began in July. Present indications are that the filing of the applications this year will begin much earlier, and that the tax exemption certificates will be available to farmers at a considerably earlier date than last year.

3 SCHOOLS TO BE ENLARGED

Bids For Building Of New Rooms To Be Asked For On May 15

Bids for the work of constructing six or seven additional rooms to the parish schools of West Monroe and Brownville will be advertised for on May 15 and the bids will be opened on June 15, E. S. Eby, member of a committee appointed by the school board to make plans for these additions, said Saturday. It is expected that a contract will be awarded shortly thereafter, if a favorable bid is received, and that work will begin immediately. Additional facilities will be ready for use at the opening of school in the fall.

The plans call for construction of two additional rooms at Millsaps school, two additional rooms at Ransom school and two or three additional rooms at Lenwil school. Millsaps school is located in the northern part of West Monroe, Ransom in the western part of Monroe and Lenwil just west of Brown Paper mill. It is expected the work on the three schools will cost about $20,000.

Millsaps school is a brick structure and the addition will be in the form of a wing of similar construction. This building and the wing to be added to it are greatly similar to the school building and wing at Sterlington, except that four rooms were added to the Sterlington building, doubling its size, whereas only two rooms will be added at Millsaps, bringing the total number to six.

Ransom and Lenwil schools are frame structures and the additions will be of similar material. It has not yet been decided whether the additions will be added to the present buildings, or will be constructed as separate units. This will be determined largely by the difference in the cost.

One of the principal objectives in adding to the schools is to lessen bus service and another is to relieve the congestion at Crosley school in West Monroe. This school now has more than 1,000 pupils and is said to be the largest grammar school in the state. Because of the fact that it is considered impractical to enlarge this school, it is planned to provide school facilities for a considerable number of children near their homes.

Two buses are now making two trips daily in taking children to school from Lenwil and again in taking them home. Many of the children taken in these buses are small and it is believed it would be better to place them in schools nearer their homes. If three rooms can be erected the bus service burden can be considerably lessened at this school.

The number of students in West Monroe has been increasing steadily and it is believed that completion of the state highway bridge across the river here will have a tendency to further increase the number, as it will make West Monroe more easily accessable to Monroe and thus make it more desirable for some people to live on the west side of the river.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's note: The following article is the sixth of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Prior to the passage of the economy act, any service officer of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign wars, Disabled American Veterans of the World war, or the American Red Cross, who was recognized as a service officer by the Veterans Bureau could review any file in the veterans administration and discuss the case with the rating board or the medical director. The economy act, which was passed on March 19, 1933, provided that only one representative could present a case to the veterans administration; and form P-22 is the form used by the veteran in designating some organization to represent him.

The state of Louisiana by an appropriation of the legislature maintains the office of the state service commissioner, and any veteran is entitled to the services of this office. These services may be secured by designating on form P-22 either the American legion or the Veterans of Foreign wars. The Disabled American Veterans of the World war maintain an office in the Masonic temple building, and form P-22 should designate the D. A. V. of W. W. when it is desired that this organization assist. If the veteran desires the American Red Cross to assist him with his claim, he should designate the American Red Cross in the space set aside for this purpose on form P-22. It must be remembered however, that when one organization is designated, another organization cannot discuss the case with the rating board of the veterans' administration unless a new form P-22 is sent with a letter from the claimant cancelling the previous power of attorney.

Bids For Building Of New Rooms To Be Asked For On May 15

Bids for the work of constructing six or seven additional rooms to the parish schools of West Monroe and Brownville will be advertised for on May 15 and the bids will be opened on June 15, E. S. It is expected that a contract will be awarded shortly thereafter, if a favorable bid is received, and that work will begin immediately. Additional facilities will be ready for use at the opening of school in the fall.

The plans call for construction of two additional rooms at Millsaps school, two additional rooms at Ransom school and two or three additional rooms at Lenwil school. Millsaps school is located in the northern part of West Monroe, Ransom in the western part of Monroe and Lenwil just west of Brown Paper mill. The Beam In Our Own Eyes

Not long ago a preacher, discussing some of the less obvious of human frailties, made an observation profound in its implications: "How lenient we are with ourselves."

We all know human nature is prone to see the mote in the other fellow's eye and ignore the beam in its own, but few of us are willing to admit that we really do go much further than that. Too often we know that we are doing the very things we would be the first to criticize in somebody else, and we actually see the beam in our own eyes, but even so we can condone and find every excuse for our own poor selves—often the last excuse we'd make for another—and seem to feel that it is pardonable and all entirely different when we are doing it. We smother our little consciences, and baby our own weaknesses, and shut the door of our own common sense, our justice, even our sense of fair play.

Yet what a different world it would be, what a bright and shining world, if we could only throw that same mantle of charity we so hastily snatch up to cover our own shortcomings, over those of others. If we would practice unbendingly what we preach, how little we would have to worry about—how little the other fellow. For we can't change him. He has to do that for himself.

However, we can change ourselves. If we watched ourselves as assiduously and uncompromisingly as we watch him, or if we were as lenient with him as we are with ourselves, he might have a better chance to discover his own faults and learn his own lessons, and what paragons we would be! We wouldn't gossip about ourselves. We would'nt tell on ourselves. We would be just scrambling around trying as hard as possible to delete everything wrong we knew we were doing or that we saw in ourselves before anybody else found us out. If everybody else was being absolutely honest with himself, most of the ills of the world would be cured—and most of its heartaches!

We have known a very few people courageous enough to do this—people who were not only the first to see their own faults but big enough to admit them. Invariably they have been the salt of the earth. So broad, so generous and so busy with their own affairs they hadn't time to attend, sub rosa, to the affairs of others, and so understanding that their very presence induced faith and trust because they reflected so strongly their own honesty with themselves.

Surely this is worth striving for and worth any twinge the uprootings of pet faults would cost. So why not try it for six months and see for yourself what a different slant you will get on the sins of others—and on your own.

INVESTORS AT SEA

Too many investors of small experience assume that municipal or government supervised securities are soundly protected and wholly safe. As concerns municipal or state securities, the taxing power does, of course, offer a certain guaranty. But when that power has been so abused in the past by piling up such mountains of debt that taxes cannot be collected to meet it, the theory of investors being protected by the taxing power vanishes into thin air. Similarly it does not do to take for granted the soundness of corporations under government supervision, whose securities are not guaranteed by government as to either principal or interest.

The investor is entitled to every safeguard when he contemplates putting his money into such bond issues, but unhappily he does not get it. These classes of securities, though they represent a large fraction of all bond issues, are exempt from the operation of the federal securities act, which was designed to protect the investor. Yet issuing agencies should be compelled to furnish about them the same information required for securities listed under the act. This is all the most important because of the inclination of the investor to suppose this type of offerings all right.

The public should have some other recourse in its bond buying than to bank merely upon assurance of underwriters. It is entitled to authoritative knowledge of what stands behind the securities offered to it.

REVESAL OF FORM

Irene Castle McLaughlin, the dancer, would like to correct the "hideous mistake" for which she holds herself responsible. The mistake was her former advocacy of the boyish figure for women. She feels now that curves are far more lovely.

It is a matter on which we refuse to get worked up, and on which we know better than to take sides. If the ladies desire to go boyish, it is all right with us, so long as they do not diet to a point where their tempers are affected. If they are naturally supplied with curves, to which they wish to conform their costumes, that is equally satisfactory.

They will do as they please, anyway, subject to the dictates of the prevailing modes.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

LINES TO A BEETLE

I know you are out there awaiting
The day when the world will be warm;
I almost can hear you berating
The chill of the late April storm.
Perhaps, even now, you are peering
Just over the top of the soil,
For the days of bright weather are nearing
And already you yearn for your spoil.
You, and your missus, will soon be alert
To dig up the rootlets you find in the dirt.

You will shortly be climbing the roses
And tearing their leaves into shreds,
And poking your keen little noses
Into all the neat new seeded beds.
Through the grass you will busily wriggle,
In the nighttime as well as the dawn,
And doubtless you'll happily giggle
While making a feast of my lawn;
My lawn, which was lately my pride and my joy,
With keen steely fangs you will wreck and destroy.

You may lack the power of reason,
But with teeth quite as sharp as a dirk,
Through every new season on season
You boldly go on with your work.
You rush scamp'ring hither and thither,
You decimate bed after bed,
Till my hardiest rose bushes wither
And even the lilacs fall dead.
And what makes it harder, I know that next year,
As soon as next spring comes, you're sure to be here.

THE SURE SIGN

Darrow Deeds Belie Words

By BRUCE CATTON

Clarence Darrow tells reporters that he is a tired old man now, waiting for death, and adds that he is positive that after death there will be nothing else to wait for, ever.

"I no longer doubt," he says. "I know now that there is nothing after death—nothing to look forward to in joy or fear. I am not an agnostic any more; I am a materialist. There is no evidence under the sun of a supernatural power."

Darrow is not the first man to come to this gloomy conclusion. As long ago as Old Testament days, the writer of Ecclesiastes seems to have had somewhat the same notion.

But just as this Old Testament scribe belied his own doubts by proving that the human spirit can transcend its fleshly limitations, so Darrow, too, in a different way, has left a record that makes his own materialism look hollow.

Clarence Darrow has had a long and active life, and a great deal of it has been filled with desperate, last-ditch battles for men less fortunate than himself. And when you have made all possible allowances for a keen lawyer's delight in the game itself, and for the incentive which high fees can provide, there remains something else which is not accounted for on any basis of strict materialism.

For underneath everything else, Darrow has been moved by a rich human sympathy, an understanding of erring humanity, and a warm desire to take the side of the man whom everybody is against which does not precisely jibe with any philosophy of soulless mechanism.

To try to look beyond the veil is a hopeless proceeding; and if a man cannot accept the assurances of religion, he must look for traces of a better world than this, if he is to find them at all, in the hearts of his fellow men.

There is something about this urge which comes to men like Darrow to take the part of men who cannot fight for themselves which can seem like the soundest of all evidences.

This old warhorse, who has never been too tired to fight somebody else's battle, may think of himself as a blind and helpless pawn of chance, wandering under a starless sky.

But somehow he hasn't acted like one. His deeds have been like the deeds of a man who has seen a gleam of light at the edge of the horizon and who, seeing it, has known that there is more to life than some of us suppose.

He has built his life by a pattern that would be useless if his own despondent belief were true.

His life is about finished, and his words are hopeless. But his life itself is the very stuff of which human hope is made.

New Deal In Washington

WASHINGTON.—The stupidest line of the month seems to be one produced by the AAA in a defense of food costs, referring to the fact that about 20 million people are on relief. As to them, the AAA says officially:

"The price level, the cost of living, whether high or low is to them a matter of little consequence, because they have no purchasing power except that provided by relief."

AAA economists and publicity agents produced that one without consultation with any family which buys food and other necessities on $5 or $10 weekly relief. It is also doubtful whether the 3,500,000 who are to average $12.50 a week on work-relief will consider the cost of living a matter of little consequence.

Since AAA purged itself of a large part of its conscience—through removal of Jerome Frank, Fred Howe, and others who had fought the battles of the consumer within its ranks—it has been noticeably on the defensive on all fronts.

Beleaguered by angry house-wives, greedy processors, and farm leaders and self-seeking politicians, it has sought to apply rosy-hued coloring to itself in the hope of placating the public.

It still isn't as dishonest in misrepresenting facts as are some other government agencies.

Drouth Used Both Ways

Tendency has been to stress the fact that food prices in general are still below the pre-depression level and to take credit with farmers for the drouth and its effect on prices while bemoaning the drouth as an act of God when discussing meat prices with consumers, and promising them lower prices eventually.

Secretly, AAA officials wish they hadn't carried the hog program quite so far, but they don't like to admit it.

AAA's position would be easier if it felt it could stress the fact that the administration's effort to spread purchasing power among the unemployed had not been anywhere near as successful as the effort to boost farm purchasing power.

Fixing Is Bared

Meanwhile, it hasn't been made any more comfortable by the federal trade commission's revelation that dairy co-operatives have been making agreements with large milk dealers which fixed prices to consumers as well as to producers.

It was partly because they fought that sort of thing that Frank Howe, and Assistant Administrator Victor Christgau—who said such pacts gave the dealers a lot, the farmers a little, and the consumers a kick in the pants—were thrown to the wolves. (And some of the interests AAA sought to placate by the "purge" are now furiously lobbying against the badly needed AAA amendments on Capitol Hill.)

A Gasp For Congress

A senator has been found who refuses to take a pleasant junket to the balmy Caribbean and its palm-decked coral strands, etc., until congress gets through with its regular work.

This astounding performance is that of Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, a member of the committee to investigate conditions in the Virgin Islands, which Senator Tydings of Maryland, its chairman, wants to take down to the islands in May.

Clark says he can't afford to walk out on his constituents, no matter how seductive the breezes down there, and will resign rather than make the trip.

His position puts other members of the committee—King of Utah, White of Main, and Metcalf of Rhode Island—on the spot. They're undecided and Tydings eventually may have to go alone—or postpone the journey.

Tydings returned from a junket to the Philippines early in February, a month after the session began.

But it's easy to explain his constant yen to leave Capitol Hill and get off to an island somewhere. Washington is surrounded on three sides by the state of Maryland and his office is a mere walk for his job-seeking constituents.

Motorists Are Urged To Have Car Tires Checked

Opening of another spring and summer season of increasingly heavier automobile traffic should cause every car owner to consider the condition of his tire equipment, not only from the standpoint of safety but for the sake of tire economy.

Suggestion that the car owner should have his car's tire equipment carefully checked, not necessarily to buy new ones; but maybe to change the tires around on other wheels on his car to equalize wear; or to check the alignment of wheels to be certain that undue wear is not exacting its toll from tire mileage, is made by 707 Tire Service, local Goodyear dealer, who is in position to offer these services.

"Many car owners are driving their automobiles with wheels slightly out of line; or driving tires that need repairing and could be repaired, or retreaded at slight cost with big mileage recovery; or some owners are taking chances driving on tires that are ready to let go at any time, which is dangerous in today's speedy traffic," said C. R. Tidwell, owner of 707 Service.

The Central Savings Bank and Trust company sold to Homer Moffett, Friday a lot on Cypress street, West Monroe, for a consideration of $300, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish district court. The lot fronts 47.5 feet on the west side of Cypress street, beginning at a point 47.5 feet from the Travis street intersection, and runs back to a depth of 150 feet.

Albert Thibeaux leased from C. D. Oakley the lot upon which the restaurant building of Frenchie's No. 2 is located at 125 North Second street, for a period of three years. The consideration is $85 a month.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE KNIGHT OF THE BLACK PATCH—William Montacute, second earl of Salisbury (1328-1397), was only 10 years old when he heard his father tell of the secret trip taken by King Edward III of England, to pay homage to the king of France in 1331. The boy decided that he would wear a black patch over his right eye, until England's humiliation should be avenged.

He wore the patch from 1338 until May 8, 1360, the day of the Treaty of Bretigny, in which France ceded a dozen provinces to England besides an indemnity of $8,000,000. Salisbury was one of the English plenipotentiaries in Bretigny. After affixing his signature to the treaty, he removed the patch in token of the expiration of his vow.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN OF SWEDEN—The mountain of Kiirunavaara, in the district of Norbotten, Sweden, is considered to be the greatest occurrence of high grade iron ore in the world. It is estimated that Kiirunavaara, which is 2,455 feet high, and Mount Luosavara, 2,400 feet high contain a billion tons of ore, of 70% iron consistency. More than 3,000,000 tons of 70% iron ore are mined here annually.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK—Broadway meanderings: There's a singing cop in Longacre Square. Evidently believes every policeman is expected to do his ditty . . . He tells me the depression must be over, because pickpockets are prospering again along the Main Stem.

What ever happened to Gilda Gray? . . . Irene Castle's in town, doing something in the corset, or foundation whadoyoucallem business. Twenty years ago she was dancing here in the scarlet-fever haircut that caused all the bobbing . . . Poor Prince Mike Romanoff! Today he's Manhattan's Vagrant No. 1, ordered by a federal court to move on—preferably far away. He moves instead from night club to night club, and how he lives nobody knows. I saw him at the House of Lords the other evening, sponging, in a nice way, on some amused strangers from Pittsburgh. "It's been such a trying wintah," sighed the Iowa nobleman, "that I think perhaps I should go somewheah —for a rest."

That was a nice gesture of Helen Morgan's, near closing time one recent morning at the Versailles. She ordered out all the waiters, busboys and kitchen help—not forgetting the doorman—established them at ringside tables, bought a round of drinks, perched herself on the piano and went through her entire song routine . . . Girls of Manhattan's Yorkville are Nazi to their fingertips—with nails lacquered in red, white and black . . . A pretty girl bootblack works on Sixth Avenue.

Society Dismounts

Society (society women, at least) largely have deserted Central Park bridle paths since practically all of the rialto's chorus girls have taken to the saddle . . . By and large, the town's horsier than you'd imagine. Three hotels now feature "hunt breakfasts," with riding afterward in the park . . . Down in Greenwich Village, the doorman of the Club Gaucho has been put astride a nag. Provides an impressive welcome when he clatters up, leans down with a flourish and opens your taxicab door.

Lots of movie people hereabout. Saw Lupe Velez, Gary Cooper and Joseph Schenck at Twenty-One. Lupe loves Johneee-e-ee. She said so . . . Katharine Hepburn has attended four plays without being stampeded by autograph hunters . . . Michael Balcon of Gaumont British breezed through with contracts in his pocket for the services of Helen Vinson, Madge Evans, Richard Dix, Maureen O'Sullivan and Boris Karloff.

Youngish Mr. Darryl Zanuck, of the Nebraska Zanucks, became the center of a milling mob from the moment of his arrival from Hollywood. How about a job with Twentieth Century Pictures? How about lunch tomorrow to talk over a little proposition? How about the rumor than his company is going to move to North Carolina? . . . The only question he answered positively is that he isn't going to move to New York . . . After he had been here a few hours, Mr. Zanuck decided to telephone Mrs. Zanuck. But how? He couldn't remember his own telephone number, and his secretary wasn't around. And so, with matters of great moment in abeyance, he spent a half hour going through his luggage to find a little book which, happily, contained the number.

Match for Whiteman

Jimmy Savo, greatest pantomimist this side of Charley Chaplin, (and there are many who'll give you an argument on even that qualification) spends most of his time in a little night spot called the Coin de Paris. He helps entertain. Not for pay; just to keep in practice . . . Paul Whiteman, during his working hours, wears dancing pumps complete with bows . . . One of his routine gags at the Paradise is to ask Eleanore Wood, the very naked dancer, for a match. Other night she fooled him.

"Gotta match?" asked Paul.

"Um-huh," said Eleanore, and extracted a package from her mouth, where it had been held throughout her dance.

Near-tragedy at rehearsal of a new play called "If a Body": Morgan Conway is supposed to hide in a trunk and be locked in. He did hide in the trunk, and was locked in. The key was in his pocket, so a fireman unlocked the trunk with an axe . . . With everybody else in costume, Martin Johnson wore a Tuxedo to society's Jungle Ball . . . If you want to talk to Jack Dempsey, be prepared to admire the snapshots of his latest [illegible]

The Beam In Our Own Eyes

Not long ago a preacher, discussing some of the less obvious of human frailties, made an observation profound in its implications: "How lenient we are with ourselves."

We all know human nature is prone to see the mote in the other fellow's eye and ignore the beam in its own, but few of us are willing to admit that we really do go much further than that. Too often we know that we are doing the very things we would be the first to criticize in somebody else, and we actually see the beam in our own eyes, but even so we can condone and find every excuse for our own poor selves—often the last excuse we'd make for another—and seem to feel that it is pardonable and all entirely different when we are doing it. We smother our little consciences, and baby our own weaknesses, and shut the door of our own common sense, our justice, even our sense of fair play.

Yet what a different world it would be, what a bright and shining world, if we could only throw that same mantle of charity we so hastily snatch up to cover our own shortcomings, over those of others. If we would practice unbendingly what we preach, how little we would have to worry about—how little the other fellow. For we can't change him. He has to do that for himself.

However, we can change ourselves. If we watched ourselves as assiduously and uncompromisingly as we watch him, or if we were as lenient with him as we are with ourselves, he might have a better chance to discover his own faults and learn his own lessons, and what paragons we would be! We wouldn't gossip about ourselves. We would't tell on ourselves. We would be just scrambling around trying as hard as possible to delete everything wrong we knew we were doing or that we saw in ourselves before anybody else found us out. If everybody else was being absolutely honest with himself, most of the ills of the world would be cured—and most of its heartaches!

We have known a very few people courageous enough to do this—people who were not only the first to see their own faults but big enough to admit them. Invariably they have been the salt of the earth. So broad, so generous and so busy with their own affairs they hadn't time to attend, sub rosa, to the affairs of others, and so understanding that their very presence induced faith and trust because they reflected so strongly their own honesty with themselves.

Surely this is worth striving for and worth any twinge the uprootings of pet faults would cost. So why not try it for six months and see for yourself what a different slant you will get on the sins of others—and on your own.

INVESTORS AT SEA

Too many investors of small experience assume that municipal or government supervised securities are soundly protected and wholly safe. As concerns municipal or state securities, the taxing power does, of course, offer a certain guaranty. But when that power has been so abused in the past by piling up such mountains of debt that taxes cannot be collected to meet it, the theory of investors being protected by the taxing power vanishes into thin air. Similarly it does not do to take for granted the soundness of corporations under government supervision, whose securities are not guaranteed by government as to either principal or interest.

The investor is entitled to every safeguard when he contemplates putting his money into such bond issues, but unhappily he does not get it. These classes of securities, though they represent a large fraction of all bond issues, are exempt from the operation of the federal securities act, which was designed to protect the investor. Yet issuing agencies should be compelled to furnish about them the same information required for securities listed under the act. This is all the most important because of the inclination of the investor to suppose this type of offerings all right.

The public should have some other recourse in its bond buying than to bank merely upon assurance of underwriters. It is entitled to authoritative knowledge of what stands behind the securities offered to it.

REVESAL OF FORM

Irene Castle McLaughlin, the dancer, would like to correct the "hideous mistake" for which she holds herself responsible. The mistake was her former advocacy of the boyish figure for women. She feels now that curves are far more lovely.

It is a matter on which we refuse to get worked up, and on which we know better than to take sides. If the ladies desire to go boyish, it is all right with us, so long as they do not diet to a point where their tempers are affected. If they are naturally supplied with curves, to which they wish to conform their costumes, that is equally satisfactory.

They will do as they please, anyway, subject to the dictates of the prevailing modes.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

LINES TO A BEETLE

I know you are out there awaiting
The day when the world will be warm;
I almost can hear you berating
The chill of the late April storm.
Perhaps, even now, you are peering
Just over the top of the soil,
For the days of bright weather are nearing
And already you yearn for your spoil.
You, and your missus, will soon be alert
To dig up the rootlets you find in the dirt.

You will shortly be climbing the roses
And tearing their leaves into shreds,
And poking your keen little noses
Into all the neat new seeded beds.
Through the grass you will busily wriggle,
In the nighttime as well as the dawn,
And doubtless you'll happily giggle
While making a feast of my lawn;
My lawn, which was lately my pride and my joy,
With keen steely fangs you will wreck and destroy.

You may lack the power of reason,
But with teeth quite as sharp as a dirk,
Through every new season on season
You boldly go on with your work.
You rush scamp'ring hither and thither,
You decimate bed after bed,
Till my hardiest rose bushes wither
And even the lilacs fall dead.
And what makes it harder, I know that next year,
As soon as next spring comes, you're sure to be here.

THE SURE SIGN

If you hear low grumblings in the vicinity of the Capitol, you will know that Senator Borah is getting ready to object to something again.

Darrow Deeds Belie Words

By BRUCE CATTON

Clarence Darrow tells reporters that he is a tired old man now, waiting for death ,and adds that he is positive that after death there will be nothing else to wait for, ever.

"I no longer doubt," he says. "I know now that there is nothing after death—nothing to look forward to in joy or fear. I am not an agnostic any more; I am a materialist. There is no evidence under the sun of a supernatural power."

Darrow is not the first man to come to this gloomy conclusion. As long ago as Old Testament days, the writer of Ecclesiastes seems to have had somewhat the same notion.

But just as this Old Testament scribe belied his own doubts by proving that the human spirit can transcend its fleshly limitations, so Darrow, too, in a different way, has left a record that makes his own materialism look hollow.

Clarence Darrow has had a long and active life, and a great deal of it has been filled with desperate, last-ditch battles for men less fortunate than himself. And when you have made all possible allowances for a keen lawyer's delight in the game itself, and for the incentive which high fees can provide, there remains something else which is not accounted for on any basis of strict materialism.

For underneath everything else, Darrow has been moved by a rich human sympathy, an understanding of erring humanity, and a warm desire to take the side of the man whom everybody is against which does not precisely jibe with any philosophy of soulless mechanism.

To try to look beyond the veil is a hopeless proceeding; and if a man cannot accept the assurances of religion, he must look for traces of a better world than this, if he is to find them at all, in the hearts of his fellow men.

There is something about this urge which comes to men like Darrow to take the part of men who cannot fight for themselves which can seem like the soundest of all evidences.

This old warhorse, who has never been too tired to fight somebody else's battle, may think of himself as a blind and helpless pawn of chance, wandering under a starless sky.

But somehow he hasn't acted like one. His deeds have been like the deeds of a man who has seen a gleam of light at the edge of the horizon and who, seeing it, has known that there is more to life than some of us suppose.

He has built his life by a pattern that would be useless if his own despondent belief were true.

His life is about finished, and his words are hopeless. But his life itself is the very stuff of which human hope is made.

"I am not promising a new heaven or a new earth," says a candidate for the British parliament. Obviously, then, the rank reactionary has no legitimate place in our present-day politics.

SO THEY SAY

You know, I rather like Huey. He's very amusing. He's like a popular play, a good show that crowds the gallery. But he ought to be tiring people by now, if he already hasn't.—Frederick H. Prince, financier.

This country spent $30,000,000,000 during the World war for purposes of destruction. Why can't it afford to spend $4,000,000,000 in peacetime for constructive purposes?—Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico.

The CCC camps are becoming hotbeds of radicalism and if these young men are not soon absorbed into legitimate industry, they will become a revolutionary army.—Roger Babson.

New Deal In Washington

WASHINGTON.—The stupidest line of the month seems to be one produced by the AAA in a defense of food costs, referring to the fact that about 20 million people are on relief. As to them, the AAA says officially:

"The price level, the cost of living, whether high or low is to them a matter of little consequence, because they have no purchasing power except that provided by relief."

AAA economists and publicity agents produced that one without consultation with any family which buys food and other necessities on $5 or $10 weekly relief. It is also doubtful whether the 3,500,000 who are to average $12.50 a week on work-relief will consider the cost of living a matter of little consequence.

Since AAA purged itself of a large part of its conscience—through removal of Jerome Frank, Fred Howe, and others who had fought the battles of the consumer within its ranks—it has been noticeably on the defensive on all fronts.

Beleaguered by angry house-wives, greedy processors, and farm leaders and self-seeking politicians, it has sought to apply rosy-hued coloring to itself in the hope of placating the public.

It still isn't as dishonest in misrepresenting facts as are some other government agencies.

Drouth Used Both Ways

Tendency has been to stress the fact that food prices in general are still below the pre-depression level and to take credit with farmers for the drouth and its effect on prices while bemoaning the drouth as an act of God when discussing meat prices with consumers, and promising them lower prices eventually.

Secretly, AAA officials wish they hadn't carried the hog program quite so far, but they don't like to admit it.

AAA's position would be easier if it felt it could stress the fact that the administration's effort to spread purchasing power among the unemployed had not been anywhere near as successful as the effort to boost farm purchasing power.

Meanwhile, it hasn't been made any more comfortable by the federal trade commission's revelation that dairy co-operatives have been making agreements with large milk dealers which fixed prices to consumers as well as to producers.

It was partly because they fought that sort of thing that Frank Howe, and Assistant Administrator Victor Christgau—who said such pacts gave the dealers a lot, the farmers a little, and the consumers a kick in the pants—were thrown to the wolves. (And some of the interests AAA sought to placate by the "purge" are now furiously lobbying against the badly needed AAA amendments on Capitol Hill.)

A Gasp For Congress

A senator has been found who refuses to take a pleasant junket to the balmy Caribbean and its palm-decked coral strands, etc., until congress gets through with its regular work.

This astounding performance is that of Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, a member of the committee to investigate conditions in the Virgin Islands, which Senator Tydings of Maryland, its chairman, wants to take down to the islands in May.

Clark says he can't afford to walk out on his constituents, no matter how seductive the breezes down there, and will resign rather than make the trip.

His position puts other members of the committee—King of Utah, White of Main, and Metcalf of Rhode Island—on the spot. They're undecided and Tydings eventually may have to go alone—or postpone the journey.

Tydings returned from a junket to the Philippines early in February, a month after the session began.

But it's easy to explain his constant yen to leave Capitol Hill and get off to an island somewhere. Washington is surrounded on three sides by the state of Maryland and his office is a mere walk for his job-seeking constituents.

Motorists Are Urged To Have Car Tires Checked

Opening of another spring and summer season of increasingly heavier automobile traffic should cause every car owner to consider the condition of his tire equipment, not only from the standpoint of safety but for the sake of tire economy.

Suggestion that the car owner should have his car's tire equipment carefully checked, not necessarily to buy new ones; but maybe to change the tires around on other wheels on his car to equalize wear; or to check the alignment of wheels to be certain that undue wear is not exacting its toll from tire mileage, is made by 707 Tire Service, local Goodyear dealer, who is in position to offer these services.

"Many car owners are driving their automobiles with wheels slightly out of line; or driving tires that need repairing and could be repaired, or retreaded at slight cost with big mileage recovery; or some owners are taking chances driving on tires that are ready to let go at any time, which is dangerous in today's speedy traffic," said C. R. Tidwell, owner of 707 Service.

Real Estate Transfers

The Central Savings Bank and Trust company sold to Homer Moffett, Friday a lot on Cypress street, West Monroe, for a consideration of $300, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish district court. The lot fronts 47.5 feet on the west side of Cypress street, beginning at a point 47.5 feet from the Travis street intersection, and runs back to a depth of 150 feet.

Albert Thibeaux leased from C. D. Oakley the lot upon which the restaurant building of Frenchie's No. 2 is located at 123 North Second street, for a period of three years. The consideration is $85 a month.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE KNIGHT OF THE BLACK PATCH—William Montacute, second earl of Salisbury (1328-1397), was only 10 years old when he heard his father tell of the secret trip taken by King Edward III of England, to pay homage to the king of France in 1331. The boy decided that he would wear a black patch over his right eye, until England's humiliation should be avenged.

He wore the patch from 1338 until May 8, 1360, the day of the Treaty of Bretigny, in which France ceded a dozen provinces to England besides an indemnity of $8,000,000. Salisbury was one of the English plenipotentiaries in Bretigny. After affixing his signature to the treaty, he removed the patch in token of the expiration of his vow.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN OF SWEDEN—The mountain of Kiirunavaara, in the district of Norbotten, Sweden, is considered to be the greatest occurrence of high grade iron ore in the world. It is estimated that Kiirunavaara, which is 2,455 feet high, and Mount Luosavara, 2,400 feet high contain a billion tons of ore, of 70% iron consistency. More than 3,000,000 tons of 70% iron ore are mined here annually.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK—Broadway meanderings: There's a singing cop in Longacre Square. Evidently believes every policeman is expected to do his ditty . . . He tells me the depression must be over, because pickpockets are prospering again along the Main Stem.

What ever happened to Gilda Gray? . . . Irene Castle's in town, doing something in the corset, or foundation whadoyoucallem business. Twenty years ago she was dancing here in the scarlet-fever haircut that caused all the bobbing . . . Poor Prince Mike Romanoff! Today he's Manhattan's Vagrant No. 1, ordered by a federal court to move on—preferably far away. He moves instead from night club to night club, and how he lives nobody knows. I saw him at the House of Lords the other evening, sponging, in a nice way, on some amused strangers from Pittsburgh. "It's been such a trying wintah," sighed the Iowa nobleman, "that I think perhaps I should go somewheah—for a rest."

That was a nice gesture of Helen Morgan's, near closing time one recent morning at the Versailles. She ordered out all the waiters, busboys and kitchen help—not forgetting the doorman—established them at ringside tables, bought a round of drinks, perched herself on the piano and went through her entire song routine . . . Girls of Manhattan's Yorkville are Nazi to their fingertips—with nails lacquered in red, white and black . . . A pretty girl bootblack works on Sixth Avenue.

Society Dismounts

Society (society women, at least) largely have deserted Central Park bridle paths since practically all of the rialto's chorus girls have taken to the saddle . . . By and large, the town's horsier than you'd imagine. Three hotels now feature "hunt breakfasts," with riding afterward in the park . . . Down in Greenwich Village, the doorman of the Club Gaucho has been put astride a nag. Provides an impressive welcome when he clatters up, leans down with a flourish and opens your taxicab door.

Lots of movie people hereabout. Saw Lupe Velez, Gary Cooper and Joseph Schenck at Twenty-One. Lupe loves Johneee-e-ee. She said so . . . Katharine Hepburn has attended four plays without being stampeded by autograph hunters . . . Michael Balcon of Gaumont British breezed through with contracts in his pocket for the services of Helen Vinson, Madge Evans, Richard Dix, Maureen O'Sullivan and Boris Karloff.

Youngish Mr. Darryl Zanuck, of the Nebraska Zanucks, became the center of a milling mob from the moment of his arrival from Hollywood. How about a job with Twentieth Century Pictures? How about lunch tomorrow to talk over a little proposition? How about the rumor than his company is going to move to North Carolina? . . . The only question he answered positively is that he isn't going to move to New York . . . After he had been here a few hours, Mr. Zanuck decided to telephone Mrs. Zanuck. But how? He couldn't remember his own telephone number, and his secretary wasn't around. And so, with matters of great moment in abeyance, he spent a half hour going through his luggage to find a little book which, happily, contained the number.

Match for Whiteman

Jimmy Savo, greatest pantomimist this side of Charley Chaplin, (and there are many who'll give you an argument on even that qualification) spends most of his time in a little night spot called the Coin de Paris. He helps entertain. Not for pay; just to keep in practice . . . Paul Whiteman, during his working hours, wears dancing pumps complete with bows . . . One of his routine gags at the Paradise is to ask Eleanore Wood, the very naked dancer, for a match. Other night she fooled him.

"Gotta match?" asked Paul.

"Um-huh," said Eleanore, and extracted a package from her mouth, where it had been held throughout her dance.

Near-tragedy at rehearsal of a new play called "If a Body": Morgan Conway is supposed to hide in a trunk and be locked in. He did hide in the trunk, and was locked in. The key was in his pocket, so a fireman unlocked the trunk with an axe . . . With everybody else in costume, Martin Johnson wore a Tuxedo to society's Jungle Ball . . . If you want to talk to Jack Dempsey, be prepared to admire the snapshots of his baby.

POLICE DECLINE TO HOLD DRUNKEN MAN SMEARED WITH OIL

Two plainclothes officers of the Monroe police department who are noted for their ability to get their man, were instructed at police headquarters yesterday afternoon to go to the vicinity of the Illinois Central railroad switch yards and arrest a man reported to be there in an intoxicated condition.

The officers went to the designated locality and found the drunken man there.

But they failed to get their man; they declined to arrest him, even though they had no doubt, whatever, that the man was intoxicated.

Instead of taking the man in custody, the officers called a taxicab, and allowed him to be carried to the home of friends near West Monroe.

The reason the man was not arrested was that he had fallen into and wallowed in a ditch partly filled with sticky, black waste oil. His clothing, more than decent enough before he fell into the ditch, was saturated with the oil. The greasy substance covered his hands, splotched his face and dripped from his hair.

The taxicab driver summoned to the scene was not pleased with the prospect of transporting such a customer, to say the least. Nevertheless, he spread some newspapers on the seat of his cab and the bedraggled drunk sat upon them and was driven away.

Who will say that the man's experience did not exact from him a penalty greater than the payment of a fine of $7.50 for drunkenness?

At any rate, when the two plainclothes men reported to headquarters the reason why they did not get their man, no censure of their action was made.

gained enough information to justify sending an elaborately-equipped expedition into the state to take sound films of the rare species. Mr. Lowery accompanied the expedition into northeast Louisiana when it made its investigation a few weeks ago. The sound films are to be used to acquaint bird lovers all over the country with the appearance and habits of the ivory-billed woodpeckers, which at one time were numerous throughout all the southern states.

Members of the Monroe Junior Charity league will begin Monday morning to call on merchants and business men of the city to solicit their cooperation in producing a special edition of the Morning World and News-Star devoted to the objectives of the organization.

A generous percentage of the proceeds from the special number will go to the Junior league to carry on its work amongst the babies of the city.

At a special meeting of the Junior Charity league, held last Friday afternoon, final arrangements for the special edition were completed, and members of the Junior league were assigned their parts in the activity. Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, chairman of the finance committee, will have charge of the general arrangements, it was announced by Mrs. J. A. Shaw, Jr., the president.

Women keep "harems" of men and dominate all activities in certain sections of Malaysia.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

An attractive new series of six stamps from Sweden commemorates the day 500 years ago when the first riksdag, or parliament, was opened—the first example of government by the people in Sweden. In the year 1435, led by one Engelbrekt Engelbrektsson, the Swedes overthrew the rule of King Eric of Pomerania and became a self-governing people.

Sweden is ruled by four houses of the riksdag, called "estates." It was the custom until 1866 for the four estates to meet separately, and four of the new stamps show the buildings in which they met, as follows: 5 ore, the law courts, which was the meeting-place of the peasants; 10 ore, the exchange, where the burghers assembled; 15 ore, the great church, which housed the clergy; 25 ore, the house of nobles. On the 35 ore we see the present home of all four estates—the house of parliament. The 60 ore depicts a member of each of the four classes who compose the riksdag: a noble, a clergyman, a burgher and a peasant. In the center is seen the coat of arms of Engelbrekt.

A new 50 haleru green stamp issued by Czechoslovakia honors the great Bohemian composer, Antonin Dvorak. (Bohemia, formerly an independent country, is now a province of Czechoslovakia.) Dvorak visited America in 1891 and became the director of the New York Conservatory of Music. One of his most famous compositions, the New World Symphony, is a record of his impressions of this country, and the well known Largo from this symphony is said to have been based on negro melodies. The stamp bears a portrait of Dvorak, who died in 1904. In the border may be seen a number of musical notes from the music of the New World Symphony.

A writer from the Argentine, writing in Linn's Weekly Stamp News, states that the president of Brazil will pay an official visit to Argentina in the latter part of May, and that, in honor of the occasion, a special set of stamps will be issued. Just how many stamps and what values were not mentioned.

Hodge

The wedding of Miss Thelma Ball, of Ruston, to Mr. John Holdon, was solemnized at nine o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Matthew's rectory, Monroe, with Father Gremillion officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Audie Mae Greer and Mr. Charles L. Kelley of Hodge. The bride was attired in a modish gown of blue crepe with contrasting blue accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Greer wore a brown sheer crepe suit with harmonizing accessories.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for Vicksburg and New Orleans. Mrs. Holdon was born and reared and educated in Ruston, where she has always made her home. Mr. Holdon came to Hodge several years ago, from his home in Le Moyne, Maine. Prior to his residence here, Mr. Holdon was employed at the Advance Bag and Paper company of Howland, Maine.

On the eve of her departure for home, Mrs. John E. Kelley was guest of honor at a bridge party given at the home of Mrs. Royal A. Polhamus to a group of her friends. A profusion of lovely pink, white and red roses were artistically arranged throughout the Polhamus home.

At bridge, Mrs. Henry Michaud received a travel-kit of creams and lotions for high score. Mrs. Michael Mooney was given a box of scented talc for second high score. In the high diamond cut, Mrs. Mooney won a costume corsage of spring flowers. To her honoree, the hostess gave a box of engraved note paper.

Delicious refreshments were served to the guests, with a miniature corsage of roses and baby breath souvenirs. Upon leave-taking, Mrs. Polhamus presented her guests with a bouquet of handsome long stemmed pink and red rose buds.

AT THE CAPITOL TODAY

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are co-starred in Fox Film's thrilling new production, "Under Pressure" with Florence Rice lending romantic interest, at the Capitol theater today. Lowe and McLaglen depict the swaggering, devil-may-care sand-hogs who take life as they find it and they find it full of action. "Under Pressure" is one of the most colorful and unique pictures ever made.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—A picture of melody, mirth and romance woven about a love story of the old south came to the Paramount theater yesterday when Paramount's "Mississippi" arrived with Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields and Joan Bennett in the starring cast.

In "Mississippi," Crosby sings for the first time an old favorite, a special arrangement of "Swanee." A chorus of forty negro voices and elaborate settings make this production number one of the highspots of the show.

The story of the picture, adapted from a play by Booth Tarkington, is that of a young Yankee who loses one Dixie sweetheart because he won't duel for her, and almost loses another because he's been doing too much dueling.

Crosby, in the leading role, spends the intervening time between these two romances on the river steamer of Fields, a noisy, blustering braggart who builds him up as the gun-fighting terror of the river, "The Singing Killer."

Songs, comedy and romance are so deftly mixed by Edward Sutherland's direction that "Mississippi" is unflagging entertainment from beginning to end.

Crosby's new hit songs, including the already popular "Soon" and "Down by the River," are the products of Rodgers and Hart. Queenie Smith, Broadway stage star, who makes her debut in "Mississippi," and the Five Cabin Kids, a juvenile negro chorus, assist Crosby in musical numbers.

AT THE CAPITOL—Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are reunited as co-stars in the new Fox film production, "Under Pressure," which plays at the Capitol theater today.

Preview audiences have voted this unique picture the most colorful, the most thrilling and the most human of the notable Lowe-McLaglen series, according to advance reports, and wide interest has been displayed in its release throughout the country.

"Under Pressure," it is said, supplies this outstanding screen team with a type of story, and a background, never before attempted by Hollywood. This background is furnished by the tunneling operations beneath a New York river—and the two stars are seen as "sand hogs," battling perilously against the black waters which surround them.

Only one hour of the twenty-four they spend below the river. That is as long as men can endure the air pressure there. But they draw high pay for that one hour; and in the other twenty-three there is time for love, life and laughter. Such, say advance reports, is the theme of this big human drama.

One of the most extraordinary settings ever seen on the screen was used for this picture—an exact replica of a modern under-river "bore"—many hundreds of feet long.

MODEL AIRPLANES TO BE DEMONSTRATED

A demonstration of the flying of model airplanes will be held at 2:30 this afternoon in the ball park of Forsythe park. Paul Oxley, who has constructed a large model, will demonstrate its flying powers and others are expected to enter into the contest. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in model planes, and a large number of children are expected to be present. The Monroe recreation department is the sponsor.

Originally the demonstration was planned for Selman airport but the place was later changed to Forsythe park.

On Friday the Monroe recreation department held a meeting for organization of boys who desire to secure instruction in the making of model planes.

Another meeting for the organization of a junior department, still younger children who are interested in model planes and their construction, will be held Tuesday at 4 o'clock in the rooms of the recreation department in the city hall. Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of recreation, invites all children who are interested to attend this meeting.

SAFE!
. . . because of a drain pipe

DOWN A DRAIN
OR
BE ABSORBED IN YOUR FOOD?

"Use Covered Dishes," say the mechanical refrigerator people

POISON IN YOUR REFRIGERATOR
When food stuffs are cut off from their natural source of growth they begin to decay. This decay is retarded by keeping them under proper temperature. During this process of decay, even though retarded by chilling, there are certain gases given off by the food. Most prominent of which are sulphur dioxide and chlorine—both of which are POISONOUS.

WHAT HAPPENS IN A MECHANICAL REFRIGERATOR?
There is no outlet for food odors or gases in a mechanical refrigerator. Except for the occasional opening of the door there is absolutely no way for the foul air to be exchanged for fresh. This explains why the mechanical refrigerator people say "USE COVERED DISHES" yet the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture advises against their use because foods spoil more quickly in them.

WHAT TO DO WITH THESE GASES?
Do you think it is a good idea to leave them in your refrigerator? Of course not . . . but one of two things must happen, they must either have an outlet or they will stay in the refrigerator and be absorbed by the food therein. Not only is this true of gases caused by food deterioration but also odors peculiar to certain foods such as cantaloupes, fish, onions, etc.

WHAT HAPPENS IN A MODERN ICE REFRIGERATOR?
It is a scientific fact that water will absorb 100% of ALL gases. On melting the ice there is always present a thin film of water, this absorbs the odorous gases from your refrigerator and takes it down the drain and away from your food. It is for this reason that ANY KIND of food may be placed in your ice refrigerator UNCOVERED and there is no danger of one food absorbing the poisonous gases or odors from other foods.

PROOF—Take a tray of ice cubes from a mechanical refrigerator which contains food, place them in a pitcher and let them melt. Then taste the water. You will immediately detect a nasty, obnoxious taste. This is due to the water in the trays having absorbed gases before freezing. ICE CUBES FROZEN IN A MECHANICAL REFRIGERATOR CONTAIN THE SAME THINGS THAT THE DRAIN PIPE OF AN ICE REFRIGERATOR CONTAIN.

COST OF OPERATION
Ice is still the cheapest and best refrigeration known. Let us prove this to you!

A new 50 haleru green stamp issued by Czechoslovakia honors the great Bohemian composer, Antonin Dvorak. (Bohemia, formerly an independent country, is now a province of Czechoslovakia.) Dvorak visited America in 1891 and became the director of the New York Conservatory of Music. One of his most famous compositions, the New World Symphony, is a record of his impressions of this country, and the well known Largo from this symphony is said to have been based on negro melodies. The stamp bears a portrait of Dvorak, who died in 1904. In the border may be seen a number of musical notes from the music of the New World Symphony.

A writer from the Argentine, writing in Linn's Weekly Stamp News, states that the president of Brazil will pay an official visit to Argentina in the latter part of May, and that, in honor of the occasion, a special set of stamps will be issued. Just how many stamps and what values were not mentioned.

Hodge

The wedding of Miss Thelma Ball, of Ruston, to Mr. John Holdon, was solemnized at nine o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Matthew's rectory, Monroe, with Father Gremillion officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Audie Mae Greer and Mr. Charles L. Kelley of Hodge. The bride was attired in a modish gown of blue crepe with contrasting blue accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Greer wore a brown sheer crepe suit with harmonizing accessories.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for Vicksburg and New Orleans. Mrs. Holdon was born and reared and educated in Ruston, where she has always made her home. Mr. Holdon came to Hodge several years ago, from his home in Le Moyne, Maine. Prior to his residence here, Mr. Holdon was employed at the Advance Bag and Paper company of Howland, Maine.

On the eve of her departure for home, Mrs. John E. Kelley was guest of honor at a bridge party given at the home of Mrs. Royal A. Polhamus to a group of her friends. A profusion of lovely pink, white and red roses were artistically arranged throughout the Polhamus home.

At bridge, Mrs. Henry Michaud received a travel-kit of creams and lotions for high score. Mrs. Michael Mooney was given a box of scented talc for second high score. In the high diamond cut, Mrs. Mooney won a costume corsage of spring flowers. To her honoree, the hostess gave a box of engraved note paper.

Delicious refreshments were served to the guests, with a miniature corsage of roses and baby breath souvenirs. Upon leave-taking, Mrs. Polhamus presented her guests with a bouquet of handsome long stemmed pink and red rose buds.

AT THE CAPITOL TODAY

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are co-starred in Fox Film's thrilling new production, "Under Pressure" with Florence Rice lending romantic interest, at the Capitol theater today. Lowe and McLaglen depict the swaggering, devil-may-care sand-hogs who take life as they find it and they find it full of action. "Under Pressure" is one of the most colorful and unique pictures ever made.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—A picture of melody, mirth and romance woven about a love story of the old south came to the Paramount theater yesterday when Paramount's "Mississippi" arrived with Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields and Joan Bennett in the starring cast.

In "Mississippi," Crosby sings for the first time an old favorite, a special arrangement of "Swanee." A chorus of forty negro voices and elaborate settings make this production number one of the highspots of the show.

The story of the picture, adapted from a play by Booth Tarkington, is that of a young Yankee who loses one Dixie sweetheart because he won't duel for her, and almost loses another because he's been doing too much dueling.

Crosby, in the leading role, spends the intervening time between these two romances on the river steamer of Fields, a noisy, blustering braggart who builds him up as the gun-fighting terror of the river, "The Singing Killer."

Songs, comedy and romance are so deftly mixed by Edward Sutherland's direction that "Mississippi" is unflagging entertainment from beginning to end.

Crosby's new hit songs, including the already popular "Soon" and "Down by the River," are the products of Rodgers and Hart. Queenie Smith, Broadway stage star, who makes her debut in "Mississippi," and the Five Cabin Kids, a juvenile negro chorus, assist Crosby in musical numbers.

AT THE CAPITOL—Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are reunited as co-stars in the new Fox film production, "Under Pressure," which plays at the Capitol theater today.

Preview audiences have voted this unique picture the most colorful, the most thrilling and the most human of the notable Lowe-McLaglen series, according to advance reports, and wide interest has been displayed in its release throughout the country.

"Under Pressure," it is said, supplies this outstanding screen team with a type of story, and a background, never before attempted by Hollywood. This background is furnished by the tunneling operations beneath a New York river—and the two stars are seen as "sand hogs," battling perilously against the black waters which surround them.

Only one hour of the twenty-four they spend below the river. That is as long as men can endure the air pressure there. But they draw high pay for that one hour; and in the other twenty-three there is time for love, life and laughter. Such, say advance reports, is the theme of this big human drama.

One of the most extraordinary settings ever seen on the screen was used for this picture—an exact replica of a modern under-river "bore"—many hundreds of feet long.

MODEL AIRPLANES TO BE DEMONSTRATED

A demonstration of the flying of model airplanes will be held at 2:30 this afternoon in the ball park of Forsythe park. Paul Oxley, who has constructed a large model, will demonstrate its flying powers and others are expected to enter into the contest. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in model planes, and a large number of children are expected to be present. The Monroe recreation department is the sponsor.

Originally the demonstration was planned for Selman airport but the place was later changed to Forsythe park.

On Friday the Monroe recreation department held a meeting for organization of boys who desire to secure instruction in the making of model planes.

Another meeting for the organization of a junior department, still younger children who are interested in model planes and their construction, will be held Tuesday at 4 o'clock in the rooms of the recreation department in the city hall. Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of recreation, invites all children who are interested to attend this meeting.

SAFE!

. . . because of a drain pipe

DOWN A DRAIN
OR
IN YOUR FOOD?

"Use Covered Dishes," say the mechanical refrigerator people

POISON IN YOUR REFRIGERATOR

When food stuffs are cut off from their natural source of growth they begin to decay. This decay is retarded by keeping them under proper temperature. During this process of decay, even though retarded by chilling, there are certain gases given off by the food. Most prominent of these are sulphur dioxide and chlorine—both of which are POISONOUS.

WHAT TO DO WITH THESE GASES?

Do you think it is a good idea to leave them in your refrigerator? Of course not . . . but one of two things must happen, they must either have an outlet or they will stay in the refrigerator and be absorbed by the food therein. Not only is this true of gases caused by food deterioration but also odors peculiar to certain foods such as cantaloupes, fish, onions, etc.

WHAT HAPPENS IN A MECHANICAL REFRIGERATOR?

There is no outlet for food odors or gases in a mechanical refrigerator. Except for the occasional opening of the door there is absolutely no way for the foul air to be exchanged for fresh. This explains why the mechanical refrigerator people say "USE COVERED DISHES" yet the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture advises against their use because foods spoil more quickly in them.

WHAT HAPPENS IN A MODERN ICE REFRIGERATOR?

It is a scientific fact that water will absorb 100% of ALL gases. On melting ice there is always present a thin film of water, this absorbs the odorous gases from your refrigerator and takes it down the drain and away from your food. This is the reason that ANY KIND of food may be placed in your ice refrigerator UNCOVERED and not absorb the poisonous gases or odors from other foods.

PROOF—Take a tray of ice cubes from a mechanical refrigerator which contains food, place them in a pitcher and let them melt. Then taste the water. You will immediately detect a nasty, obnoxious taste. This is due to the water in the trays having absorbed gases before freezing. ICE CUBES FROZEN IN A MECHANICAL REFRIGERATOR CONTAIN THE SAME THINGS THAT THE DRAIN PIPE OF AN ICE REFRIGERATOR CONTAIN.

COST OF OPERATION

Ice is still the cheapest and best refrigeration known. Let us prove this to you!

for other pressing administrative matters.

[illegible] the NRA suggestion brought an immediate protest from Senator Borah which foreshadowed difficulty in a general agreement for a temporary extension.

While there was some talk on Capitol Hill about delaying further action on the house-approved social security bill, a high ranking administration senator said there was no present design in the senate to drop the measure. Nevertheless, some Democrats claimed that if Mr. Roosevelt insists upon its enactment at this session, the July 1, quitting hope will fade away.

The log jam was in the senate, where a filibuster over the anti-lynching bill tied up progress through the week and delayed plans of leaders to bring up Monday the Harrison bonus compromise bill. Efforts to sidetrack the anti-lynching bill were planned by southern Democrats again Monday. If successful, this would clear way for the bonus compromise and undoubtedly keep that branch busy for another week.

The house calendar was fairly clear. That branch has passed the social security, bonus, and the work-relief bill—the latter the only major administration measure which has become law—and begins consideration of the administration's omnibus banking bill Monday.

After disposing of the banking measure, house leaders planned to consider successively the Rayburn-Wheeler bill to outlaw utility holding companies, the administration's new ship subsidy bill and legislation to continue $420,000,000 in miscellaneous taxes.

"We are going right ahead with our investigations in Louisiana," Elmer L. Irey, chief of the internal revenue bureau's intelligence unit, said.

"Naturally I am gratified over the outcome of our first case to reach the trial stage," he added. "That is just a start, however, there are seven other cases yet to be tried, at the present time, and there may be more before the inquiry is completed."

Irey commended the way Dan Moody, special assistant to the attorney general and former governor of Texas, handled presentation of the case which yesterday resulted in conviction of State Representative Joseph Fisher, a friend of Senator Long.

A corps of more than 25 agents of Irey's unit, working under personal direction of A. D. Burford, agent in charge at New Orleans, are seeking evidence of an alleged conspiracy to defeat the income tax law.

SAILOR QUIZZED IN IVAR DEATH

said, "when Howard said to me: 'Go downstairs and wait in the car for me; I want to talk to Paul.'

"So I went down to the garage where the car was kept and walked around for a while," McDermitt continued. "Suddenly I realized that there was Howard in the car, driving off.

"He hollered at me about meeting him somewhere but I couldn't catch it, he was speeding away so fast.

"I went back upstairs. I intended borrowing some money to get back to San Pedro. I asked the apartment house clerk to let me in the apartment. He did.

"As I stepped through the doorway I saw Paul on the floor, all bloody. The old lady (Mrs. Ada Wharton, Ivar's foster mother) was beside him. She looked up at me and asked: 'Who are you?'

"I told her I was a friend of Paul's. I saw there had been a shooting although I hadn't heard any shots. So I thought I'd better get out of there. I went into the kitchen and jumped out a window. Then I bummed my way back to San Pedro and stayed with friends."

The sailor said he did not know Ivar or Howard until last Sunday when they "picked me up when I was on my way from San Pedro to Los Angeles."

McDermitt said he then stayed at Howard's house. On one occasion the sailor said Howard told him "that if Paul thought he could beat him out of the $75 he owed him (Howard) for salary, he'd find he was the wrong guy to beat."

The sailor said he saw a revolver at Howard's house but did not know he carried it to Ivar's dinner Thursday night.

At Ivar's, McDermitt said, Howard went out to buy the food for dinner.

"I think he must have talked to Paul about money matters," the sailor continued, "because Paul told me, 'I have a check coming to me for $1,800 and I'll straighten everything up with Bill.'"

McDermitt said "everything was o. k." at dinner, up to the time Howard asked him to wait outside the apartment.

After seeing his name in the newspaper stories of the tragedy, McDermitt said he changed hurriedly from civilian clothes to his uniform and returned to his ship, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, late yesterday.

Aboard ship he told his story to Commander E. W. McKee. The latter notified county authorities, who came aboard and obtained the statement.

Still more of Ivar's peculiarities, which included a penchant for perfumes and cosmetics, were disclosed when some of his clients reported he was fond of claiming to be half Chinese.

MEXICO DECLARES BANKING HOLIDAY

MEXICO, D. F., April 27.—(AP)—A bank holiday—President Roosevelt's recourse against financial panic soon after his inauguration—was Mexico's answer today to the Roosevelt silver policies.

Rising prices of the white metal caused by the United States treasury's advanced purchasing price pushed Mexico's peso up to the point where it would be profitable to melt it down and sell it for bullion.

To prevent that, the government yesterday ordered coins surrendered to the Bank of Mexico in exchange for paper certificates to be issued against the silver reserve thus accumulated. Export of silver coin was forbidden.

Today President Lazaro Cardenas' administration ordered all banks closed in order to permit adjustments to the new monetary regulations. It was announced they would be open again Monday as usual.

WORK PROGRESSES ON SEVERAL JOBS IN THIS SECTION

good progress is being made in erecting the concrete columns.

Central Construction company has not yet received a work order for paving the road to Brown Paper mill, but, in addition to the bridge work here, is engaged in a big bridge project at Alexandria. At that place the company is building a bridge across Red river and is building an overpass over the Texas and Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroad. The entire job at this place calls for laying about 60 spans of concrete.

Major construction jobs at Bastrop include repairs to the courthouse at a cost of about $32,000 and the erection of a new postoffice building. Work on the postoffice was started Tuesday and the courthouse work will begin Monday.

A paving job at Jonesboro calls for the laying of a concrete sidewalk from Jonesboro high school to the paper mill at Hodge, a distance of about three miles.

The Louisiana state highway commission is advertising for bids on laying two miles of paving at Rayville. Bids on this job will be opened May 15 and the work is expected to be started about May 25 and completed August 25.

T. L. James is pouring concrete on a paving job at Ruston.

Street improvements are being completed at Newellton. Work of laying asphalt paving has practically been completed, but there are still a few buildings to be moved back to give sufficient right-of-way clearance.

Work is also getting under way on the new postoffice building at Tallulah.

About a mile of concrete paving has been completed at Oak Grove, with the exception of a small amount of shoulder work.

At Bernice work is going forward on a six-mile asphalt paving job.

Construction of five miles of concrete highway will start soon at Winnfield.

Painting and other finishing work is being done on the Three rivers bridge across the Bouef river on the Winnfield-Columbia highway, about 12 miles out of Columbia. Riveting work is being done on the bascule span on the bridge across the Ouachita river at Columbia. Other spans of the bridge have been completed and it is hoped the contract will be completed about July 1.

"a showdown" on the whole status of the German navy, including her demand for 35 per cent of the British tonnage.

Naval experts said the disclosure might "well prove of inestimable benefit for military France in awakening naval Britain to the dangers of Hitler's armaments policy."

France's system of mobilization would be seriously menaced, it was said, if the reich is granted her demands, which amount to approximate parity with the French fleet.

Naval circles said if Germany were as strong as France on the sea the movement of munitions and food stuffs from neutral countries into France would be practically paralyzed.

Although observers stressed that the reported 250-ton submarines would probably be confined to operations in narrow waters of the North Sea, they said such craft could "wreak havoc" with importations into this country from the Americas.

SAILOR QUIZZED IN IVAR DEATH

said, "when Howard said to me: 'Go downstairs and wait in the car for me; I want to talk to Paul.'

"So I went down to the garage where the car was kept and walked around for a while," McDermitt continued. "Suddenly I realized that there was Howard in the car, driving off.

"He hollered at me about meeting him somewhere but I couldn't catch it, he was speeding away so fast.

"I went back upstairs. I intended borrowing some money to get back to San Pedro. I asked the apartment house clerk to let me in the apartment. He did.

"As I stepped through the doorway I saw Paul on the floor, all bloody. The old lady (Mrs. Ada Wharton, Ivar's foster mother) was beside him. She looked up at me and asked; 'Who are you?'

"I told her I was a friend of Paul's. I saw there had been a shooting although I hadn't heard any shots. So I thought I'd better get out of there I went into the kitchen and jumped out a window. Then I bummed my way back to San Pedro and stayed with friends."

The sailor said he did not know Ivar or Howard until last Sunday when they "picked me up when I was on my way from San Pedro to Los Angeles."

McDermitt said he then stayed at Howard's house. On one occasion the sailor said Howard told him "that if Paul thought he could beat him out of the $75 he owed him (Howard) for salary, he'd find he was the wrong guy to beat."

The sailor said he saw a revolver at Howard's house but did not know he carried it to Ivar's dinner Thursday night.

At Ivar's, McDermitt said, Howard went out to buy the food for dinner.

"I think he must have talked to Paul about money matters," the sailor continued, "because Paul told me, 'I have a check coming to me for $1,800 and I'll straighten everything up with Bill."

McDermitt said "everything was o. k." at dinner, up to the time Howard asked him to wait outside the apartment.

After seeing his name in the newspaper stories of the tragedy, McDermitt said he changed hurriedly from civilian clothes to his uniform and returned to his ship, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, late yesterday.

Aboard ship he told his story to Commander E. W. McKee. The latter notified county authorities, who came aboard and obtained the statement.

Still more of Ivar's peculiarities, which included a penchant for perfumes and cosmetics, were disclosed when some of his clients reported he was fond of claiming to be half Chinese.

MEXICO DECLARES BANKING HOLIDAY

MEXICO, D. F., April 27.—(AP)—A bank holiday—President Roosevelt's recourse against financial panic soon after his inauguration—was Mexico's answer today to the Roosevelt silver policies.

Rising prices of the white metal caused by the United States treasury's advanced purchasing price pushed Mexico's peso up to the point where it would be profitable to melt it down and sell it for bullion.

To prevent that, the government yesterday ordered coins surrendered to the Bank of Mexico in exchange for paper certificates to be issued against the silver reserve thus accumulated. Export of silver coin was forbidden.

Today President Lazaro Cardenas' administration ordered all banks closed in order to permit adjustments to the new monetary regulations. It was announced they would be open again Monday as usual.

WORK PROGRESSES ON SEVERAL JOBS IN THIS SECTION

good progress is being made in erecting the concrete columns.

Central Construction company has not yet received a work order for paving the road to Brown Paper mill, but, in addition to the bridge work here, is engaged in a big bridge project at Alexandria. At that place the company is building a bridge across Red river and is building an overpass over the Texas and Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroad. The entire job at this place calls for laying about 60 spans of concrete.

Major construction jobs at Bastrop include repairs to the courthouse at a cost of about $32,000 and the erection of a new postoffice building. Work on the postoffice was started Tuesday and the courthouse work will begin Monday.

A paving job at Jonesboro calls for the laying of a concrete sidewalk from Jonesboro high school to the paper mill at Hodge, a distance of about three miles.

The Louisiana state highway commission is advertising for bids on laying two miles of paving at Rayville. Bids on this job will be opened May 15 and the work is expected to be started about May 25 and completed August 25.

T. L. James is pouring concrete on a paving job at Ruston.

Street improvements are being completed at Newellton. Work of laying asphalt paving has practically been completed, but there are still a few buildings to be moved back to give sufficient right-of-way clearance.

Work is also getting under way on the new postoffice building at Tallulah.

About a mile of concrete paving has been completed at Oak Grove, with the exception of a small amount of shoulder work.

At Bernice work is going forward on a six-mile asphalt paving job.

Construction of five miles of concrete highway will start soon at Winnfield.

Painting and other finishing work is being done on the Three rivers bridge across the Bouef river on the Winnfield-Columbia highway, about 12 miles out of Columbia. Riveting work is being done on the bascule span on the bridge across the Ouachita river at Columbia. Other spans of the bridge have been completed and it is hoped the contract will be completed about July 1.

"a showdown" on the whole status of the German navy, including her demand for 35 per cent of the British tonnage.

Naval experts said the disclosure might "well prove of inestimable benefit for military France in awakening naval Britain to the dangers of Hitler's armaments policy."

France's system of mobilization would be seriously menaced, it was said, if the reich is granted her demands, which amount to approximate parity with the French fleet.

Naval circles said if Germany were as strong as France on the sea the movement of munitions and food stuffs from neutral countries into France would be practically paralyzed.

Although observers stressed that the reported 250-ton submarines would probably be confined to operations in narrow waters of the North Sea, they said such craft could "wreak havoc" with importations into this country from the Americas.

INDIANS CONTINUE CLIMB AT EXPENSE OF TIGERS

TRIBE JUMPS ON PAIR OF HURLERS FOR 9-2 VICTORY

Big Hal Trosky Leads Cleveland Attack With Two Home Runs

CLEVELAND, April 27.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians scored their sixth consecutive victory today by trouncing the Detroit Tigers in a lopsided contest, 9 to 2.

Hal Trosky, the Tribe's first baseman, walloped two homers and a double to contribute to a total of five runs to the Indians' total.

Hughes and Vosmik were aboard when Trosky rifled a hit over the right field wall in the initial inning. He connected for a double in the second to score Vosmik. The first to the plate in the seventh, the rangy youth again looped the right field screen for four bases.

Bruce Campbell, right fielder, turned in his second homer in as many days in the first frame with Hale on base.

The Tribe tallied five of their runs in the opening inning, driving Bridges from the mound. Hatter replaced him.

Mel Harder was found for 11 hits by the Detroiters. The Indians made four hits off Bridges in one-third inning, three off Hatter in four and two-thirds innings and five off Fischer in three.

Glenn Myatt, Tribe backstop, engaged in a dispute with Umpire Owens in the first inning, complaining that a ball pitched to Greenberg should have been called a strike. Other players rushed to the scene but the arbiters promptly had the situation in hand.

Jesuits Beat Ouachita, 2-0, In Twelve Innings

Jays Take Title In Thriller; Baton Rouge Wins Track Meet

BATON ROUGE, April 27.—(AP)—Jesuits of New Orleans this afternoon won the state high school rally baseball championship by defeating Ouachita parish high of Monroe 2 to 0 in a classic and hard fought twelve inning contest. The New Orleans Bluejays were defending champions.

The game was as close as any ever played in the rally finals with little to choose between regarding either team's chances of winning until the last stanza when Jesuits broke up a scoreless deadlock to make two runs and win.

The Orleanians got five hits and committed four errors while the Monroe nine got six bingles and were guilty of three bobbles.

BATON ROUGE, April 27.—(AP)—Baton Rouge won the annual state high school rally track and field tournament today with a total of 36 points. Istrouma of East Baton Rouge parish was next with 28 1-2 points, Baker third with 21, Bolton of Alexandria fourth with 14, Mangham fifth with 13 and Fortier of New Orleans sixth with 8 points.

The spike victory gave Baton Rouge a sweep of both scholastic and track and field sections of the rally. Ouachita of Monroe was second in the scholastic events.

Revised official figures tonight credited the local school with 77 scholastic points, Ouachita with 55, Lake Charles with 45 and Bolton of Alexandria 40.

Fortier of New Orleans took the boys' swimming meet with 36 points, while Easton of New Orleans was second with 30.

Lutcher won the girls' swimming with 37 points to 21 for Baton Rouge and 15 for Lake Charles.

The track and field triumph was the 12th for Baton Rouge in 13 tournaments.

Two track records were broken—one when Bill Kirchem of Easton outsprinted Ray Nash of Mangham in a 50.8 quarter, taking two points off the record Nash set yesterday of 51 flat, and the other when Stanley Brown of Mangham ran a 4:33.2 mile to beat the previous record holder, J. H. Welch of Lecompte.

Billy Brown, the Baker, La., 16-year-old sensational high school sophomore, while he did not measure up to past performance, was high point man of the meet, rolling up 19 points.

Wesley Barnett, Baton Rouge, won the boys' tennis singles by defeating Atwood Rice of Fortier, 6-1, 5-7, 6-0.

Rice and Crais of Fortier took the boys' doubles title by winning over Fajoni and Carpenter of Amite, 6-3, 6-1.

The girls' tennis doubles championship went to Regina Bordelon and Marion Gray of St. Francis Xavier of Alexandria who beat Sarah Rhody and Mary Louise Vernon of Amite, 6-2, 6-2.

Ruth Bunn and Anna Ayres of Bolton won third place in girls' doubles by winning from Jean Sholars and June Moffett of Ouachita high by default.

100 yards—Brown, Baker; Davis, Baton Rouge; Malgroue, Fortier; Harmon, Waterproof. 10 flat.

120 yard hurdles—Wax, Baton Rouge; Russell, Istrouma; Perkins, Oakdale; Paine, Terrebonne. 15.6.

Ole Miss Track Squad Beats Millsaps, 69-48

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 27.—(AP)—Displaying unexpected strength the Millsaps track team today held the University of Mississippi Harriers to a 69-to-48 win in the opening meet of the season for the university athletes. The Millsaps squad presented practically a one man track team in Louis Sutherland, who individually accounted for twenty-six of his team's points. The versatile Meridian athlete took first places in the pole vault, shot put, high jump, 100-yard dash, and second in both the discus and broad jump. On top of this spectacular performance Sutherland stepped the last lap of the relay, but a 30-yard lead piled up by the first three Ole Miss runners was a bit too much for him to overcome.

The time in all the events was comparatively slow due to a soggy track, and no school records were broken. Faster time is promised next week, however, when the fast Alabama Crimson runners come to the campus for a dual meet with the University of Mississippi runners.

MERCHANTS MEET LEAGUE LEADERS AT LOCAL PARK

Mayor To Toss Out First Ball And Players Will Get Prizes

The Monroe Merchants open their home season in the Ouachita Valley league here today when they meet the strong Fairbanks aggregation at Forsythe park at 3:15 p.m.

Meanwhile the Brown Paper mill squad will be going against the Swartz Carbon Blackers on the Brownies' diamond in West Monroe, and the Sterlington and Ruston clubs, only other teams in the six-club circuit, will meet at Sterlington.

The clash between the Merchants and Fairbanks will be marked by ceremonies in which Mayor Arnold Bernstein and city commissioners will have a part in the opening of a baseball season here for the first time since the days of the old Cotton States' league.

Mayor Bernstein is scheduled to hurl the first ball of the game to start the local season, Manager Nick Bruscato of the Merchants said, while Commissioner R. D. Swayze will be on the receiving end of the toss.

The Monroe club suffered its first defeat in the opening day game against the Brown squad last Sunday on the West Monroe diamond but came back strong in their next contest to beat Swartz, 10 to 3, and are now on their way to the top of the loop, Manager Bruscato thinks.

"Monroe has one of the best semi-pro clubs in northeast Louisiana," Bruscato said yesterday, "and the Merchants are going to prove it before many more games are played."

Besides the tossing out of the first ball, contests among the players will take place before the battle begins. Base running and ball tossing will feature the individual contests.

Repairs have been made at the park during the past week or two under the supervision of Commissioner Swayze and the diamond will be in perfect shape for this afternoon's encounter, it was said.

Manager Bruscato said last night that he would start Joe Demaron on the mound, with Bob Avinger receiving. Both Demaron and Avinger played with the Winnsboro club in the Big Six league last year. The batting order will be Curry, shortstop; Lee, left field; J. Williams, right field; Avinger, catcher; Trammell, second base; McClain, center field; Bruscato, third base; Hyde, first base, and Demaron, pitcher.

Manager Buck Norman of the Fairbanks club said last night that Malone, a right-hander, would be Fairbanks' starting hurler, with Fiser held in reserve. The Fairbanks club won the Ouachita Valley league championship last year and is favored to repeat.

Bruscato said yesterday that prizes will be given to Monroe players making the first run, first hit, first double, first triple, first home run, most hits and first stolen base.

President Dent has assigned Umpire Harrington to the Monroe-Fairbanks game.

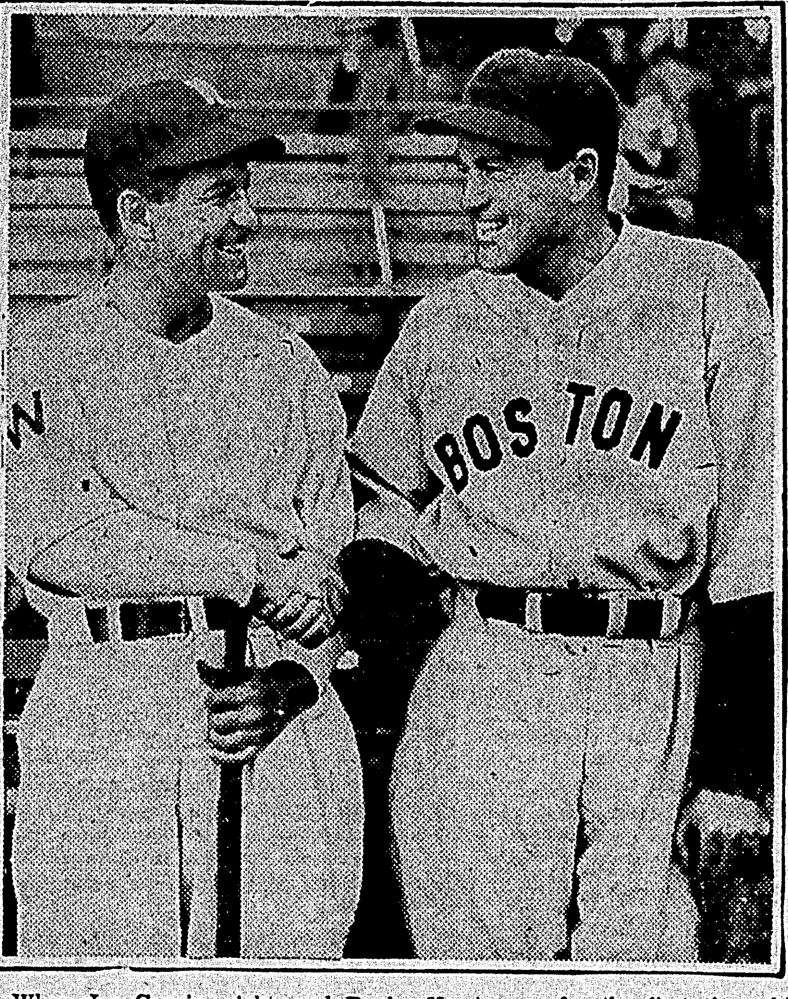
'GOOD LUCK—AGAINST OTHERS!'



When Joe Cronin, right, and Bucky Harris met for the first time this season, the first question they asked each other was, "How do you like my old job?" The pair who became boy managers in Washington exchanged places during the winter, Cronin stepping into Harris' shoes with the Boston Red Sox, and the once mine boy returning to the club which he guided to championships in 1924 and 1925.

Bonura May Eat Himself Out Of Big Time Baseball

Jimmy Dykes Believes Zeke's Appetite Threatens His Career

By Jimmy Donahue
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

Chicago's surprising White Sox are going to lose the batting punch that is keeping them in the hair of the American league leaders if big Zeke Bonura doesn't curb his appetite for spaghetti and bananas and cream.

So says Jimmy Dykes, who, as boss of the Sox and signer of meal checks, has been gazing aghast at the huge quantities of the stringy dough Bonura has been stowing away, and who is in a position to know that overtraining at the festive board means a quick ticket back to the bushes.

"Zeke is eating his way out of the majors," Jimmy has said. "If he doesn't change his diet, his career will end in a hurry."

The Sox first sacker, who ranked sixth in home run swatting in the American league in 1934 with 27 circuit clouts, and who has a big future in store as a slugger, HAS changed his diet. It is doubtful, however, if his switch from miles of spaghetti to barbecued spareribs is going to keep weight from piling onto his own ribs.

It isn't the quantity of food a ball player stows away as much as what kinds of food he eats that puts weight on his waistline, slows him down to minor league speed, and spells his demise.

That's the opinion of Rogers Hornsby, boss of the St. Louis Browns, who, in managerial posts in both leagues, has marveled at the appetites of many ball players. But as many as he has seen hit .400 at the table, he never has had a player on his squad eat himself out of the league.

The reason is that the Rajah insisted on ball players eating foods that agreed with them.

"Plenty of big eaters have stuck around in the majors for a long time," Hornsby relates.

"Fatty Fothergill, former Detroit and Boston outfielder, could stuff it in with the best of them, yet he was one of the best gardeners in the business for years. Hack Wilson was another who could eat with the best of the trenchermen, but he didn't begin to slip until he started eating the wrong kinds of food.

"Big ball players like Fothergill, Wilson, Babe Ruth, Babe Herman, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, and others need lots of food, or they become undernourished and lose the power in their big frames. This condition is just as bad as a player eating too much starchy and sweet food ant becoming fat, flabby and out of condition. Steaks and plenty of vegetables never put on weight.

"An example of a ball player eating what didn't agree with him was Babe Ruth. You'll remember a few years back when he had such a mania for hot dogs and pop that he contracted a stomach condition that threatened to end his career.

"So it is with any player. Their careers depend on their condition, and it is up to them to watch their diet to prolong their life in baseball."

Bonira has declared that spaghetti gives him batting power, and points to the fact that, after eating a big dinner of it one recent Sunday, he went out against the Browns and hit two home runs in one game, knocking in five counters. Shortly after, he duplicated the feat against Detroit, batting in four runs with two homers.

All this may be true, but Dykes, in asserting that Bonura is eating himself to a fall, probably had in mind the fact that the huge 205-pound first sacker isn't exactly a gazelle when it comes to fielding finesse.

He is aware of Bonura's punch at the plate, but he doesn't want his punch at the table platter to bring about any drop in his standards of defensive play.

BRAVES SCORE 4 RUNS IN 6TH TO DEFEAT DODGERS

Ruth Goes Hitless But Boston Topples Brooklyn From Lead

BROOKLYN, April 27.—(AP)—Babe Ruth accomplished nothing of note, except that he brought out a crowd of 21,600 paying fans, when he returned to the National league wars today but his teammates with Dutch Brandt on the mound, ended the Brooklyn Dodgers' five-game winning streak and tumbled them out of the National league lead with a 4-to-2 victory.

On the "game" count, the Dodgers still top the Giants by a half game, but a quirk of the early season averages gives the victorious New Yorkers first place, .750 to Brooklyn's .727.

Brandt held the Dodgers to six hits, one less than the Braves obtained off the combined deliveries of Ray Benge and two rookies left handers, Frank Lamanske and Bob Logan.

All the scoring came in the sixth inning. The Braves, held to one blow in the first fives frames, drove Benge out with four hits and as many runs. The Dodgers came back with their pair of tallies on the third of Len Koenecke's four walks, Sam Leslie's double and Tony Cuccinello's single but could make no more headway.

Ruth, showing no ill effects of the cold that kept him out for a couple of days grounded out once, fouled out the second time up and finally retired after being called out on strikes in the seventh.

REDS SHADE CUBS

CINCINNATI, April 27.—(AP)—Paul Derringer won his own ball game today as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 1.

He held the Cubs helpless, fanning the last four men to face him. He bunted in a squeeze play in the fourth inning to score Goodman with what proved to be the winning run.

It was his second victory over the Cubs this year, and his third win of the season.

Racing World Awaits 61st Running Of Kentucky Derby Saturday

By John J. Romano

The eyes of the horse racing world will be centered on Churchill Downs next Saturday when the finest three-year-olds in training face the barrier for the sixty-first running of the Kentucky derby. Originally the distance was a mile and a half. After twenty-one years it was shortened by a quarter of a mile and has remained so since.

The Kentucky derby, patterned after the world's famous English derby, which originated in 1780, has been won by slightly less than fifty per cent of the post time favorites, twenty-eight to be exact.

Last year Cavalcade was the standout in the field and ran like one. This year Joseph E. Widener's Futurity winner, Chance Sun, is likely to go to the post the favorite, but those who have watched other entrants in training do not hold he same view with the result that the race is an open one. But should the weather change the course into a sea of mud, Chance Sun will have things much his own as he is a mudlark and revels in that kind of going.

Psychic Bid One Of Favorites

Checking over the list of probable starters one cannot overlook the chances of Psychic Bid. Bob Smith, trainer of the Brookmeade stable which produced Cavalcade last year, thinks he has the winner because his horse has a nice flight of speed and if the lucky breaks are with Psychic Bid in getting away swiftly from the barrier he will be hard to catch.

Last year Mata Hari tried to duplicate the feat of Regret, the only filly to win the classic which was in 1915, but she finished fourth. Again this year another filly has been nominated. She is Nellie Flag, daughter of American Flag and Nellie Morse, and entered by Warren Wright. Nellie Flag should show up well, as she will have a lighter weight impost than the sturdier colts.

Plat Eye, the Greentree stable entry, ran some fine races as a two-year-old. From this he should get more consideration than has been shown by those who make it a business of rating the worth of prize horse flesh. But there is a suspicion that Plat Eye has bad feet and this tends to lessen his chances considerably in a field of sound horses. Last year Plat Eye accounted for four victories in nine starts which earned $27,030 for his owner.

Must Be Reckoned With

Matagna, a fine big looking black gelding that ran second to Black Helen in the Florida derby, is an entry. Black Helen had no trouble outfooting the sturdy Mantagna but it cannot be denied that the latter ran a srong race and finished running easily. This inclines many sharpers to think that Mantagna may be placed with other notable geldings, such as Exterminator and Clyde Van Dusen, two winners of the Kentucky wreath and gold cup.

The Belair Stud's entry, Omaha, is attracting some attention despite the opinion of form students who do not think he is rated a derby winner, if rated on his two-year-old form. Again it must be pointed out that although six favorites won the classic in the last ten years, past performance charts do not always point to the winner in a race of this kind. Cavalcade was not much as a two-year-old. He was a slow beginner. This is a terrific handicap in short dashes. He showed his real form in lengthened distances last year, and the ease with which he kicked dust in the eyes of those trying to catch him as he thundered down the stretch last May confirmed his ranking as the outstanding three-year-old of the year. Omaha may be like him.

Interest In Bradley Entries

Sailor Beware, Blackbirder, Carroll Day, Try Sympathy and Commonwealth are considered good enough to make it hot for the favorite. Any one of them, with a bit of what has been called racing luck, may upset the calculations of the smart guessers. Back in 1913 a rank outsider, Donerail, paid close to 93 to 1 on his chances of outfooting better respected entrans in a dash to the wire. Against this, too, it is well to remember that horses figured as heavily as 1 to 3 have rewarded the form players. But that has not happened in twenty years.

No summation of Kentucky derby possibilities would be complete without a word on Col. E. R. Bradley. The bland gambler has Boxthorn and Big Gawk carrying his famous colors.

Col. Bradley bred innumerable good race horses at his Idle Hour farm and proudly saw four of them annex the Kentucky feature, Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, Burgoo King and Broker's Tip. Not only does Bradley want to win the derby for the $40,000 added and the gold cup, but he wants to be the third owner to win the derby five times. This feat is credited to A. J. Alexander, who won with Baden-Baden, Fonso, Joe Cotton, Chant and His Eminence, and by that old master of horses, John E. Madden, who watched Rosebud, Sir Barton, Paul Jones, Zev and Flying Ebony garner the laurels.

No matter how good a horse appears before the starter sends the field away, do not count a Bradley entry out until after the race has been run.

Big Hal Trosky Leads Cleveland Attack With Two Home Runs

CLEVELAND, April 27.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians scored their sixth consecutive victory today by trouncing the Detroit Tigers in a lopsided contest, 9 to 2.

Hal Trosky, the Tribe's first baseman, walloped two homers and a double to contribute to a total of five runs to the Indians' total.

Hughes and Vosmik were aboard when Trosky rifled a hit over the right field wall in the initial inning. He connected for a double in the second to score Vosmik. The first to the plate in the seventh, the rangy youth again looped the right field screen for four bases.

Bruce Campbell, right fielder, turned in his second homer in as many days in the first frame with Hale on base.

The Tribe tallied five of their runs in the opening inning, driving Bridges from the mound. Hatter replaced him.

Mel Harder was found for 11 hits by the Detroiters. The Indians made four hits off Bridges in one-third inning, three off Hatter in four and two-thirds innings and five off Fischer in three.

Glenn Myatt, Tribe backstop, engaged in a dispute with Umpire Owens in the first inning, complaining that a ball pitched to Greenberg should have been called a strike. Other players rushed to the scene but the arbiters promptly had the situation in hand.

Jays Take Title In Thriller; Baton Rouge Wins Track Meet

BATON ROUGE, April 27.—(AP)—Jesuits of New Orleans this afternoon won the state high school rally baseball championship by defeating Ouachita parish high of Monroe 2 to 0 in a classic and hard fought twelve inning contest. The New Orleans Bluejays were defending champions.

The game was as close as any ever played in the rally finals with little to choose between regarding either team's chances of winning until the last stanza when Jesuits broke up a scoreless deadlock to make two runs and win.

The Orleanians got five hits and committed four errors while the Monroe nine got six bingles and were guilty of three bobbles.

BATON ROUGE, April 27.—(AP)—Baton Rouge won the annual state high school rally track and field tournament today with a total of 36 points. Istrouma of East Baton Rouge parish was next with 28 1-2 points, Baker third with 21, Bolton of Alexandria fourth with 14, Mangham fifth with 13 and Fortier of New Orleans sixth with 8 points.

The spike victory gave Baton Rouge a sweep of both scholastic and track and field sections of the rally. Ouachita of Monroe was second in the scholastic events.

Revised official figures tonight credited the local school with 77 scholastic points, Ouachita with 55, Lake Charles with 45 and Bolton of Alexandria 40.

Fortier of New Orleans took the boys' swimming meet with 36 points, while Easton of New Orleans was second with 30.

Lutcher won the girls' swimming with 37 points to 21 for Baton Rouge and 15 for Lake Charles.

The track and field triumph was the 12th for Baton Rouge in 13 tournaments.

Two track records were broken—one when Bill Kirchem of Easton outsprinted Ray Nash of Mangham in a 50.8 quarter, taking two points off the record Nash set yesterday of 51 flat, and the other when Stanley Brown of Mangham ran a 4:33.2 mile to beat the previous record holder, J. H. Welch of Lecompte.

Billy Brown, the Baker, La., 16-year-old sensational high school sophomore, while he did not measure up to past performance, was high point man of the meet, rolling up 19 points.

Wesley Barnett, Baton Rouge, won the boys' tennis singles by defeating Atwood Rice of Fortier, 6-1, 5-7, 6-0.

Rice and Crais of Fortier took the boys' doubles title by winning over Fajoni and Carpenter of Amite, 6-3, 6-1.

The girls' tennis doubles championship went to Regina Bordelon and Marion Gray of St. Francis Xavier of Alexandria who beat Sarah Rhody and Mary Louise Vernon of Amite, 6-2, 6-2.

Ruth Bunn and Anna Ayres of Bolton won third place in girls' doubles by winning from Jean Sholars and June Moffett of Ouachita high by default.

Ole Miss Track Squad Beats Millsaps, 69-48

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 27.—(AP)—Displaying unexpected strength the Millsaps track team today held the University of Mississippi Harriers to a 69-to-48 win in the opening meet of the season for the university athletes. The Millsaps squad presented practically a one man track team in Louis Sutherland, who individually accounted for twenty-six of his team's points. The versatile Meridian athlete took first places in the pole vault, shot put, high jump, 100-yard dash, and second in both the discus and broad jump. On top of this spectacular performance Sutherland stepped the last lap of the relay, but a 30-yard lead piled up by the first three Ole Miss runners was a bit too much for him to overcome.

The time in all the events was comparatively slow due to a soggy track, and no school records were broken. Faster time is promised next week, however, when the fast Alabama Crimson runners come to the campus for a dual meet with the University of Mississippi runners.

MERCHANTS MEET LEAGUE LEADERS AT LOCAL PARK

Mayor To Toss Out First Ball And Players Will Get Prizes

The Monroe Merchants open their home season in the Ouachita Valley league here today when they meet the strong Fairbanks aggregation at Forsythe park at 3:15 p.m.

Meanwhile the Brown Paper mill squad will be going against the Swartz Carbon Blackers on the Brownies' diamond in West Monroe, and the Sterlington and Ruston clubs, only other teams in the six-club circuit, will meet at Sterlington.

The clash between the Merchants and Fairbanks will be marked by ceremonies in which Mayor Arnold Bernstein and city commissioners will have a part in the opening of a baseball season here for the first time since the days of the old Cotton States' league.

Mayor Bernstein is scheduled to hurl the first ball of the game to start the local season, Manager Nick Bruscato of the Merchants said, while Commissioner R. D. Swayze will be on the receiving end of the toss.

The Monroe club suffered its first defeat in the opening day game against the Brown squad last Sunday on the West Monroe diamond but came back strong in their next contest to beat Swartz, 10 to 3, and are now on their way to the top of the loop, Manager Bruscato thinks.

"Monroe has one of the best semi-pro clubs in northeast Louisiana," Bruscato said yesterday, "and the Merchants are going to prove it before many more games are played."

Besides the tossing out of the first ball, contests among the players will take place before the battle begins. Base running and ball tossing will feature the individual contests.

Repairs have been made at the park during the past week or two under the supervision of Commissioner Swayze and the diamond will be in perfect shape for this afternoon's encounter, it was said.

Manager Bruscato said last night that he would start Joe Demaron on the mound, with Bob Avinger receiving. Both Demaron and Avinger played with the Winnsboro club in the Big Six league last year. The batting order will be Curry, shortstop; Lee, left field; J. Williams, right field; Avinger, catcher; Trammell, second base; McClain, center field; Bruscato, third base; Hyde, first base, and Demaron, pitcher.

Manager Buck Norman of the Fairbanks club said last night that Malone, a right-hander, would be Fairbanks' starting hurler, with Fiser held in reserve. The Fairbanks club won the Ouachita Valley league championship last year and is favored to repeat.

Bruscato said yesterday that prizes will be given to Monroe players making the first run, first hit, first double, first triple, first home run, most hits and first stolen base.

President Dent has assigned Umpire Harrington to the Monroe-Fairbanks game.

'GOOD LUCK—AGAINST OTHERS!'

When Joe Cronin, right, and Bucky Harris met for the first time this season, the first question they asked each other was, "How do you like my old job?" The pair who became boy managers in Washington exchanged places during the winter, Cronin stepping into Harris' shoes with the Boston Red Sox, and the once mine boy returning to the club which he guided to championships in 1924 and 1925.

Bonura May Eat Himself Out Of Big Time Baseball

Jimmy Dykes Believes Zeke's Appetite Threatens His Career

By Jimmy Donahue
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

Chicago's surprising White Sox are going to lose the batting punch that is keeping them in the hair of the American league leaders if big Zeke Bonura doesn't curb his appetite for spaghetti and bananas and cream.

So says Jimmy Dykes, who, as boss of the Sox and signer of meal checks, has been gazing aghast at the huge quantities of the stringy dough Bonura has been stowing away, and who is in a position to know that overtraining at the festive board means a quick ticket back to the bushes.

"Zeke is eating his way out of the majors," Jimmy has said. "If he doesn't change his diet, his career will end in a hurry."

The Sox first sacker, who ranked sixth in home run swatting in the American league in 1934 with 27 circuit clouts, and who has a big future in store as a slugger, HAS changed his diet. It is doubtful, however, if his switch from miles of spaghetti to barbecued spareribs is going to keep weight from piling onto his own ribs.

It isn't the quantity of food a ball player stows away as much as what kinds of food he eats that puts weight on his waistline, slows him down to minor league speed, and spells his demise.

That's the opinion of Rogers Hornsby, boss of the St. Louis Browns, who, in managerial posts in both leagues, has marveled at the appetites of many ball players. But as many as he has seen hit .400 at the table, he never has had a player on his squad eat himself out of the league.

The reason is that the Rajah insisted on ball players eating foods that agreed with them.

"Plenty of big eaters have stuck around in the majors for a long time," Hornsby relates.

"Fatty Fothergill, former Detroit and Boston outfielder, could stuff it in with the best of them, yet he was one of the best gardeners in the business for years. Hack Wilson was another who could eat with the best of the trenchermen, but he didn't begin to slip until he started eating the wrong kinds of food.

"Big ball players like Fothergill, Wilson, Babe Ruth, Babe Herman, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, and others need lots of food, or they become undernourished and lose the power in their big frames. This condition is just as bad as a player eating too much starchy and sweet food ant becoming fat, flabby and out of condition. Steaks and plenty of vegetables never put on weight.

"An example of a ball player eating what didn't agree with him was Babe Ruth. You'll remember a few years back when he had such a mania for hot dogs and pop that he contracted a stomach condition that threatened to end his career.

"So it is with any player. Their careers depend on their condition, and it is up to them to watch their diet to prolong their life in baseball."

Bonira has declared that spaghetti gives him batting power, and points to the fact that, after eating a big dinner of it one recent Sunday, he went out against the Browns and hit two home runs in one game, knocking in five counters. Shortly after, he duplicated the feat against Detroit, batting in four runs with two homers.

All this may be true, but Dykes, in asserting that Bonura is eating himself to a fall, probably had in mind the fact that the huge 205-pound first sacker isn't exactly a gazelle when it comes to fielding finesse.

He is aware of Bonura's punch at the plate, but he doesn't want his punch at the table platter to bring about any drop in his standards of defensive play.

BRAVES SCORE 4 RUNS IN 6TH TO DEFEAT DODGERS

Ruth Goes Hitless But Boston Topples Brooklyn From Lead

BROOKLYN, April 27.—(AP)—Babe Ruth accomplished nothing of note, except that he brought out a crowd of 21,600 paying fans, when he returned to the National league wars today but his teammates with Dutch Brandt on the mound, ended the Brooklyn Dodgers' five-game winning streak and tumbled them out of the National league lead with a 4-to-2 victory.

On the "game" count, the Dodgers still top the Giants by a half game, but a quirk of the early season averages gives the victorious New Yorkers first place, .750 to Brooklyn's .727.

Brandt held the Dodgers to six hits, one less than the Braves obtained off the combined deliveries of Ray Benge and two rookies left handers, Frank Lamanske and Bob Logan.

All the scoring came in the sixth inning. The Braves, held to one blow in the first fives frames, drove Benge out with four hits and as many runs. The Dodgers came back with their pair of tallies on the third of Len Koenecke's four walks, Sam Leslie's double and Tony Cuccinello's single but could make no more headway.

Ruth, showing no ill effects of the cold that kept him out for a couple of days grounded out once, fouled out the second time up and finally retired after being called out on strikes in the seventh.

REDS SHADE CUBS

CINCINNATI, April 27.—(AP)—Paul Derringer won his own ball game today as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 1.

He held the Cubs helpless, fanning the last four men to face him. He bunted in a squeeze play in the fourth inning to score Goodman with what proved to be the winning run.

It was his second victory over the Cubs this year, and his third win of the season.

By John J. Romano

The eyes of the horse racing world will be centered on Churchill Downs next Saturday when the finest three-year-olds in training face the barrier for the sixty-first running of the Kentucky derby. Originally the distance was a mile and a half. After twenty-one years it was shortened by a quarter of a mile and has remained so since.

The Kentucky derby, patterned after the world's famous English derby, which originated in 1780, has been won by slightly less than fifty per cent of the post time favorites, twenty-eight to be exact.

Last year Cavalcade was the standout in the field and ran like one. This year Joseph E. Widener's Futurity winner, Chance Sun, is likely to go to the post the favorite, but those who have watched other entrants in training do not hold he same view with the result that the race is an open one. But should the weather change the course into a sea of mud, Chance Sun will have things much his own as he is a mudlark and revels in that kind of going.

Psychic Bid One Of Favorites

Checking over the list of probable starters one cannot overlook the chances of Psychic Bid. Bob Smith, trainer of the Brookmeade stable which produced Cavalcade last year, thinks he has the winner because his horse has a nice flight of speed and if the lucky breaks are with Psychic Bid in getting away swiftly from the barrier he will be hard to catch.

Last year Mata Hari tried to duplicate the feat of Regret, the only filly to win the classic which was in 1915, but she finished fourth. Again this year another filly has been nominated. She is Nellie Flag, daughter of American Flag and Nellie Morse, and entered by Warren Wright. Nellie Flag should show up well, as she will have a lighter weight impost than the sturdier colts.

Plat Eye, the Greentree stable entry, ran some fine races as a two-year-old. From this he should get more consideration than has been shown by those who make it a business of rating the worth of prize horse flesh. But there is a suspicion that Plat Eye has bad feet and this tends to lessen his chances considerably in a field of sound horses. Last year Plat Eye accounted for four victories in nine starts which earned $27,030 for his owner.

Must Be Reckoned With

Matagna, a fine big looking black gelding that ran second to Black Helen in the Florida derby, is an entry. Black Helen had no trouble outfooting the sturdy Mantagna but it cannot be denied that the latter ran a srong race and finished running easily. This inclines many sharpers to think that Mantagna may be placed with other notable geldings, such as Exterminator and Clyde Van Dusen, two winners of the Kentucky wreath and gold cup.

The Belair Stud's entry, Omaha, is attracting some attention despite the opinion of form students who do not think he is rated a derby winner, if rated on his two-year-old form. Again it must be pointed out that although six favorites won the classic in the last ten years, past performance charts do not always point to the winner in a race of this kind. Cavalcade was not much as a two-year-old. He was a slow beginner. This is a terrific handicap in short dashes. He showed his real form in lengthened distances last year, and the ease with which he kicked dust in the eyes of those trying to catch him as he thundered down the stretch last May confirmed his ranking as the outstanding three-year-old of the year. Omaha may be like him.

Interest In Bradley Entries

Sailor Beware, Blackbirder, Carroll Day, Try Sympathy and Commonwealth are considered good enough to make it hot for the favorite. Any one of them, with a bit of what has been called racing luck, may upset the calculations of the smart guessers. Back in 1913 a rank outsider, Donerail, paid close to 93 to 1 on his chances of outfooting better respected entrans in a dash to the wire. Against this, too, it is well to remember that horses figured as heavily as 1 to 3 have rewarded the form players. But that has not happened in twenty years.

No summation of Kentucky derby possibilities would be complete without a word on Col. E. R. Bradley. The bland gambler has Boxthorn and Big Gawk carrying his famous colors.

Col. Bradley bred innumerable good race horses at his Idle Hour farm and proudly saw four of them annex the Kentucky feature, Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, Burgoo King and Broker's Tip. Not only does Bradley want to win the derby for the $40,000 added and the gold cup, but he wants to be the third owner to win the derby five times. This feat is credited to A. J. Alexander, who won with Baden-Baden, Fonso, Joe Cotton, Chant and His Eminence, and by that old master of horses, John E. Madden, who watched Rosebud, Sir Barton, Paul Jones, Zev and Flying Ebony garner the laurels.

No matter how good a horse appears before the starter sends the field away, do not count a Bradley entry out until after the race has been run.

KELLY, STECHER MEET IN MAIN EVENT WEDNESDAY

SCIENTIFIC BOUT TO HAVE NO TIME LIMIT THIS WEEK

Youngsters Agree To Meet On Winner-Take-All Basis At Stadium

Ernest Kelly, the popular former Tennessee football player, and Joe Stecher, clever Nebraskan, who learned plenty about the mat game from [illegible] famous uncle, will tangle in the [illegible] event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium next Wednesday night and Promoter Charlie Bruscato believes the match will prove the equal of the first Kelly-McIntyre bout a month and a half ago.

Kelly and Stecher wrestled to a draw in a one-hour semi-final match here two weeks ago, but there won't be any draw this time, because Bruscato has made it a no-time-limit affair. In other words, the boys will wrestle to a finish. If neither has won two falls at the end of two hours, they will rest 10 minutes and then go to it again.

The previous match between the two youngsters was a scientific battle that kept the fans thoroughly entertained for an hour. Stecher won the first fall in a minute and a half when he wrapped his long legs around Kelly's body and refused to let go. Kelly came back and took the second fall in [illegible] minutes, but only after Stecher had given him several scares with those long legs. Neither was able to gain a hold in the remaining minutes of the bout.

If there was any difference between them two weeks ago, Stecher seemed to have the edge. The Nebraskan, who knows plenty of holds besides the scissors clamped on more grips than Kelly and he also showed an ability to break the Tennesseean's holds readily.

Wednesday night's match will be on the winner-take-all basis, Promoter Bruscato said last night, and that should make the boys work all the harder. Both have signed an agreement to that effect, Bruscato announced.

When he signed for the match, Kelly readily agreed to the winner-take-all business, Bruscato said, but he also admitted that it was risky business.

"I know what Stecher can do," Kelly said. "I know he has a strong pair of legs, but I'm confident I can beat him, especially if I'm given more than two hours. In fact, I feel that I can gain the decision in less than two hours but it's going to be a tough job."

Kelly is the stadium's most popular performer and Stecher has won quite a following in his two appearances here. Both are clean-cut youngsters who have never resorted to rough stuff in the local ring and the fans have given them both plenty of support in past exhibitions. Kelly will have a six-pound pull in the weights, tipping the beam at 210 to Stecher's 204.

Bruscato said he was attempting to line up a couple of rough performers for the semi-final bout to give the show variety. The semi-final will be the usual best two out of three falls match with a one-hour time limit.

LAKESIDE MEET TO THIRD ROUND

Oliver And Allison To Play Off Second Round Match Today

Only one match remains to be played in the second round of the annual spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club today and that is necessary only because Bobby Oliver and F. V. Allison finished all square in their battle earlier in the week. They will play 18 holes today to decide the issue.

Third round matches starts Monday, with one week allowed for completion of the round. Pairings are as follows:

C. S. Foster vs. H. K. Touchstone.
Wesley Shafto vs. Harry Frazer.
Allison or Oliver vs. Dr. R. T. Harberson.
J. E. Godfrey vs. C. W. Wallace.
C. C. Boardman vs. A. B. Clarkson.

Shafto and Frazer played their match last week but it ended with the two sharpshooters all square and they will meet again this week. Frazer turned the first nine two up on Shafto and increased his lead to three up at the fourteenth. With only four holes to go, Shafto shot four straight birdies on 15, 16 and 17 and 18, to come in with a score of 33, tying the course record and overhauling Frazer to finish the match all square. Shafto's score was 39-33—72.

In the second round, A. B. Clarkson's handicap gave him a victory over Rev. Ernest Holloway when they both turned in 92's. J. E. Godfrey turned four up on W. M. Washburn and went on to put him out, 6 and 5. Godfrey's score was 83 and Washburn shot 100.

Harry Frazer won from M. C. McDonald by default in his second round match, and C. S. Foster defeated W. L. James, the tournament medalist, 2 and 1.

Bun Beasley was eliminated by Wallace, who won two up. Beasley played good golf, but not quite good enough to offset the steady shooting of Wallace, who was in good form and scored well. C. C. Boardman beat T. O. Bancroft, 2 and 1, in a close match that saw the lead change hnads several times during the 17 holes played.

Dr. Harberson played steady golf to eliminate Reynolds McWilliams, two up. He shot a 78 to McWilliam's 92.

Greenville Relay Team Sets Record At Drake

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 27.—(AP)—Greenville high school relay team set a new record and won the Drake university relays at Des Moines, Iowa, this afternoon, in competition with leading high school teams of the nation.

Hornet relayers ran the distance of one mile in 3:25.1, equalling their record mark set in qualifying event this morning. The team composed of Bill Norris, Tom Payne, Tom Beals and Skoval Kahlstorf, recently set new Mississippi record of 3:31.5 and incidentally it was the fourth successive year that Greenville team had won the state relay championship.

Greenville high won the sweepstakes trophy for the third successive year in the state field and track events at Ole Miss last week. The record of 3:26.1 was 1.2 seconds lower than the former Drake relays record.

Cooper Picks Eight Young Golfers As Coming Stars

Harry's Freshman Contingent Topped By Picard And McSpaden

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, April 27.—Back from the winter golf wars with plenty of plunder and fresh observations, Lighthorse Harry Cooper, a noted campaigner at the age of only 30 years, today picked out eight young players whom he predicted would make life on the fairways a little more hazardous for the game's "old guard" during the next decade of competitive play.

His all-star freshmen selections, which included some rising young aces who already have made the vets feel their years, were Henry Picard, Hal "Jug" McSpaden, Johnny Revolta, Ky Laffoon, Ray Mangrum, Vic Ghezzi, Byron Nelson and Charley Yates, the only amateur named in the group.

"There probably are more flashes in the pan in competitive golf than any other sport," Cooper said, "but these young players really appear to have something on the ball. And what seems to be their most enviable trait is that they, unlike many vets with reputations to uphold, go into tournaments and slug that ball without fretting and worrying what kind of a score they are going to turn in. If they have a bad round, they forget about it; if they have a good one, they don't sit around and beef because they missed a couple of putts."

Going down the list, Cooper had this to say for each of his freshmen eight:

Picard: "He is one of the finest young players developed in a generation of play. Every part of his game is good. He hits his woods well, is a fine iron player and a good putter. He swing is compact, and he is not scrambled."

McSpaden: "If his game keeps on improving like it has in the past eight months, we won't be able to do much with him. His work around the greens is that of a master."

Revolta: "A great competitive player with a great game, especially around the greens. He's got rare courage and a spirit that stays up even in the face of a bad round in an important tournament. You never can tell when he's too far behind to win."

Laffoon: "Ky has been in a little slump since he toured Australia, but he'll be back soon. His great asset is straightness with every shot. The narrowest gallery has no worries when he's whacking that ball."

Mangrum: "Mangrum looks like a certain bet to join the star ranks soon. He, too, has a fine game that should improve rapidly within a year."

Ghezzi: "Vic hooks too much, but he'll get that straightened out. Then watch out for him!"

Nelson: "Give him one or two more seasons, then duck."

Yates: "One of the longest drivers in the game. I played with him at Atlanta and was very much impressed."

"How about the National Open at Oakmont?" Cooper was asked.

"I hear they are betting that 304 won't be broken at Oakmont this year, but with all due respect to that layout with its deeply ridged traps, long holes and narrow fairways, I think 300 will be the winner's score," he replied. "Picard should do well, but lack of experience in the big show may tell on him. Olin Dutra (defending champion) is playing a fane game and should be very tough to beat. Gene Sarazen always is a threat, but he'll have to be straighter off the tee at Oakmont. Paul Runyan has a big chance as he always plays that course well. Mac Smith? It's too long for him, I think. It's too tight for Horton Smith. Walter Hagen also has a fine chance if he is serious. So have Revolta, Laffoon and McSpaden."

TIGERS LOSE TO MANHATTAN IN ONE-MILE RACE

Torrance Betters 54 Feet With Shot; Neugass Noses Out In 100

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—Columbia university's flashy speed kings and Michigan State's sturdy distance runners, achieving twin-victory goals while Louisiana State fell short of a similar objective, brought the 41st Pennsylvania relay carnival to a smashing conclusion today before a crowd of 30,000 spectators and under perfect weather conditions at historic Franklin field.

With the benefit of a day's rest between events, Columbia's sprinters, added the 880-yard relay championship to the quarter-mile crown, dethroning Cornell in each race, thanks to the brilliant work of Sam Maniaci and Ben Johnson, negro holder of the national indoor dash title. Similarly, Michigan State's quartet of milers, starring Tom Ottey and Wesley Hurd, made a runaway of the four-mile championship in today's final race after capturing the distance medley trophy the day before.

Facing a stiffer task by doubling up in two of today's feature relays, Louisiana State's gallant runners were stopped by Manhattan college in the classic one-mile race after winning the two-mile championship. The Tigers, with Black, O'Neil and "Slats" Hardin carrying the baton in both events, whipped Army and Columbia in the two-mile but Hardin's closing quarter in 47.4 seconds was only good enough to cut in half the starting margin of Manhattan's runner, John Wolff, who broke the tape 12 yards in front of Hardin.

No records were broken in the major relays, where a complete new crop of eight championship teams was crowned, but five carnival marks were tumbled in an outburst of speedy competition among secondary schools and three other meet records were knocked off in the individual events.

Eulace Peacock, Temple university's versatile negro athlete, furnished the day's most spectacular double by capturing the broad jump with a leap of 25 feet, 1-4 inch, and then upsetting Herman Neugass, Tulane sensation, in the record-breaking final to the 100-meter dash. Peacock, who had tied the carnival mark of 10.7 seconds in the semi-finals, pulled away from Neugass in the final drive to win by two yards in the new record time of 10.6 seconds. The former record-holder and 1934 winner, Earl Widmyer of Maryland, finished fourth, also trailing Arvel Fleming of Pittsburgh.

Neugass, who has been clocked in 9.4 for 100 yards this spring, easily captured two preliminary heats in 10.8 seconds but faded in the closing stages of the final after running at Peacock's shoulder for three-fourths of the distance.

Keith Brown, Yale's pole vaulting ace, broke his own carnival record by an inch and a quarter when he cleared 14 feet, 1 1-2 inches but failed in three attempts to negotiate the world record height of 14 feet, 5 1-2 inches.

Don Elser, Notre Dame fullback, added exactly 2 3-4 inches to the carnival shotputting record by winning his event with a toss of 50 feet, 2 3-4 inches, but even this fine performance paled by comparison with the exhibition feat of "Baby Jack" Torrance of Louisiana State. No longer eligible for college varsity competition, Torrance was persuaded to do his stuff for the crowd's entertainment and heaved the 16-pound ball 54 feet, 5 inches. Yesterday he set a new mark of 62 feet, 1-4 inch with the 12-pound or "schoolboy" shot.

Anton Kishon, sophomore from Bates college of Maine, broke no records but proved himself an all-around star in the weight events by winning the hammer throw, at 167 feet, 2 1-4 inches, after previously winning the discus. Kishon also placed fourth in the shotput.

Another versatile athlete, Henry Little of William and Mary, carried off the javelin throwing honors with a winning toss of 205 feet, 10 1-2 inches, and then finished second to Peacock in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 5 inches.

Cornell made a gallant bid to keep the 880 championship but Ben Johnson's finish was too much for Bon Linders, anchor man for the Ithacans, and a three-yard margin separated them at the tape. The Lions won in the fast time of 1:27.1 with Pennsylvania third and North Carolina fourth and last.

An accident to Maine's first runner, W. B. Cole, proved costly to one of the east's favorite teams in the two-mile relay, in which Louisiana State whipped several rival quartets. Cole, stepped on from behind, lost a shoe and ran nearly the full half-mile with one bare foot, losing too much ground for his teammates to make up. Meanwhile Army gave L. S. U. unexpectedly keen competition but Hardin pulled away from his Cadet rival, Proctor, in the stretch to win by three yards, with Columbia third and Maine fourth.

Manhattan's great mile team, comprising Carey, Averill, Morrissey and Wolff, led all the way, piling up a lead that Louisiana State's somewhat tired baton-carriers could not menace, even with Hardin doing a great last quarter. Syracuse finished a strong third, with Pittsburgh fourth.

L. S. U. FRESHMAN BEATS HAAS AND YATES FOR TITLE

Paul Leslie Upsets Two Favorites In College Golf Tourney

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATHENS, Ga., April 27.—In a brotherly duel, Paul Leslie, Louisiana State freshman, conquered Fred Haas, Jr., a sophomore school and fraternity mate, one up, this afternoon to win the first annual Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament, sponsored by the University of Georgia.

The two hard hitting youngsters waged a spectacular battle through 18 holes, with Leslie, 18, and a neophyte in Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, finally cashing in on an opportunity to retaliate for hazing administered by his superior in the lodge. Leslie triumphed on the last hole after leading from the start.

Trailed by a gallery of close to 300, the two Louisiana State shotmakers fired brilliant golf throughout the match. Haas, southern amateur king, was two holes behind through the 14th, was able to win only the 16th and halve the last two in the face of Leslie's steady play down the stretch.

Leslie, a youngster from Jefferson City, Missouri, who entered Louisiana State upon the suggestion of his today's victim, scored the major upset of the tournament this morning in eliminating Charlie Yates of Georgia Tech, national intercollegiate champion and hot favorite in the field of 72 competitors who participated in the qualifying.

Yates, winner of medalist honors with a scintillating 138, eight strokes under par, was thoroughly off his game in his semi-final match with Leslie, bowing to the Louisiana State sharpshooter, 5 and 3. Yates, who blazed away spectacularly for the first two days, pushed his tee shots badly, approached poorly and missed short putts in the face of a dogged charge by Leslie.

Squad Divided Into Two Teams For Final Practice Tuesday

SHREVEPORT, April 27.—(Special)—Centenary will bring its six weeks of spring football training to a close next Tuesday afternoon with an intra-squad game between the two picked teams known as the "Reds" and the "Orange."

Coaches Parker and Renfro, in dividing their squad, favored the Reds with twelve lettermen. The Orange will have only two players who lettered last fall. The coaches were complimentary of the spirit shown by the boys on the field this spring. Plenty of time has been devoted to developing a quarterback to replace Buddy Parker, who ran the team last fall.

Cohan, stockily built halfback, seems to have the inside rail as quarterback on the 1935 team. Other boys who have shown to advantage for the positions are Weidman and Crowther, senior halfbacks, and Thomas, sophomore back from Haynesville.

Coach Parker said that the game would probably be longer than a regulation game as every boy on the squad would be used in the scrimmage.

The lineup:

BABE DIDRIKSON WINS GOLF TITLE

Star Woman Athlete Beats Mrs. Chandler In Finals At Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, April 27.—(AP)—Colorful Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, star woman athlete, conquered another sport today by defeating Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, women's champion of Mexico, in the final round of the Texas Women's association golf championship, 2 up in a 36-hole match.

The Babe's dramatic finish thrilled an estimated 2,000 persons to cheers.

All square and with only three holes to play, Miss Didrikson sent her second flying over the 34th green. She walked up to the ball, took a stance and chipped into the cup for an eagle three to go one up. The eagle beat Mrs. Chandler's beautifully played birdie four. Babe clicked with a birdie four at the 34th green to beat Mrs. Chandler's par five.

The same girl, who after her phenomenal success in the 1932 Olympics, announced that some day she would develop into America's greatest woman golfer, came a long way today, for she trimmed one of the southland's greatest shot makers.

It was her first victory in a major tournament and in the distance she sees for herself a national championship. In her only other tournament competition she lost in the semi-finals of the Fort Worth women's invitation several months ago.

44 SCHOOLS HAVE ENTRIES IN BIG MARBLE TOURNEY

Youngsters All Over Northeast Louisiana Interested In Event

A total of 44 schools in northeast Louisiana will have representatives in the News-Star—World's Northeast Louisiana Marble tournament, a check of entries revealed yesterday. It is probable that more schools will send youngsters out after the many prizes but game supervisors have been appointed for the 44 listed.

This indicates the interest in the big tourney throughout northeast Louisiana. Thousands of boys and girls under 15 years of age are preparing to battle for the trip to Gulfport and the many other valuable awards.

In order that youngsters at the various schools may know just which teacher is in charge at his particular school, the marble editor is listing them for you. Here they are:

Millsaps, West Monroe, Charles Eby; Neville, Monroe, J. W. Hammett; Georgia Tucker, Monroe, Miss Mary Trousdale; Central, Monroe, Miss Beverly Fauntleroy; Barkdull Faulk, Monroe, Miss Marie Collens; Lida Benton, Monroe, Miss Elizabeth Frankel; Sherrouse, Monroe, Mrs. W. S. Vinson; Ouachita grammer and high schools, Joe Craig; Crosley, West Monroe, Miss Mabel Bittick; Mitchell, West Monroe, Miss Carrie Davis; Ransom, West Monroe, Miss Margaret Norris; St. Matthew's, Monroe, James Gremillion; Louisiana Baptist Children's home, Monroe, Miss Lula Mae Cole; Louisiana Training Institute, Monroe, J. D. Bice.

Columbia, H. S. Bankston; Quitman, C. C. Graham; Bernice, Miss Doris Gaston; Bernice high, George Grafton; Gilbert, B. R. Gunn; Vidalia, G. M. Strickler; Wisner, T. L. Owen; Start, W. D. Hawthorne; Jonesboro, A. R. Elliott; Lapine, J. W. Rutledge; Ft. Necessity, J. L. Parker; Okaloosa, H. P. McBride, Farmerville, Quitman Long; Crowville, W. L. Richardson; Simsboro, R. E. Oxford; Ansley, R. E. Crowe, Jr.; Waterproof, Miss Julia Pullin; Cypress, C. W. Krumm; Epps, H. Leggett; Forest, L. J. Garrett, Waverly, J. M. Frazier; Sikes, R. E. Emons; Calhoun, G. S. Manning; Fondale, C. R. Roberts; Bastrop, J. P. Causey; Drew, E. H. Williamson; Mounds, Miss Alma Maxwell; Oak Grove, Taylor Smith; Cheniere, S. M. Rutledge.

Of course, entries are wanted from every other school in northeast Louisiana but the game supervisors listed above are the only ones who have been appointed by the various principals. And every principal in the entire section has been asked to appoint someone to handle the games, so that every boy and girl under 15 may have an opportunity to compete for the valuable prizes.

Sometime next week your game supervisor will tell you all about the plans for the championship tournament at your school. The school eliminations will be left up to the school supervisors, who will direct the selecting of his or her school's champion.

After the school champions have been selected, district tournaments will be held. And then the grand final, which carries with it the grand prize of a week's trip to Gulfport, will be held in Monroe early in June.

KELLY, STECHER MEET IN MAIN EVENT WEDNESDAY

oungsters Agree To Meet On Winner-Take-All Basis At Stadium

Ernest Kelly, the popular former Tennessee football player, and Joe Stecher, clever Nebraskan, who learned plenty about the mat game from his famous uncle, will tangle in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium next Wednesday night and Promoter Charlie Bruscato believes the match will prove the equal of the first Kelly-McIntyre bout a month and a half ago.

Kelly and Stecher wrestled to a draw in a one-hour semi-final match here two weeks ago, but there won't be any draw this time, because Bruscato has made it a no-time-limit affair. In other words, the boys will wrestle to a finish. If neither has won two falls at the end of two hours, they will rest 10 minutes and then go to it again.

The previous match between the two youngsters was a scientific battle that kept the fans thoroughly entertained for an hour. Stecher won the first fall in a minute and a half when he wrapped his long legs around Kelly's body and refused to let go. Kelly came back and took the second fall in 29 minutes, but only after Stecher had given him several scares with those long legs. Neither was able to gain a hold in the remaining minutes of the bout.

If there was any difference between them two weeks ago, Stecher seemed to have the edge. The Nebraskan, who knows plenty of holds besides the scissors, clamped on more grips than Kelly and he also showed an ability to break the Tennesseean's holds readily.

Wednesday night's match will be on the winner-take-all basis, Promoter Bruscato said last night, and that should make the boys work all the harder. Both have signed an agreement to that effect, Bruscato announced.

When he signed for the match, Kelly readily agreed to the winner-take-all business, Bruscato said, but he also admitted that it was risky business.

"I know what Stecher can do," Kelly said. "I know he has a strong pair of legs, but I'm confident I can beat him, especially if I'm given more than two hours. In fact, I feel that I can gain the decision in less than two hours but it's going to be a tough job."

Kelly is the stadium's most popular performer and Stecher has won quite a following in his two appearances here. Both are clean-cut youngsters who have never resorted to rough stuff in the local ring and the fans have given them both plenty of support in past exhibitions. Kelly will have a six-pound pull in the weights, tipping the beam at 210 to Stecher's 204.

Bruscato said he was attempting to line up a couple of rough performers for the semi-final bout to give the show variety. The semi-final will be the usual best two out of three falls match, with a one-hour time limit.

LAKESIDE MEET TO THIRD ROUND

Oliver And Allison To Play Off Second Round Match Today

Only one match remains to be played in the second round of the annual spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club today and that is necessary only because Bobby Oliver and F. V. Allison finished all square in their battle earlier in the week. They will play 18 holes today to decide the issue.

Third round matches starts Monday, with one week allowed for completion of the round. Pairings are as follows:

C. S. Foster vs. H. K. Touchstone.
Wesley Shafto vs. Harry Frazer.
Allison or Oliver vs. Dr. R. T. Harberson.
J. E. Godfrey vs. C. W. Wallace.
C. C. Boardman vs. A. B. Clarkson.

Shafto and Frazer played their match last week but it ended with the two sharpshooters all square and they will meet again this week. Frazer turned the first nine two up on Shafto and increased his lead to three up at the fourteenth. With only four holes to go, Shafto shot four straight birdies on 15, 16 and 17 and 18, to come in with a score of 33, tying the course record and overhauling Frazer to finish the match all square. Shafto's score was 39-33—72.

In the second round, A. B. Clarkson's handicap gave him a victory over Rev. Ernest Holloway when they both turned in 92's. J. E. Godfrey turned four up on W. M. Washburn and went on to put him out, 6 and 5. Godfrey's score was 83 and Washburn shot 100.

Harry Frazer won from M. C. McDonald by default in his second round match, and C. S. Foster defeated W. L. James, the tournament medalist, 2 and 1.

Bun Beasley was eliminated by Wallace, who won two up. Beasley played good golf, but not quite good enough to offset the steady shooting of Wallace, who was in good form and scored well. C. C. Boardman beat T. O. Bancroft, 2 and 1, in a close match that saw the lead change hnads several times during the 17 holes played.

Dr. Harberson played steady golf to eliminate Reynolds McWilliams, two up. He shot a 78 to McWilliam's 92.

Greenville Relay Team Sets Record At Drake

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 27.—(AP)—Greenville high school relay team set a new record and won the Drake university relays at Des Moines, Iowa, this afternoon, in competition with leading high school teams of the nation.

Hornet relayers ran the distance of one mile in 3:25.1, equalling their record mark set in qualifying event this morning. The team composed of Bill Norris, Tom Payne, Tom Beals and Skoval Kahlstorf, recently set new Mississippi record of 3:31.5 and incidentally it was the fourth successive year that Greenville team had won the state relay championship.

Greenville high won the sweepstakes trophy for the third successive year in the state field and track events at Ole Miss last week. The record of 3:26.1 was 1.2 seconds lower than the former Drake relays record.

Harry's Freshman Contingent Topped By Picard And McSpaden

CHICAGO, April 27.—Back from the winter golf wars with plenty of plunder and fresh observations, Lighthorse Harry Cooper, a noted campaigner at the age of only 30 years, today picked out eight young players whom he predicted would make life on the fairways a little more hazardous for the game's "old guard" during the next decade of competitive play.

If they have a bad round, they forget about it; if they have a good one, they don't sit around and beef because they missed a couple of putts."

Going down the list, Cooper had this to say for each of his freshmen eight:

Picard: "He is one of the finest young players developed in a generation of play. Every part of his game is good. He hits his woods well, is a fine iron player and a good putter. He swing is compact, and he is not scrambled."

McSpaden: "If his game keeps on improving like it has in the past eight months, we won't be able to do much with him. His work around the greens is that of a master."

Revolta: "A great competitive player with a great game, especially around the greens. He's got rare courage and a spirit that stays up even in the face of a bad round in an important tournament. You never can tell when he's too far behind to win."

Laffoon: "Ky has been in a little slump since he toured Australia, but he'll be back soon. His great asset is straightness with every shot. The narrowest gallery has no worries when he's whacking that ball."

Mangrum: "Mangrum looks like a certain bet to join the star ranks soon. He, too, has a fine game that should improve rapidly within a year."

Ghezzi: "Vic hooks too much, but he'll get that straightened out. Then watch out for him!"

Nelson: "Give him one or two more seasons, then duck."

Yates: "One of the longest drivers in the game. I played with him at Atlanta and was very much impressed."

"How about the National Open at Oakmont?" Cooper was asked.

"I hear they are betting that 304 won't be broken at Oakmont this year, but with all due respect to that layout with its deeply ridged traps, long holes and narrow fairways, I think 300 will be the winner's score," he replied. "Picard should do well, but lack of experience in the big show may tell on him. Olin Dutra (defending champion) is playing a fane game and should be very tough to beat. Gene Sarazen always is a threat, but he'll have to be straighter off the tee at Oakmont. Paul Runyan has a big chance as he always plays that course well. Mac Smith? It's too long for him, I think. It's too tight for Horton Smith. Walter Hagen also has a fine chance if he is serious. So have Revolta, Laffoon and McSpaden."

TIGERS LOSE TO MANHATTAN IN ONE-MILE RACE

Torrance Betters 54 Feet With Shot; Neugass Noses Out In 100

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—Columbia university's flashy speed kings and Michigan State's sturdy distance runners, achieving twin-victory goals while Louisiana State fell short of a similar objective, brought the 41st Pennsylvania relay carnival to a smashing conclusion today before a crowd of 30,000 spectators and under perfect weather conditions at historic Franklin field.

With the benefit of a day's rest between events, Columbia's sprinters, added the 880-yard relay championship to the quarter-mile crown, dethroning Cornell in each race, thanks to the brilliant work of Sam Maniaci and Ben Johnson, negro holder of the national indoor dash title. Similarly, Michigan State's quartet of milers, starring Tom Ottey and Wesley Hurd, made a runaway of the four-mile championship in today's final race after capturing the distance medley trophy the day before.

Facing a stiffer task by doubling up in two of today's feature relays, Louisiana State's gallant runners were stopped by Manhattan college in the classic one-mile race after winning the two-mile championship. The Tigers, with Black, O'Neil and "Slats" Hardin carrying the baton in both events, whipped Army and Columbia in the two-mile but Hardin's closing quarter in 47.4 seconds was only good enough to cut in half the starting margin of Manhattan's runner, John Wolff, who broke the tape 12 yards in front of Hardin.

No records were broken in the major relays, where a complete new crop of eight championship teams was crowned, but five carnival marks were tumbled in an outburst of speedy competition among secondary schools and three other meet records were knocked off in the individual events.

Eulace Peacock, Temple university's versatile negro athlete, furnished the day's most spectacular double by capturing the broad jump with a leap of 25 feet, 1-4 inch, and then upsetting Herman Neugass, Tulane sensation, in the record-breaking final to the 100-meter dash. Peacock, who had tied the carnival mark of 10.7 seconds in the semi-finals, pulled away from Neugass in the final drive to win by two yards in the new record time of 10.6 seconds. The former record-holder and 1934 winner, Earl Widmyer of Maryland, finished fourth, also trailing Arvel Fleming of Pittsburgh.

Neugass, who has been clocked in 9.4 for 100 yards this spring, easily captured two preliminary heats in 10.8 seconds but faded in the closing stages of the final after running at Peacock's shoulder for three-fourths of the distance.

Keith Brown, Yale's pole vaulting ace, broke his own carnival record by an inch and a quarter when he cleared 14 feet, 1 1-2 inches but failed in three attempts to negotiate the world record height of 14 feet, 5 1-2 inches.

Don Elser, Notre Dame fullback, added exactly 2 3-4 inches to the carnival shotputting record by winning his event with a toss of 50 feet, 2 3-4 inches, but even this fine performance paled by comparison with the exhibition feat of "Baby Jack" Torrance of Louisiana State. No longer eligible for college varsity competition, Torrance was persuaded to do his stuff for the crowd's entertainment and heaved the 16-pound ball 54 feet, 5 inches. Yesterday he set a new mark of 62 feet, 1-4 inch with the 12-pound or "schoolboy" shot.

Anton Kishon, sophomore from Bates college of Maine, broke no records but proved himself an all-around star in the weight events by winning the hammer throw, at 167 feet, 2 1-4 inches, after previously winning the discus. Kishon also placed fourth in the shotput.

Another versatile athlete, Henry Little of William and Mary, carried off the javelin throwing honors with a winning toss of 205 feet, 10 1-2 inches, and then finished second to Peacock in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 5 inches.

Cornell made a gallant bid to keep the 880 championship but Ben Johnson's finish was too much for Bon Linders, anchor man for the Ithacans, and a three-yard margin separated them at the tape. The Lions won in the fast time of 1:27.1 with Pennsylvania third and North Carolina fourth and last.

An accident to Maine's first runner, W. B. Cole, proved costly to one of the east's favorite teams in the two-mile relay, in which Louisiana State whipped several rival quartets. Cole, stepped on from behind, lost a shoe and ran nearly the full half-mile with one bare foot, losing too much ground for his teammates to make up. Meanwhile Army gave L. S. U. unexpectedly keen competition but Hardin pulled away from his Cadet rival, Proctor, in the stretch to win by three yards, with Columbia third and Maine fourth.

Manhattan's great mile team, comprising Carey, Averill, Morrissey and Wolff, led all the way, piling up a lead that Louisiana State's somewhat tired baton-carriers could not menace, even with Hardin doing a great last quarter. Syracuse finished a strong third, with Pittsburgh fourth.

L. S. U. FRESHMAN BEATS HAAS AND YATES FOR TITLE

Paul Leslie Upsets Two Favorites In College Golf Tourney

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATHENS, Ga., April 27.—In a brotherly duel, Paul Leslie, Louisiana State freshman, conquered Fred Haas, Jr., a sophomore school and fraternity mate, one up, this afternoon to win the first annual Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament, sponsored by the University of Georgia.

The two hard hitting youngsters waged a spectacular battle through 18 holes, with Leslie, 18, and a neophyte in Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, finally cashing in on an opportunity to retaliate for hazing administered by his superior in the lodge. Leslie triumphed on the last hole after leading from the start.

Trailed by a gallery of close to 300, the two Louisiana State shotmakers fired brilliant golf throughout the match. Haas, southern amateur king, was two holes behind through the 14th, was able to win only the 16th and halve the last two in the face of Leslie's steady play down the stretch.

Leslie, a youngster from Jefferson City, Missouri, who entered Louisiana State upon the suggestion of his today's victim, scored the major upset of the tournament this morning in eliminating Charlie Yates of Georgia Tech, national intercollegiate champion and hot favorite in the field of 72 competitors who participated in the qualifying.

Yates, winner of medalist honors with a scintillating 138, eight strokes under par, was thoroughly off his game in his semi-final match with Leslie, bowing to the Louisiana State sharpshooter, 5 and 3. Yates, who blazed away spectacularly for the first two days, pushed his tee shots badly, approached poorly and missed short putts in the face of a dogged charge by Leslie.

Squad Divided Into Two Teams For Final Practice Tuesday

SHREVEPORT, April 27.—(Special)—Centenary will bring its six weeks of spring football training to a close next Tuesday afternoon with an intra-squad game between the two picked teams known as the "Reds" and the "Orange."

Coaches Parker and Renfro, in dividing their squad, favored the Reds with twelve lettermen. The Orange will have only two players who lettered last fall. The coaches were complimentary of the spirit shown by the boys on the field this spring. Plenty of time has been devoted to developing a quarterback to replace Buddy Parker, who ran the team last fall.

Cohan, stockily built halfback, seems to have the inside rail as quarterback on the 1935 team. Other boys who have shown to advantage for the positions are Weidman and Crowther, senior halfbacks, and Thomas, sophomore back from Haynesville.

Coach Parker said that the game would probably be longer than a regulation game as every boy on the squad would be used in the scrimmage.

The lineup:

Baker	T	Thompson
Waller	T	Decker
Horak	E	Serra

BABE DIDRIKSON WINS GOLF TITLE

Star Woman Athlete Beats Mrs. Chandler In Finals At Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, April 27.—(AP)—Colorful Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, star woman athlete, conquered another sport today by defeating Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, women's champion of Mexico, in the final round of the Texas Women's association golf championship, 2 up in a 36-hole match.

The Babe's dramatic finish thrilled an estimated 2,000 persons to cheers.

All square and with only three holes to play, Miss Didrikson sent her second flying over the 34th green. She walked up to the ball, took a stance and chipped into the cup for an eagle three to go one up. The eagle beat Mrs. Chandler's beautifully played birdie four. Babe clicked with a birdie four at the 34th green to beat Mrs. Chandler's par five.

The same girl, who after her phenomenal success in the 1932 Olympics, announced that some day she would develop into America's greatest woman golfer, came a long way today, for she trimmed one of the southland's greatest shot makers.

It was her first victory in a major tournament and in the distance she sees for herself a national championship. In her only other tournament competition she lost in the semi-finals of the Fort Worth women's invitation several months ago.

44 SCHOOLS HAVE ENTRIES IN BIG MARBLE TOURNEY

Youngsters All Over Northeast Louisiana Interested In Event

A total of 44 schools in northeast Louisiana will have representatives in the News-Star—World's Northeast Louisiana Marble tournament, a check of entries revealed yesterday. It is probable that more schools will send youngsters out after the many prizes but game supervisors have been appointed for the 44 listed.

This indicates the interest in the big tourney throughout northeast Louisiana. Thousands of boys and girls under 15 years of age are preparing to battle for the trip to Gulfport and the many other valuable awards.

In order that youngsters at the various schools may know just which teacher is in charge at his particular school, the marble editor is listing them for you. Here they are:

Millsaps, West Monroe, Charles Eby; Neville, Monroe, J. W. Hammett; Georgia Tucker, Monroe, Miss Mary Trousdale; Central, Monroe, Miss Beverly Fauntleroy; Barkdull Faulk, Monroe, Miss Marie Collens; Lida Benton, Monroe, Miss Elizabeth Frankel; Sherrouse, Monroe, Mrs. W. Manning; Fondale, C. R. Roberts; Bastrop, J. P. Causey; Drew, E. H. Williamson; Mounds, Miss Alma Maxwell; Oak Grove, Taylor Smith; Cheniere, S. M. Rutledge.

Of course, entries are wanted from every other school in northeast Louisiana but the game supervisors listed above are the only ones who have been appointed by the various principals. And every principal in the entire section has been asked to appoint someone to handle the games, so that every boy and girl under 15 may have an opportunity to compete for the valuable prizes.

Sometime next week your game supervisor will tell you all about the plans for the championship tournament at your school. The school eliminations will be left up to the school supervisors, who will direct the selecting of his or her school's champion.

After the school champions have been selected, district tournaments will be held. And then the grand final, which carries with it the grand prize of a week's trip to Gulfport, will be held in Monroe early in June.

YOUNG PLAYERS TOP BATTERS IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Whitehead With .450 And Werber With .395 Lead The Hitters

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Two young players who were among the also-rans in last season's major league batting races topped their respective circuits today in the first semi-official check-up on 1935 performances at the plate.

Performing consistently in the early games, when a couple of hits can bring huge changes in the percentages, Burgess Whitehead of the St. Louis Cardinals built up a .450 average for six games, including yesterday's, and Bill Werber of the Boston Red Sox compiled a mark of .395 for nine games. Last year Whitehead hit only .277 while Werber, a more experienced player, had a .321 mark.

The National leaguers in general outshone the sluggers of the junior circuit with four leaders above the .400 mark. Not one American league "regular" could reach that level. Behind Whitehead, Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh had .417, John Moore, Philadelphia, .415 and Mark Koenig, New York, .410.

The first ten "regulars" in each major league follow:

eighth consecutive game without a loss, including two ties.

PIRATES WALLOP CARDS

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—(AP)—"Ripper Jim" Collins, Cardinal first baseman, clouted his second and third home runs of the season today, but the Pittsburgh Pirates took the second game of their series with the world champions, 8 to 5, before a crowd of 10,000.

A Pirate batfest in the fourth, including a triple by Lavagetto and the first of Herman's three two-base hits, sent Hallahan to the showers and netted Pittsburgh five runs. Tinning, second of five Cardinal hurlers, to see action, was knocked from the box in the next inning as doubles by Herman and Padden, Traynor's walk and Suhr's single brought in three more Pirate tallies.

Collins brought in Martin and Medwick with his first homer into the pavilion in the fourth. He closed scoring for the day with another long four-base blow in the sixth.

TRAP SHOOT PLANNED FOR THIS AFTERNOON

The clay pigeons will be in for a tough day this afternoon when trapshooters gather in a field in Fairview addition at 3 o'clock to display their skill with the .12 gauge. The trap shoot is under the supervision of Johnny Bell and the public is invited to attend the affair.

Ammunition and targets will be furnished by Bell, it was announced, but each person expecting to take part in the contests is requested to bring his own gun. Only .12 gauge guns will be used.

Bell has staged several successful trap shoots and among the recent high scorers at his field are Wills, 24 out of 25; Cage, 21 out of 25; Blackman, 21 out of 25; Keys, 24 out of 25; Bancroft, 23 out of 25; Hightower, 22 out of 25; Seymour, 21 out of 25; Godfrey, 17 out of 25; Taylor, 10 out of 25; and Knowles, 22 out of 25.

RECORDS SMASHED IN DRAKE RELAYS

Owens Leads Assault On Marks Before Big Crowd At Des Moines

DES MOINES, April 72.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, Ohio state's "flying kangaroo," took rank today alongside great negro sprinters of other years—Eddie Toban, Ralph Metcalf and Howard Drew.

After establishing a new American record in the broad jump with a leap of 26 feet 1 3-4 inches yesterday, Owens came back this afternoon to win the 100-yard dash in record time before 18,000 gathered for the climax of the 26th annual Drake relays carnival.

He shoved his chest into the yellow strand of yarn marking the finish at least two yards ahead of Milton Holt, of Fresno state college, Fresno, Calif., to tie the Drake record of .09.5, made by Roland Locke, of Nebraska, in 1926 and equaled by Metcalfe, Marquette's flyer in 1932.

The finals of a two-day carnival, which attracted a field of 3,000 school boy, college and university athletes from 19 states, resulted in two major Drake records being tied and two interscholastic records smashed.

Sam Allen, the little spedster from Oklahoma Baptists college of Shawnee, Okla., tied the 120-yard hurdles mark of :14.4 in which he already held a share with the late George Saling, former Olympic hurdling champion from the University of Iowa.

A speedy quartet of runners from the Greenville, Miss., high school established one of the new interscholastic records in the class A mile relay, pushing over the cinders in 3:26.2 to better the old mark of 3:27.3 set by Kansas Vocational High school in 1934.

Glenn Cunningham, America's peerless middle distance runner, conquered Glen Dawson, of Tulsa, Okla., his conqueror of a week ago, in a special three-quarter mile race. Cunningham, formerly of the University of Kansas, and present world champion miler, reversed the decision Dawson scored over him in a special mile event in the Kansas games a week ago, soundly beating him by four yards, running the distance in 3:05.3.

This was four and seven-tenths seconds behind the world mark of 3:00.6, held by Jules Ladomegue, of France.

YANKS OUTSLUG A'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP)—The New York Yanks, paced by Ben Chapman, belted out a 9-to-8 victory over the Athletics today for their third straight triumph. They had a narrow escape, however, when Russ Van Atta hit a wild streak in the ninth and the A's pushed over three runs.

Chapman came up four times, hit a double, homer and two singles and stole a base before he was forced out by a charley horse in the seventh. Jimmie Foxx's fourth home run of the season for the A's and a triple play by the Yanks in the first inning were other high spots.

GLARE REDUCED IN PONTIAC CARS

'Electric Eye' Reveals New Construction Increases Safety

Although Pontiac engineers had beauty of design in mind when they adopted the "V" type windshield and devised the distinctive Silver Streak grilled radiator and hood it has been demonstrated by scientific tests that the combination of grille and sloping windshield actually has reduced glare and reflection in the driver's eyes by 50 per cent.

The tests which were made by an independent organization in no way connected with Pontiac or General Motors employed the use of a powerful light and a photo-electric cell or "electric eye." In this way any variable human factor was eliminated.

The "electric eye" was placed inside the front compartment at the approximate position of the driver's eyes. Then a 1,000 watt light was located above and ahead of the car corresponding to an early morning or late afternoon sun, a position that is most distressing to a driver.

The experiment was conducted with a new 1935 Pontiac and with a car with a plain lacquered hood and a straight type windshield.

The light intensity reading on the "electric eye" when the car with the lacquered hood and straight windshield was used was .10 or 1-10th of a foot candle.

The same test applied to the new Pontiac with its chrome grille and 31 degree angle "V" type windshield gave an intensity reading of only .05 or 1-20th of a foot candle, which means 50 per cent less glare than that recorded in the first test.

These scientific demonstrations indicate how fully the glare and reflection have been cut down in the new Pontiac cars. In the opinion of the investigating company the parallel grille bars and the "V" windshield together shatter the glare and diffuse the blinding rays.

Additional protection from glare and reflection has been assured Pontiac owners by setting all side windows at a slight angle and the rear windows of the sedan models at a 31-degree angle.

TRASH FIRES MAY PROVE DANGEROUS

Local Agent Suggests Clean-Up Campaigns To Reduce Hazard

This is the time of year when that seasonal "disease," spring fever, runs its course. One of its more common manifestations is an urge to clean up one's property, in order to get rid of winter's accumulation of rubbish, both indoors and out.

These individual clean-up campaigns are usually inaugurated for the purpose of improving a home's physical appearance—but, whether the property-owner realizes it or not, they likewise contribute toward fattening his pocketbook, inasmuch as they eliminate many ordinary and unnecessary fire hazards, according to the Fluker Insurance agency, with offices in the Bernhardt building.

The attic is one of the places in the home where odds and ends accumulate—and it is also one of the commonest starting places for residential fires. That accumulation of ancient newspapers—those dog-eared magazines—those old clothes which you'll never wear again—that broken down furniture, all offer an invitation to fire. Start your clean-up campaign by giving these cast-offs to the needy, either directly or through some local charitable organization, where they can give comfort and use again. Then burn the sheer rubbish—and be sure to accomplish that latter task on a windless day, with the aid of an incinerator.

Closets should be subjected to the same process. And the chances are that your basement is in about the same state of disorder as your attic. Due to the nearness of the heating plant, basements are one of the most prolific sources of fire and should be kept free of papers, rags and improperly stored inflammables.

Spring is likewise an excellent time for having the furnace and heating equipment gone over, to prepare it for fall. Another worth-while job is inspection of electric wiring—old, defective and sub-standard wiring starts many a fire.

Spring is here! Clean up—lest you burn up.

Sale Of Ford Cars And Trucks Shows Big Gain

DEARBORN, Mich., April 27.—(Special)—Active buying throughout the country of motor transport units for industrial, mercantile and agricultural uses is reflected by a comparison of sales of truck and commercial car units in the first quarter of 1935 with sales in the same period last year, it was stated today at the offices of the Ford Motor company.

According to reports received from the 34 Ford branches throughout the United States, retail deliveries of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars in the first three months were up 116 per cent over the volume recorded in the first quarter of 1934. Retail deliveries of these units totalled 53,167 units against 24,564 in the same period last year. Truck sales were reported up 138 per cent.

The active demand for transport units is disclosed by the latest compilations of official registrations, it was said. Sales of trucks and commercial cars of all makes in February, the latest figures available for the country at large, totalled 34,737 units, compared with 24,476 units sold in February, 1934, an increase of more than 42 per cent.

The increase in sales of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars was 121.9 per cent, this increase topping the list of the leading truck manufacturers.

Chevrolet Spring Sales Largest In Past 5 Years

Retail sales in the United States by the Chevrolet Motor company to the end of March were the largest for any first quarter in five years, it was announced today by W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager.

"As compared with last year, the first three months of 1935 showed a gain of 23.2 per cent in sales. While both trucks and passenger cars shared in the gain, the larger part of the increase over 1934 was in passenger car sales, which increased 31.5 per cent," said Mr. Holler.

"The quarter ended with a total for March that established it as the largest March sales record since 1930, and with a bank of more than 74,500 orders on hand to be carried over into April.

"The present demand requires the operation of all Chevrolet manufacturing and assembly plants at their maximum rate through April, and the company looks to a continued heavy demand through May and well into mid-summer."

CARE URGED ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

Cars Are Safer, Yet 36,000 Persons Were Killed Last Year

Mechanically speaking, the automobile of today is infinitely safer than that of ten years ago. Brakes reach perfection. Lights have been vastly improved. Steering mechanisms are fool-proof. Car bodies can stand terrific punishment.

Similar progress has taken place in road building. The modern highway, with traffic lanes, banked turns and "skidless" surfaces, is a tribute to engineering science, which has done wonders in seeking to make driving safe and pleasant.

Yet automobile accidents continue to rise—both in number and severity. The motorist has no alibi. He can't blame the car or the road for mishaps, save in an infinitesimal percentage of instances. The human element—and the human element alone—is at fault in ninety-odd accidents out of a hundred, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc., local insurance agents in the Ouachita National bank building.

Most drivers are competent. Most are careful. Most realize that an automobile is a potential killer. But that minority of motorists which is either careless, incompetent, or plain reckless, menaces us all. Perhaps ten per cent of drivers fall into one of those categories—and the lives, health and property of the other ninety per cent is placed in peril because of them.

Last year saw 36,000 people killed —unnecessarily—in auto accidents. It is the duty of every citizen and every unit of government to see that a different record is made this year. Traffic laws must be modernized and enforced with the utmost strictness. The dangerous driver has been given every chance. He has been urged to change his ways, and has refused. Now he must be forced to drive safely—or be deprived of the right to drive on public streets and highways.

YOUNG PLAYERS TOP BATTERS IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Whitehead With .450 And Werber With .395 Lead The Hitters

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Two young players who were among the also-rans in last season's major league batting races topped their respective circuits today in the first semi-official check-up on 1935 performances at the plate.

Performing consistently in the early games, when a couple of hits can bring huge changes in the percentages, Burgess Whitehead of the St. Louis Cardinals built up a .450 average for six games, including yesterday's, and Bill Werber of the Boston Red Sox compiled a mark of .395 for nine games. Last year Whitehead hit only .277 while Werber, a more experienced player, had a .321 mark.

The National leaguers in general outshone the sluggers of the junior circuit with four leaders above the .400 mark. Not one American league "regular" could reach that level. Behind Whitehead, Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh had .417, John Moore, Philadelphia, .415 and Mark Koenig, New York, .410.

The first ten "regulars" in each major league follow:

eighth consecutive game without a loss, including two ties.

Home runs figured importantly in the scoring. John Moore hit his sixth for the Phils, tying his teammate, Dolph Camilli, for the major league lead; Dick Bartell clouted his third for the Giants and Clydell Castleman, 20-year-old right hander who started for the Giants, retired after Blondy Ryan hit for the circuit with one on in the eighth. Castleman had given only three hits in the first seven frames.

PIRATES WALLOP CARDS

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—(AP)—"Ripper Jim" Collins, Cardinal first baseman, clouted his second and third home runs of the season today, but the Pittsburgh Pirates took the second game of their series with the world champions, 8 to 5, before a crowd of 10,000.

A Pirate batfest in the fourth, including a triple by Lavagetto and the first of Herman's three two-base hits, sent Hallahan to the showers and netted Pittsburgh five runs. Tinning, second of five Cardinal hurlers, to see action, was knocked from the box in the next inning as doubles by Herman and Padden, Traynor's walk and Suhr's single brought in three more Pirate tallies.

Collins brought in Martin and Medwick with his first homer into the pavilion in the fourth. He closed scoring for the day with another long four-base blow in the sixth.

TRAP SHOOT PLANNED FOR THIS AFTERNOON

The clay pigeons will be in for a tough day this afternoon when trapshooters gather in a field in Fairview addition at 3 o'clock to display their skill with the .12 gauge. The trap shoot is under the supervision of Johnny Bell and the public is invited to attend the affair.

Ammunition and targets will be furnished by Bell, it was announced, but each person expecting to take part in the contests is requested to bring his own gun. Only .12 gauge guns will be used.

Bell has staged several successful trap shoots and among the recent high scorers at his field are Wills, 24 out of 25; Cage, 21 out of 25; Blackman, 21 out of 25; Keys, 24 out of 25; Bancroft, 23 out of 25; Hightower, 22 out of 25; Seymour, 21 out of 25; Godfrey, 17 out of 25; Taylor, 10 out of 25; and Knowles, 22 out of 25.

RECORDS SMASHED IN DRAKE RELAYS

Owens Leads 'Assault On Marks Before Big Crowd At Des Moines

DES MOINES, April 72.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, Ohio state's "flying kangaroo," took rank today alongside great negro sprinters of other years—Eddie Toban, Ralph Metcalf and Howard Drew.

After establishing a new American record in the broad jump with a leap of 26 feet 1 3-4 inches yesterday, Owens came back this afternoon to win the 100-yard dash in record time before 18,000 gathered for the climax of the 26th annual Drake relays carnival.

He shoved his chest into the yellow strand of yarn marking the finish at least two yards ahead of Milton Holt, of Fresno state college, Fresno, Calif., to tie the Drake record of .09.5, made by Roland Locke, of Nebraska, in 1926 and equaled by Metcalfe, Marquette's flyer in 1932.

The finals of a two-day carnival, which attracted a field of 3,000 school boy, college and university athletes from 19 states, resulted in two major Drake records being tied and two interscholastic records smashed.

Sam Allen, the little spedster from Oklahoma Baptists college of Shawnee, Okla., tied the 120-yard hurdles mark of :14.4 in which he already held a share with the late George Saling, former Olympic hurdling champion from the University of Iowa.

A speedy quartet of runners from the Greenville, Miss., high school established one of the new interscholastic records in the class A mile relay, pushing over the cinders in 3:26.2 to better the old mark of 3:27.3 set by Kansas Vocational High school in 1934.

Glenn Cunningham, America's peerless middle distance runner, conquered Glen Dawson, of Tulsa, Okla., his conqueror of a week ago, in a special three-quarter mile race. Cunningham, formerly of the University of Kansas, and present world champion miler, reversed the decision Dawson scored over him in a special mile event in the Kansas games a week ago, soundly beating him by four yards, running the distance in 3:05.3.

This was four and seven-tenths seconds behind the world mark of 3:00.6, held by Jules Ladomegue, of France.

YANKS OUTSLUG A'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP)—The New York Yanks, paced by Ben Chapman, belted out a 9-to-8 victory over the Athletics today for their third straight triumph. They had a narrow escape, however, when Russ Van Atta hit a wild streak in the ninth and the A's pushed over three runs.

Chapman came up four times, hit a double, homer and two singles and stole a base before he was forced out by a charley horse in the seventh. Jimmie Foxx's fourth home run of the season for the A's and a triple play by the Yanks in the first inning were other high spots.

GLARE REDUCED IN PONTIAC CARS

'Electric Eye' Reveals New Construction Increases Safety

Although Pontiac engineers had beauty of design in mind when they adopted the "V" type windshield and devised the distinctive Silver Streak grilled radiator and hood it has been demonstrated by scientific tests that the combination of grille and sloping windshield actually has reduced glare and reflection in the driver's eyes by 50 per cent.

The tests which were made by an independent organization in no way connected with Pontiac or General Motors employed the use of a powerful light and a photo-electric cell or "electric eye." In this way any variable human factor was eliminated.

The "electric eye" was placed inside the front compartment at the approximate position of the driver's eyes. Then a 1,000 watt light was located above and ahead of the car corresponding to an early morning or late afternoon sun, a position that is most distressing to a driver.

The experiment was conducted with a new 1935 Pontiac and with a car with a plain lacquered hood and a straight type windshield.

The light intensity reading on the "electric eye" when the car with the lacquered hood and straight windshield was used was .10 or 1-10th of a foot candle.

The same test applied to the new Pontiac with its chrome grille and 31 degree angle "V" type windshield gave an intensity reading of only .05 or 1-20th of a foot candle, which means 50 per cent less glare than that recorded in the first test.

These scientific demonstrations indicate how fully the glare and reflection have been cut down in the new Pontiac cars. In the opinion of the investigating company the parallel grille bars and the "V" windshield together shatter the glare and diffuse the blinding rays.

Additional protection from glare and reflection has been assured Pontiac owners by setting all side windows at a slight angle and the rear windows of the sedan models at a 31-degree angle.

"Wild Bill" Cummings Drives Second Chevrolet

TRASH FIRES MAY PROVE DANGEROUS

Local Agent Suggests Clean - Up Campaigns To Reduce Hazard

This is the time of year when that seasonal "disease," spring fever, runs its course. One of its more common manifestations is an urge to clean up one's property, in order to get rid of winter's accumulation of rubbish, both indoors and out.

These individual clean-up campaigns are usually inaugurated for the purpose of improving a home's physical appearance—but, whether the property-owner realizes it or not, they likewise contribute toward fattening his pocketbook, inasmuch as they eliminate many ordinary and unnecessary fire hazards, according to the Fluker Insurance agency, with offices in the Bernhardt building.

The attic is one of the places in the home where odds and ends accumulate—and it is also one of the commonest starting places for residential fires. That accumulation of ancient newspapers—those dog-eared magazines—those old clothes which you'll never wear again—that broken down furniture, all offer an invitation to fire. Start your clean-up campaign by giving these cast-offs to the needy, either directly or through some local charitable organization, where they can give comfort and use again. Then burn the sheer rubbish—and be sure to accomplish that latter task on a windless day, with the aid of an incinerator.

Closets should be subjected to the same process. And the chances are that your basement is in about the same state of disorder as your attic. Due to the nearness of the heating plant, basements are one of the most prolific sources of fire and should be kept free of papers, rags and improperly stored inflammables.

Spring is likewise an excellent time for having the furnace and heating equipment gone over, to prepare it for fall. Another worth-while job is inspection of electric wiring—old, defective and sub-standard wiring starts many a fire.

Spring is here! Clean up—lest you burn up.

Sale Of Ford Cars And Trucks Shows Big Gain

DEARBORN, Mich., April 27.—(Special)—Active buying throughout the country of motor transport units for industrial, mercantile and agricultural uses is reflected by a comparison of sales of truck and commercial car units in the first quarter of 1935 with sales in the same period last year, it was stated today at the offices of the Ford Motor company.

According to reports received from the 34 Ford branches throughout the United States, retail deliveries of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars in the first three months were up 116 per cent over the volume recorded in the first quarter of 1934. Retail deliveries of these units totalled 53,167 units against 24,564 in the same period last year. Truck sales were reported up 138 per cent.

The active demand for transport units is disclosed by the latest compilations of official registrations, it was said. Sales of trucks and commercial cars of all makes in February, the latest figures available for the country at large, totalled 34,797 units, compared with 24,476 units sold in February, 1934, an increase of more than 42 per cent.

The increase in sales of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars was 121.9 per cent, this increase topping the list of the leading truck manufacturers.

Chevrolet Spring Sales Largest In Past 5 Years

Retail sales in the United States by the Chevrolet Motor company to the end of March were the largest for any first quarter in five years, it was announced today by W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager.

"As compared with last year, the first three months of 1935 showed a gain of 23.2 per cent in sales. While both trucks and passenger cars shared in the gain, the larger part of the increase over 1934 was in passenger car sales, which increased 31.5 per cent," said Mr. Holler.

"The quarter ended with a total for March that established it as the largest March sales record since 1930, and with a bank of more than 74,500 orders on hand to be carried over into April.

"The present demand requires the operation of all Chevrolet manufacturing and assembly plants at their maximum rate through April, and the company looks to a continued heavy demand through May and well into mid-summer."

CARE URGED ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

Cars Are Safer, Yet 36,000 Persons Were Killed Last Year

Mechanically speaking, the automobile of today is infinitely safer than that of ten years ago. Brakes reach perfection. Lights have been vastly improved. Steering mechanisms are fool-proof. Car bodies can stand terrific punishment.

Similar progress has taken place in road building. The modern highway, with traffic lanes, banked turns and "skidless" surfaces, is a tribute to engineering science, which has done wonders in seeking to make driving safe and pleasant.

Yet automobile accidents continue to rise—both in number and severity. The motorist has no alibi. He can't blame the car or the road for mishaps, save in an infinitesimal percentage of instances. The human element—and the human element alone—is at fault in ninety-odd accidents out of a hundred, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc., local insurance agents in the Ouachita National bank building.

Most drivers are competent. Most are careful. Most realize that an automobile is a potential killer. But that minority of motorists which is either careless, incompetent, or plain reckless, menaces us all. Perhaps ten per cent of drivers fall into one of those categories—and the lives, health and property of the other ninety per cent is placed in peril because of them.

Last year saw 36,000 people killed—unnecessarily—in auto accidents. It is the duty of every citizen and every unit of government to see that a different record is made this year. Traffic laws must be modernized and enforced with the utmost strictness. The dangerous driver has been given every chance. He has been urged to change his ways, and has refused. Now he must be forced to drive safely—or be deprived of the right to drive on public streets and highways.

Cotton

[illegible] Orleans

[illegible] ORLEANS, April 27.—(AP)—An [illegible] display of easiness in the cotton market here today was almost wiped out in the closing minutes of trading as active positions recovered much of the loss and finished from [illegible] to 7 points lower.

The market sold off during the early trading in a light session as [illegible] days of the advancing tendency were checked.

Light offerings proved sufficient to bring about a reversal of speculative sentiment and prices declined from the opening levels.

Poor Liverpool cables combined with [illegible] of near months by the [illegible] served to augment the down trend.

As cotton approached the 12 cent level resistance was apparent and futures had to fight for every point of advance.

While early losses were partially covered in the usual week-end covering operations May finished at 11.75, July at 11.84, Oct. at 11.38, and Dec. [illegible]

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

New York

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Early declines of 11 to 14 points in cotton today under liquidation and foreign selling contributed to the reaction in silver. Old crop months closed unchanged to 1 point lower while forward deliveries were [illegible] to 10 points net lower. July contracts, which had eased from 11.84 to 11.78, rallied to 11.89 and closed within a point of the best.

Cotton futures closed steady unchanged to 10 lower.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—The stock market's silver honeymoon was interrupted today when world prices for the metal dropped sharply and mining equities declined abruptly. While no especial weakness cropped out in most other sections of the list, the close was somewhat heavy. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

During the brief session Washington failed to disclose what its next step would be, but in New York imported bar metal for commercial use was reduced 4 1-4 cents an ounce to 76 3-4 cents. This more than wiped out the advance of yesterday. The metal also was down substantially in London and Montreal. In Mexico City all banks closed for the day following the government's silver coin export embargo.

Grains and cotton softened sympathetically with silver. Bonds turned slightly irregular, along with leading foreign exchanges. Sterling moved up as gold currencies sagged. Shares of U. S. Smelting were off about 4 points at one time, but cut this loss later. Others in this section, down fractionally to 2 or more points, included Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound, American Smelting, Silver King, Anaconda and Park Utah.

National Biscuit proved an exception with a gain of more than a point. Montgomery Ward, Paramount Certificates and Inland Steel were resistant. Union Pacific yielded some 2 points, but the other rails were only slightly lower. Such issues as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, Chrysler and Case were only moderately in arrears.

While the silver confusion tended to cool bullish enthusiasm for stocks, some commentators felt that this influence had been exaggerated as a market factor and believed that the principal motivator of the recent upturn was the plethora of idle funds seeking employment, even at the historically low interest rates prevailing.

The difference of the power and light shares was accentuated when it was announced that President Roosevelt, in his "fireside" talk to the country tomorrow night, will discuss, among other things, the administration's proposed holding company legislation.

Short sellers in the majority of the rails were rather timid in view of the fact that the supreme court reconvenes Monday and it is possible that the long-awaited decision on the carrier pension laws may be handed down

CHICAGO: Wheat lower; silver policy uncertainties. Corn easier; sympathy with wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady; quotable top $9.10.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP)—Influenced by relative weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool and by a reactionary tendency shown in the silver market, grain values underwent material setbacks early today.

Opening 3-8-1 1-8 lower, May 99 5-8-3-4, the Chicago wheat market afterward sagged further. Corn started 1-2-1 1-8 down, May 88 3-8-1-2, and then held near the initial limits.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—(AP)—An [illegible] display of easiness in the cotton market here today was almost wiped out in the closing minutes of trading as active positions recovered much of the loss and finished from [illegible] to 7 points lower.

The market sold off during the early trading in a light session as [illegible] days of the advancing tendency were checked.

Light offerings proved sufficient to bring about a reversal of speculative sentiment and prices declined from the opening levels.

Poor Liverpool cables combined with offerings of near months by the ring group served to augment the down trend.

As cotton approached the 12 cent level resistance was apparent and futures had to fight for every point of the advance.

While early losses were partially recovered in the usual week-end covering operations May finished at 11.75, July at 11.84, Oct. at 11.38, and Dec. at 11.46.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

New York

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Early declines of 11 to 14 points in cotton today under liquidation and foreign selling attributed to the reaction in silver met sufficient trade and spot house buying in old crop position to give the market a steady undertone and partial rallies followed. Old crop months closed unchanged to 1 point lower while forward deliveries were [illegible] to 10 points net lower. July contracts, which had eased from 11.84 to 11.78, rallied to 11.89 and closed within a point of the best.

Cotton futures closed steady unchanged to 10 lower.

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—The stock market's silver honeymoon was interrupted today when world prices for the metal dropped sharply and mining equities declined abruptly. While no especial weakness cropped out in most other sections of the list, the close was somewhat heavy. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

During the brief session Washington failed to disclose what its next step would be, but in New York imported bar metal for commercial use was reduced 4 1-4 cents an ounce to 76 3-4 cents. This more than wiped out the advance of yesterday. The metal also was down substantially in London and Montreal. In Mexico City all banks closed for the day following the government's silver coin export embargo.

Grains and cotton softened sympathetically with silver. Bonds turned slightly irregular, along with leading foreign exchanges. Sterling moved up as gold currencies sagged. Shares of U. S. Smelting were off about 4 points at one time, but cut this loss later. Others in this section, down fractionally to 2 or more points, included Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound, American Smelting, Silver King, Anaconda and Park Utah.

National Biscuit proved an exception with a gain of more than a point. Montgomery Ward, Paramount Certificates and Inland Steel were resistant. Union Pacific yielded some 2 points, but the other rails were only slightly lower. Such issues as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, Chrysler and Case were only moderately in arrears.

While the silver confusion tended to cool bullish enthusiasm for stocks, some commentators felt that this influence had been exaggerated as a market factor and believed that the principal motivator of the recent upturn was the plethora of idle funds seeking employment, even at the historically low interest rates prevailing.

The difference of the power and light shares was accentuated when it was announced that President Roosevelt, in his "fireside" talk to the country tomorrow night, will discuss, among other things, the administration's proposed holding company legislation.

Short sellers in the majority of the rails were rather timid in view of the fact that the supreme court reconvenes Monday and it is possible that the long-awaited decision on the carrier pension laws may be handed down.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Stocks heavy, silver issues react. Bonds irregular; U. S. governments steady. Curb mixed; mining stocks down. Foreign exchanges erratic; sterling firm—gold currencies sag. Cotton barely steady; lower cables; local and foreign selling. Sugar quiet; Cuban support. Coffee inactive; commission house liquidation.

CHICAGO: Wheat lower; silver policy uncertainties. Corn easier; sympathy with wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady; quotable top $9.10.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP)—Influenced by relative weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool and by a reactionary tendency shown in the silver market, grain values underwent material setbacks early today.

Opening 3-8-1 1-8 lower, May 99 5-8-3-4, the Chicago wheat market afterward sagged further. Corn started 1-2-1 1-8 down, May 88 3-8-1-2, and then held near the initial limits.

Wheat closed nervous, 5-8-1 1-4 under yesterday's finish, May 99 1-2-5-8, corn unchanged to 1-2 lower, May 88 7-8-89 1-8, oats 1-2—7-8 off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

Sugar

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today but spot prices were 2 points lower on a sale late yesterday of 20,000 bags of Cubas for May shipment to a local refiner at 3.33. No sales were recorded today.

Early advances of 1 point in futures were lost under liquidation and selling, final prices were 1 to 2 points net lower. July No. 3 sold off from 2.40 to 2.38 and December from 2.52 to 2.50 with closing quotations at the lower figures. Sales in the No. 3 contracts were 12,200 tons while in the No. 1 only 950 tons. There was a fair withdrawal demand for refined sugar but otherwise the market was quiet and prices were unchanged at 5.10 for fine granulated.

Sugar futures No. 3, closed barely steady, 1-2 lower; sales 12,250 tons. May 2.31b; July 2.38; Sept. 2.43b; Dec. 2.50b; Jan. 2.33b; March 2.32b.

SOCIAL COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Inner Workings Of Transient Bureau Described By Manager

Inner workings of the Monroe transient bureau were explained at the monthly meeting of the Council of Social agencies at the annex of the First Methodist church Friday at noon, when the program was in charge of Miss W. Szurek, manager of the bureau.

She stated that each man worked 30 hours weekly and that there was a garden of 10 acres and that this was to be increased to 16 acres shortly. Recreation rooms have been provided and vocational training is also featured as much as possible. Furniture and chairs have been built by the men successfully, Miss Szurek said.

Work at the airport in equipping it for night flying service has been performed by men of the transient bureau in a large degree.

The bureau is equipped to feed 300 men and there is a hospital department which has eight beds.

The musical program, presented by men from the bureau, was as follows: "Highways and Happy Ways," entire company; piano solo, "Isis," Walter Bell; violin solo, "St. Louis Blues," Jim McNeese; vocal solo, "Cottage by the Sea," Virgil Tipton; "Someday Sweetheart," "Darkness on the Delta," "Just Because," entire company; vocal solo, "Isle of Capri," "Frosty" Dawson; violin solo, "Hungarian Dance No. 5," Jim McNeese; piano solo, "Nola," Walter Bell; vocal selection, "Ballad of the Bureau," Jack Lynch; exit march, selected, entire company.

GOVERNOR TRIES HAND AT PLANTING COTTON

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia's farmer-governor who recently said that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace ought to be made to plow behind a mule for two years, demonstrated what he meant when he spent a day on his 900-acre farm near Forsyth, Ga., recently. The governor plowed, rode a tractor and planted cotton. He is shown doing the latter. Talmadge has been a bitter critic of the cotton processing tax, the AAA and other administration policies. DRIVING SAFE CAR PREVENTS ACCIDENT

One of the most important ways of avoiding accidents is to have a safe car to drive, a car that is easily controlled, easily stopped, well constructed with all steel body, and one offering perfect vision.

Dodge pioneered in building safe, all-steel bodies, has had 20 long years of experience in building them—and is naturally miles ahead of imitators in this form of construction. And now in the new Dodge the all-steel body is bolted at fifty-six points to the massive X-type frame making the floor and frame an integral part of the body. The double X-type frame has been formed to follow the side members of the body and the bed does not hang over the frame but forms a unit, body and frame strengthening each other. This feature not only makes a much stronger, safer body, but gives much more room for passengers and avoids being placed in a cramped position. Besides there are no bars in the doors and windshield to obstruct the vision. You have perfect vision in the new Dodge so that you can see in all directions at a glance and avoid many accidents. There is a non-glare rear view mirror so that cars coming up behind do not throw a glare in the face, also a transparent sun visor which shades the eyes yet does not obstruct the vision. Every safety feature that can be embodied into an automobile is found in the new Dodge to cope with increasing hazards of today's traffic. Many other safety features found in the new Dodge are time proven hydraulic brakes, duplate safety glass, cross shockless steering, road sway eliminators. Another splendid and convenient feature found in the Dodge is the opening of the front doors which are hinged to the front body post, opening forward.

Butter-Krust Bread Is Specialty Of Lovers Lane Concern

The Ouachita Baking company, 2519 Lovers Lane, makers of Butter-Krust bread, is one of the most up-to-date and sanitary bakeries in northeast Louisiana, and these facts, as well as the operation of the concern's mechanical equipment, are a subject of interest and favorable comment among visitors to the establishment.

Customers visiting the retail department are immediately interested by the operations of the modern and scientific equipment. The equipment includes moulding machines which are far superior in method and precision to the old custom of making a loaf of bread by hand, a dough mixer which is equipped with automatic scales to make certain that each "mix" has the correct amount of flour, and a scaling machine which weighs each loaf of bread so that uniform loaves will be assured.

Employes of the Ouachita Baking company are each specialists in their respective positions. The salesmen and salesladies are always courteous and are obliging in planning special orders for weddings, birthday celebrations and other social affairs.

The public is issued a standing invitation to visit the bakery and inspect its plant.

C. B. Kitchens Re-Elected President Of Homer Lions

HOMER, La., April 27.—(Special)—C. B. Kitchens was reelected president of the Homer Lions club during the annual election of officers at their luncheon here Thursday.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, W. P. Thomas; second vice president, B. W. Fortson; third vice president, A. E. Dewees; secretary-treasurer, C. G. McClure; Lion tamer, H. S. Ford, and tail twister, W. A. Austin. The board of directors is composed of Robert Allen, W. L. Doss, J. T. Gibson, J. Melton Oakes and Wideman Watson.

WAGE LOSS HEAVY FROM ACCIDENTS

An added reason for organized effort toward traffic safety and accident prevention as a result of the 36,000 deaths and nearly 1,000,000 people injured in automobile accidents in the United States last year, is pointed out by R. C. Carr, of Monroe.

"Probably nearly every one of those injured in automobile accidents," Mr. Carr said, "sustained some loss of time and consequently of salary or wages, and a large part of the deaths from automobile accidents deprived a family of its wage earner."

While automobile accidents are more spectacular and are therefore given more attention, Mr. Carr points out further that accidents in the home last year caused 33,000 deaths, very nearly as many as were attributed to motor vehicles. There has always been a popular belief that home was the safest place to be, but these figures disprove that theory.

The bathroom is by far the most dangerous room in the home. The National Safety Council reports that there are 45,000 persons injured annually while taking a bath. Falls of all kinds, including those from stepladders, on stairs or slippery floors, account for 45 per cent of the home accidents, while 13 per cent are due to cuts, 6 per cent to collision with objects, 6 per cent struck by falling objects and the remainder under various classifications. About 65 per cent of these accidents occur inside the house and 35 per cent outside.

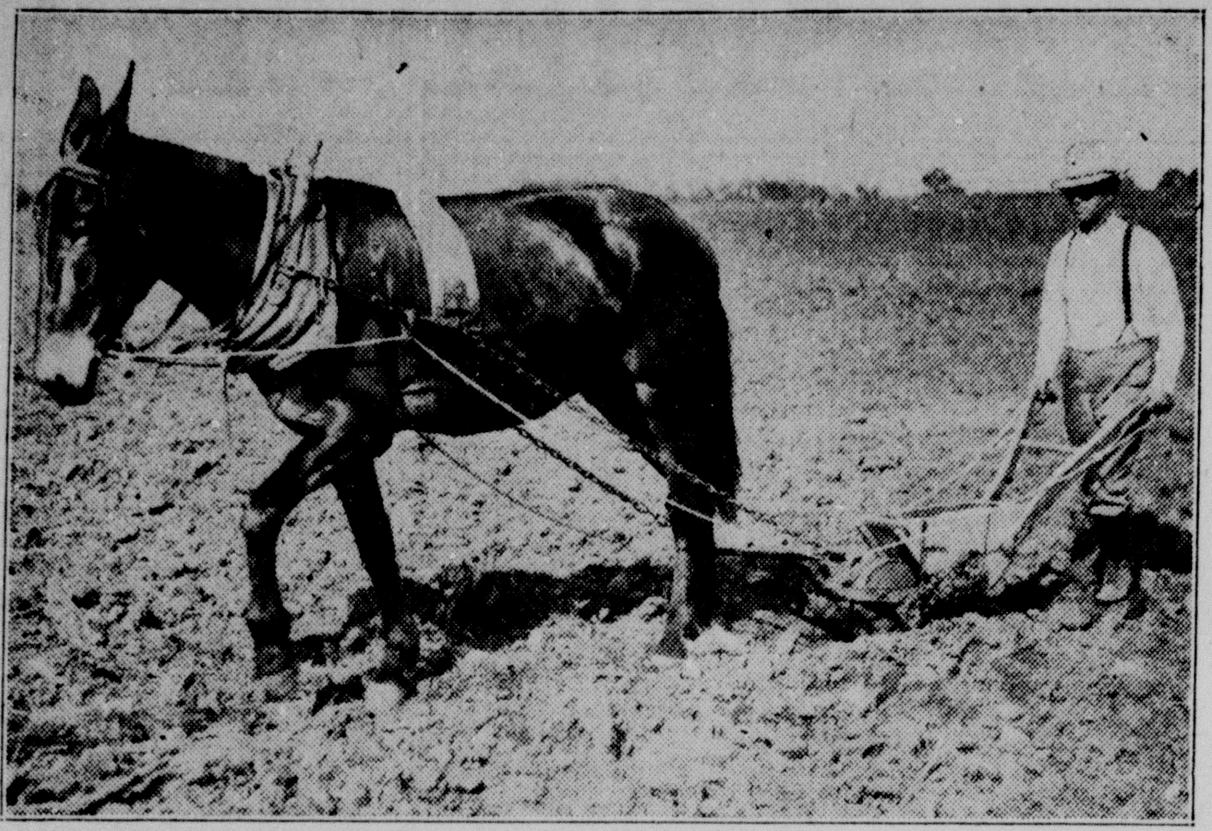
GOVERNOR TRIES HAND AT PLANTING COTTON



Eugene Talmadge, Georgia's farmer-governor who recently said that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. The governor plowed, rode a tractor and planted cotton. He is shown doing the latter. Talmadge has been a bitter critic of the cotton processing tax, the AAA and other administration policies. SECTION TWO MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, APRIL 28, 1935 SECTION TWO

Monroe Women's Club Lays Plans For Entertaining State Organization

Years ago when Paterfamilias looked over the top of his gold-rimmed spectacles, seated in the parlor used only on the Sabbath and state occasions, declared that he did not know what the women were coming to—the very idea of women joining clubs. All men agreed, back in the nineties, that a woman's club would crush the domestic tranquility.

None at that time could foresee the approaching machine age that would forever free women from domestic drudgery. In step with the breaking of these fetters that made women household slaves, women's clubs have come to stay, proving a veritable steam roller that smooths the road to physical fitness, mental alertness and spiritual uplift.

The club spirit will never die because its roots are buried deep in civic, philanthropic and educational purposes.

Outstanding among the women's organizations of this city is the Business and Professional Women's club. The steady growth of this club is brought to mind today when plans are shaping themselves for the entertainment of club members from every section of the state, flocking to Monroe on the seventeenth of May for the state convention.

The Business and Professional Women's club has always counted itself one of Monroe's civic assets. It contributes generously to the cultural and social life of the city and has the advantages of friendship and association as well as outlets for various interests to offer the new member.

In the early days there were few club precedents to follow but under the guidance of wise executive women with a vision of civic betterment the Business and Professional Women's club has justified its existence and proved a healthful factor in the growth of Monroe.

A brief history of the remarkable strides made by this club since its inception in the year 1921 will be of great interest we feel sure.

This band of women organized in the year of 1921 through the earnest efforts of Miss Bower Weaks as a unit in the group of women's clubs which made up the Departmental club of Monroe, other units at the time were the Music club, Civic club, the Book club. Mrs. R. B. Frizzell was president of the entire organization.

The first meeting for organizing in the year 1921 the Business and Professional Women's branch was held as a luncheon in Leon's Cafe, at that time a thriving business located on DeSiard street. Under the clever leadership of Miss Bower Weaks this group of women planned and executed great things. Miss Julia Wossman, now principal of Barkdull Faulk school, was elected first president and served for two years in her capable manner, endearing herself to each and every member incidentally making history. Outstanding among achievements at that time were the establishment of a club house in the little building on the corner of Wood and St. John street, kindly loaned through the courtesy of the city officials, on whom this locality has ever been able to count as loyal promoters and helpers. The club members painted and renovated rooms furnishing same for rest and recreation mainly by donations.

The state convention was held here during this regime due to extra effort of Miss Dorothy Schulze (now Mrs. G. M. Stafford, of Alexandria), who had been elected state president, in preceding convention at Shreveport.

Following eight years of upward striving members of the Monroe Business and Professional Women's club came to the full realization that the faculty to dream is not given to mock us.

There is reality back of it. The desire of the soul and longing for full, complete self-expression, is the prayer which nature answers. A legitimate ambition is really a sacred thing—it is an eternal urge within us that pushes us on and on, up and up. The great desire of Monroe's Business and Professional Women was fulfilled—an ideal realized when they walked into their beautiful club house one happy night in November, 1929. This club house is the handsomest in the state and, in fact, one of the very few owned by women.

The original or charter members now active are: Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Edith Gunby, Miss Julia Wossman and Mrs. R. N. Slator.

Today Miss Mary O'Kelly is again guiding the destiny of this club and will be a prominent figure when the 1935 convention comes to this city. Other officers taking an important part in the entertainment of the visiting delegates are:

Miss Florence Powers, first vice president; Miss Hazel Wakefield, second vice president; Mrs. Laura Slator, treasurer; Miss Mae McIntosh, secretary; Miss Mary Hester, historian; Mrs. Jennie Thornton, house chairman.

By EVE C. BRADFORD

ENCHANTED APRIL flutters its flowery wings in farewell . . . May with its warm, radiant sunshine, air like wine and shimmering blue sky is casting its shadow along the way . . . Life is real, life is earnest these days and the goal is not far distant for those young things who will wear diaphanous organdy and clasp to their fluttering hearts their cherished diplomas when the words of valedictory are spoken. . . . In the meantime budding young orators will spring into being at high school banquets and senior and junior proms will occupy the spotlight . . . With visions of Easter eggs still dancing before our eyes we find it well nigh impossible to focus our vision on commencement activities ushered in with the month of May. . . . Brer' Rabbit with the twitchy nose and stubby tail little realized that he would come into his own in such a big way. . . . Never, never, in all the tides of time did we see so many Easter eggs sitting like Humpty Dumpty along garden fences and in out-of-the-way places. . . . The Easter Bunny positively worked miracles this year. . . . Santa is just a piker compared to him. . . . After distributing thousands of eggs in this city alone the Easter Bunny can afford to be just plain, timid little Peter Rabbit for the rest of the year. . . . We saw Alymer Montgomery hurrying across the lawn at Lakeside Country club Easter Sunday, hand in hand with that handsome fair-haired boy of his—their little white dog at their heels found it hard to keep up with them. . . . Alymer, Jr., was in search of Easter eggs and if we are not mistaken big Alymer had a hand in filling that basket. . . . Another fond father, H. S. Stevens, was on the rabbit's trail with his lovely little daughter Lelia all decked out in Easter finery in his arms. . . . The sturdy legs of young Stanton Huey couldn't carry him fast enough so eager was he to find the painted treasures. . . . Esther Ewing, shorn of her beautiful long curls, ran unfettered with her basket swinging on her arm. . . . Arriving at the club house early we were privileged to watch Elsner Frazer in action. . . . She is a bundle of vigor, vim and personality and found that her vigor came in handy in arranging this gala event for the children of club members. . . . The Easter Bunny works positive miracles but so does Captain G. B. Cooley. . . . Nautical minded, he sailed into harbor on board the "Weto" last week with a gift for four lads who simply adore him. . . . A beautiful boat, flying the American flag, was his gift to Dick Touchstone, Nelson Abell, Jr., Billy Wright and Tommy Wyatt. . . . Ever since the boat was christened and delivered into their hands they have been skimming the Ouachtia like the Ouachita Indians back in the old days before Monroe came into being. . . . We doff our hats to Captain Cooley whose love for the boys of Monroe is forever prompting him to do something noble—something generous and something kind. . . . Would that we had more men of his ilk. . . . Even the most learned medic must have his hours of play. . . . Byron Vaughan sniffed the sizzling steaks at a barbecue last week clad in sport attire. . . . We scarcely recognized him so accustomed are we to seeing him in immaculate business attire and ready for any emergency . . . However, we were informed that everything was in readiness in his coupe parked nearby in case he had to jump into harness . . . Murray Hudson's coupe can be found parked in front of his mother's home for a few minutes every morning. . . . He counts the day lost without his morning visit—rather a splendid gesture, don't you think? . . . Watching Florence Ziegler crashing up and down the piano at the Musical Coterie concert the other night reminded us that she is exceptionally talented and how proud we are of her. . . . Mrs. H. H. Land, dainty and flower like, walked among her guests enjoying coffee in her home Friday morning. . . . She is so gentle and sweet and yet possesses so many graces, social and domestic. . . . Fame has come her way through her music. . . . To hear her play the piano is to enjoy one of the greatest musical treats possible. . . . A guest of Mrs. Land's told us she was trying to discover the true secret of the charm of her home and decided it was just in knowing how to live. . . . A gala affair last night brought socialites together on the ballroom floor at Lakeside Country club. . . . The hostesses, Mildred Swift and Ruth Surguine, danced around like gay butterflies in draperies of mousseline. . . . Mildred wore white with crimson in striking contrast and Ruth stuck to pure white. . . . White mousseline, we decided, was created especially for her. . . . Freneau and Floy Surguine, who are being dined and wined during their sojourn in the States, were having a grand time. . . . Floy's personaltiy was enhanced by a luscious peach colored mousseline. . . . They declare that life in Monroe is very near the heart's desire. . . . And we quite agree. . . . Who is there among us that does not love life as it is lived in Monroe. . . . We are all in love with the green earth, the sweet security of streets, the cheerful glass, the fireside conversations, the innocent vanities and jests, the friendliness that exists everywhere. . . . All who have ever called Monroe their home are glad to set up their tabernacle here and to be carried along with the tide of every day existence.

Mrs. Phelps Is Oldest Living Carnival Queen

Imagine the surprised expression on the face of Mr. James Phelps when he picked up a recent edition of the New Orleans Item and found a picture of his mother, Mrs. O. H. Phelps, in the costume she wore when she reigned as queen of Mardi Gras of 1877. Mrs. Phelps is the oldest living carnival queen.

According to the story in the Item, Miss Labatt was the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Labatt. She was a beauty of the season, with red hair, brown eyes and a lovely figure. Like all the other early queens she went to the ball totally unaware that she was to rule on its throne. The year 1877 was the first time that Rex had the debutantes of the season parade before his eyes to pass muster. And so Cora Labatt was chosen. And that year, too, was the first the parents of the queen entertained at supper for the court.

Mr. Phelps, whom Cora Labatt married a few years later, was for years prominent in the Rex organization. Mr. James Phelps of this city is their son. He came to Monroe fifteen years ago and married Miss Helen Allen, a popular member of the younger social set.

Monroe Women's Club Lays Plans For Entertaining State Organization

Years ago when Paterfamilias looked over the top of his gold-rimmed spectacles, seated in the parlor used only on the Sabbath and state occasions, declared that he did not know what the women were coming to—the very idea of women joining clubs. All men agreed, back in the nineties, that a woman's club would crush the domestic tranquility.

None at that time could foresee the approaching machine age that would forever free women from domestic drudgery. In step with the breaking of these fetters that made women household slaves, women's clubs have come to stay, proving a veritable steam roller that smooths the road to physical fitness, mental alertness and spiritual uplift.

The club spirit will never die because its roots are buried deep in civic, philanthropic and educational purposes.

Outstanding among the women's organizations of this city is the Business and Professional Women's club. The steady growth of this club is brought to mind today when plans are shaping themselves for the entertainment of club members from every section of the state, flocking to Monroe on the seventeenth of May for the state convention.

The Business and Professional Women's club has always counted itself one of Monroe's civic assets. It contributes generously to the cultural and social life of the city and has the advantages of friendship and association as well as outlets for various interests to offer the new member.

In the early days there were few club precedents to follow but under the guidance of wise executive women, with a vision of civic betterment the Business and Professional Women's club has justified its existence and proved a healthful factor in the growth of Monroe.

A brief history of the remarkable strides made by this club since its inception in the year 1921 will be of great interest we feel sure.

This band of women organized in the year of 1921 through the earnest efforts of Miss Bower Weaks as a unit in the group of women's clubs which made up the Departmental club of Monroe, other units at the time were the Music club, Civic club, the Book club. Mrs. R. B. Frizzell was president of the entire organization.

The first meeting for organizing in the year 1921 the Business and Professional Women's branch was held as a luncheon in Leon's Cafe, at that time a thriving business located on DeSiard street. Under the clever leadership of Miss Bower Weaks this group of women planned and executed great things. Miss Julia Wossman, now principal of Barkdull Faulk school, was elected first president and served for two years in her capable manner, endearing herself to each and every member incidentally making history. Outstanding among achievements at that time were the establishment of a club house in the little building on the corner of Wood and St. John street, kindly loaned through the courtesy of the city officials, on whom this locality has ever been able to count as loyal promoters and helpers. The club members painted and renovated rooms furnishing same for rest and recreation mainly by donations.

The state convention was held here during this regime due to extra effort of Miss Dorothy Schulze (now Mrs. G. M. Stafford, of Alexandria), who had been elected state president, in preceding convention at Shreveport.

Following eight years of upward striving members of the Monroe Business and Professional Women's club came to the full realization that the faculty to dream is not given to mock us.

There is reality back of it. The desire of the soul and longing for full, complete self-expression, is the prayer which nature answers. A legitimate ambition is really a sacred thing—it is an eternal urge within us that pushes us on and on, up and up. The great desire of Monroe's Business and Professional Women was fulfilled—an ideal realized when they walked into their beautiful club house one happy night in November, 1929. This club house is the handsomest in the state and, in fact, one of the very few owned by women.

The original or charter members now active are: Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Edith Gunby, Miss Julia Wossman and Mrs. R. N. Slator.

Today Miss Mary O'Kelly is again guiding the destiny of this club and will be a prominent figure when the 1935 convention comes to this city. Other officers taking an important part in the entertainment of the visiting delegates are:

Miss Florence Powers, first vice president; Miss Hazel Wakefield, second vice president; Mrs. Laura Slator, treasurer; Miss Mae McIntosh, secretary; Miss Mary Hester, historian; Mrs. Jennie Thornton, house chairman.

By EVE C. BRADFORD

ENCHANTED APRIL flutters its flowery wings in farewell . . . May with its warm, radiant sunshine, air like wine and shimmering blue sky is casting its shadow along the way . . . Life is real, life is earnest these days and the goal is not far distant for those young things who will wear diaphanous organdy and clasp to their fluttering hearts their cherished diplomas when the words of valedictory are spoken. . . . In the meantime budding young orators will spring into being at high school banquets and senior and junior proms will occupy the spotlight . . . With visions of Easter eggs still dancing before our eyes we find it well nigh impossible to focus our vision on commencement activities ushered in with the month of May. . . . Brer' Rabbit with the twitchy nose and stubby tail little realized that he would come into his own in such a big way. . . . Never, never, in all the tides of time did we see so many Easter eggs sitting like Humpty Dumpty along garden fences and in out-of-the-way places. . . . The Easter Bunny positively worked miracles this year. . . . Santa is just a piker compared to him. . . . After distributing thousands of eggs in this city alone the Easter Bunny can afford to be just plain, timid little Peter Rabbit for the rest of the year. . . . We saw Alymer Montgomery hurrying across the lawn at Lakeside Country club Easter Sunday, hand in hand with that handsome fair-haired boy of his—their little white dog at their heels found it hard to keep up with them. . . . Mrs. Hunt Talks On Subject Of Great Interest To Women At Altrurian Club Meeting

Mrs. King Hunt spoke in interesting manner on the subject of "History of Furniture" before members of the Altrurian Book club at their recent meeting.

Mrs. Hunt said in part: "The more knowledge one has of the history of furniture, the more wisely one can select individual pieces, combine different types and arrange them harmoniously in a room. Furthermore a knowledge of wood construction and finishes enables one to buy more intelligently.

In looking at a piece of furniture, there are two ways of considering, first merely for its usefulness, the other for its historical interest and its beauty.

The fascination of the history of furniture and its evolution cannot be realized without study; and beauty of form in furniture is not always apparent unless the eye is trained to percieve and appreciate it.

In all countries and in all periods the three forms of furniture used have been the stool or chair, bed and the table.

Egyptian furniture is the oldest, two factors are mainly responsible for the preservation of so much Egyptian furniture. The dry climate and the daily practice of filling the air-tight tombs of all articles used by the deceased for the service of the soul entombed.

Greek furniture was somewhat influenced by Egyptian. It showed more refinement and was characterized by grace of line, simplicity and little ornamentation.

Very little remains of the household furniture of the early medieval period, called the Byzantine period, which followed the fall of Rome, about the year 476 A. D. The knowledge of furniture of these times comes chiefly from pictures, a very few actual examples, notably three famous throne chairs. Saint Peters chair in Rome, King Dagobert of France found in the National library in Paris. The throne of Maximia, archbishop of Ravenna, ornamented with carved ivory panels, sixth century, in the bishop's palace at Ravenna.

The furniture of this time was inclined to be heavy, somewhat architectural in design.

The furniture of the Early Renaissance period was simple in outline, dignified, large usually rectangular, and rested squarely upon the floor.

The history of both France and England begins with the Gothic period. It was the Gothic wood carver who realized the possibilities of improving the crude and cumbersome furniture in use, and of beautifying the home, so to chests, benches, tables, cabinets and beds he gave Gothic form and ornamentation.

The interest in Gothic domestic architecture has created a need for furniture which is in harmony with it and consequently many pieces of Gothic furniture are being reproduced today.

The French Renaissance period followed the Gothic period. This furniture lost the massiveness and discomfort which had characterized the Gothic period. Oak gradually gave way to walnut. The French Renaissance tables in general were long, cabinets were still heavy. The furniture of this period is not very much reproduced today, except for elaborate rooms in hotels or clubs.

The age of Louis XIV was marked by luxurious grandeur, and that of Louis XV was marked by luxurious frivolity. In no other period has hardware played such a part of ornamentation of furniture. Desks and tables were overloaded with gilt bronze Ormolu in the forms of garland, rosettes, masks, scrolls.

During the period of Louis XVI the furniture was smaller, more refined and graceful, though characterized by straight lines and symetry. It was a rather feminine interpretation of the classic. The woods most frequently used were mahogany and rose wood.

The Empire marks the last of distinctive French styles, since then there has been revivals of those which preceded it. Modern reproduction of the Louis XIV styles are suited only for unusually large and elegant rooms. Louis XV and XVI styles are being reproduced a great deal, their refined grace rendering them charmingly suited to many homes.

The Empire is also a favorite especially as it combines so well with our own American Empire.

The Queen Anne period has ever remained a favorite. The elements that gave this charm to Queen Anne furniture was its lightness of form, its grace of line, and its comfort. The angular lines gave way to curved lines, and the ornateness of the furniture of previous periods was displaced by simplicity. Queen Anne's furniture showed all the grace of Louis XV with added strength and charming simplicity.

Owing to these delightful qualities already dwelt upon lightness, grace and comfort, Queen Anne furniture is often used for living rooms and dining rooms of today. Its desirability is further enhanced by the fact that it combines happily with several other styles.

Furniture after Queen Anne's time was called after the cabinetmakers, thus the four most famous styles of the Georgian period, are called Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Adam, and Sheraton.

Chippendale's chairs were very much like those of the Queen Anne period with their splat backs, rounded shoulders, roomy seat, and cabriole legs. Chippendale was always seeking to create lighter types.

The next figure of importance was Geo. Hepplewhite, who for a time was influenced by Chippendale and Louis XV and XVI styles, but whose greatest work was inspired by the designs of the Adams brothers.

His furniture was light and graceful, often approaching daintiness; his style was rather classic, refined and charming, with a restrained use of painting, inlay and carving.

The next period shows furniture of America. The furniture history of the English Colonies, up to the Revolution, shows, with the exception of the Gothic, the same consecutive styles as in the mother country that is Queen Anne, and Chippendale. As Colonial furniture is limited to that which was imported or made in the Colonies previous to the Revolution, the furniture made in the later Georgian manner after 1776 is called Early American.

Very little Hepplewhite furniture was imported or copied. Duncan Phyfe's furniture was the most noted American, many of these pieces show his admiration of Adam and Sheraton designs, one may recognize his chairs by the concaved groove or laurel metal tip legs, the low open backs, often with an ornamental slat, broad slats, and scrolled arms.

Jefferson period was next, it is interesting to note that President Jefferson was a designer and maker of fine furniture.

From 1830 on America, like England was afflicted with Victorian and Eastlake montrosities, relieved only by a charmingly simple type, spinaled in the matter known as nulling, and called forefathers style.

The name Jenny Lind is sometimes given to beds of this pattern. The next vogue was called Mission, inspired by the furniture used in the Spanish Mission of California. The best of Mission is fairly light and simple and may be used in the cottage dining room.

It is best to buy slowly and wisely, a few good pieces each year. One cannot buy wisely unless you know something of the history of each individual piece and how well it combined with the other furniture already purchased.

Interesting Meeting

Presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. J. P. McCarthy, Sherrouse P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday with a good attendance.

Dr. Wolfe, local physician, gave a splendid talk on "Tuberculosis," stressing the importance of prevention. He also answered numerous questions on various subjects asked by the members.

Having as her subject "Safeguarding the Child from Moral Harm," Mrs. H. F. Shepard likened the child's religion to a flower, pointing out that it takes root in the home, flourishes in the school, and comes to full bloom in the life of the community. This gives the Parent-Teacher association a definite part in tending the growing plant exemplyfying in their own lives and in every activity of the association those spiritual qualities which make for right thinking and right living."

Delegates to the convention submitted reports at this time.

Officers and chairmen elected for the coming year were as follows: President, Mrs. G. A. Aden, reelected; vice-president, Mrs. H. F. Linquist; hospitality chairman, Mrs. Roland Seigle; finance chairman, Mrs. H. M. James; publications chairman, Mrs. J. E. Pope; publicity chairman, Mrs. M. Burgess.

Miss Faulk Is Guest Speaker

Miss Eleanor Faulk encountered many strange modes of travel during her trip around the world and endeavored in complying with a request from the Business and Professional Women's club to talk to them on the subject of "Transportation," to tell them something about foreign travel.

Embarking on a luxurious ocean liner from San Francisco she sailed into Japan and experienced the thrill of riding in a rickshaw, drawn by a native. En route to Korea she was towed upstream in a boat pulled by a mule. Drifting in a sampan was a novel experience, also riding in "chair-cars," carried by Chinese coolies. In Manila she rode in native carts drawn by great buffaloes. In Java vehicles are drawn by cows, but in Singapore more modern means of transportation is found. In Siam Miss Faulk jogged along on the back of an elephant and in India she rode in a bullock cart, a Victoria and in a two-wheeled cart. She drifted down the river Nile in a picturesque barge. In Europe traveling was more modern and one finds the compartments quite comfortable. Due to the bad roads in Germany bicycles are used by the lower class almost exclusively. Enormous draft horses are used in Russia.

Miss Faulk related her traveling experiences in the most fascinating manner and quite delighted her audience.

Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Couch Will Represent Monroe At P.-T. A. Convention In Miami

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, past president of the Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A., and Mrs. Carl Couch, fifth district director will represent Monroe at the thirty-ninth annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in Miami, Florida, on the twenty-ninth of April.

Because delegates to this convention will represent the citizens most deeply interested in the education and welfare of children, their coming together from all parts of the country is an event of profound significance. A splendid program designed to broaden their horizons for educational service has been planned.

Delegates and visitors will have an opportunity to absorb new ideas and to disseminate them. Exchange of ideas and experiences between delegates from New Hampshire and Oregon, from Maine, Mississippi, and Minnesota, and other widely separated points is bound to be mutually beneficial and stimulating. When a delegate from North Carolina relates how parent-teacher associations aided school administrators in keeping schools of the state open for a full term during the worst economic period in their history it will doubtless be helpful to delegates from states which were less successful in combating the effects of reduced school budgets.

Among the topics which will be discussed are the need of having good reading material available through establishment of proper library facilities; the educational program of the congress for the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures which are suitable for the recreation and education of youth; establishing, equipping and maintaining recreational centers in order that all children may have equal opportunity in using them; and safety education in the home and school.

One of the questions to be covered in this conference will be whether each local parent-teacher association should have a committee on each of the above subjects or whether one chairman can bring to her local unit sufficient information on all phases of public welfare to arouse her community to action.

Each afternoon of the convention from 1:30 to 3:30 o'clock, conferences are scheduled. These conferences cover the wide variety of interests to be found in an organization of 1,580,000 members, and include: parent education, radio, school education, humane education, summer round-up of the children, rural service, membership legislation, library service, motion pictures, recreation, safety, the exceptional child, music, student aid, character education, home education, home-making, international relations, child hygiene, The National Parent-Teacher magazine, and congress publications.

Birthday Party

The birthday party commemorating the eighth anniversary of Hiram Hendrix was one long to be remembered not only for the celebrant but for his young friends who were invited to share the pleasures. Following an afternoon of fun and frolic, ices and cakes were served to:

Taylor-Roddy Nuptials

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Dove Taylor and Mr. Charles Roddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Roddy, at the rectory of St. Matthews' Catholic church on the twenty-second of April with assistant pastor, Reverend Father M. E. Walsh officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Roddy are now at home to their friends at 309 North Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boyette, of Portland, Ark., are receiving the congratulations of friends over the arrival of a son, James Lucas, Jr., at Riverside sanitarium on the tenth of April.

OUR AIM: To render a service that will keep for us the lasting friendship of our patrons.

Miss Faulk Is Guest Speaker

Miss Eleanor Faulk encountered many strange modes of travel during her trip around the world and endeavored in complying with a request from the Business and Professional Women's club to talk to them on the subject of "Transportation," to tell them something about foreign travel.

Embarking on a luxurious ocean liner from San Francisco she sailed into Japan and experienced the thrill of riding in a rickshaw, drawn by a native. En route to Korea she was towed upstream in a boat pulled by a mule. Drifting in a sampan was a novel experience, also riding in "chair-cars," carried by Chinese coolies. In Manila she rode in native carts drawn by great buffaloes. In Java vehicles are drawn by cows, but in Singapore more modern means of transportation is found. In Siam Miss Faulk jogged along on the back of an elephant and in India she rode in a bullock cart, a Victoria and in a two-wheeled cart. She drifted down the river Nile in a picturesque barge. In Europe traveling was more modern and one finds the compartments quite comfortable. Due to the bad roads in Germany bicycles are used by the lower class almost exclusively. Enormous draft horses are used in Russia.

Miss Faulk related her traveling experiences in the most fascinating manner and quite delighted her audience.

Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Couch Will Represent Monroe At P.-T. A. Convention In Miami

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, past president of the Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A., and Mrs. Carl Couch, fifth district director will represent Monroe at the thirty-ninth annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in Miami, Florida, on the twenty-ninth of April.

Because delegates to this convention will represent the citizens most deeply interested in the education and welfare of children, their coming together from all parts of the country is an event of profound significance. A splendid program designed to broaden their horizons for educational service has been planned.

Delegates and visitors will have an opportunity to absorb new ideas and to disseminate them. Exchange of ideas and experiences between delegates from New Hampshire and Oregon, from Maine, Mississippi, and Minnesota, and other widely separated points is bound to be mutually beneficial and stimulating. When a delegate from North Carolina relates how parent-teacher associations aided school administrators in keeping schools of the state open for a full term during the worst economic period in their history it will doubtless be helpful to delegates from states which were less successful in combating the effects of reduced school budgets.

Among the topics which will be discussed are the need of having good reading material available through establishment of proper library facilities; the educational program of the congress for the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures which are suitable for the recreation and education of youth; establishing, equipping and maintaining recreational centers in order that all children may have equal opportunity in using them; and safety education in the home and school.

One of the questions to be covered in this conference will be whether each local parent-teacher association should have a committee on each of the above subjects or whether one chairman can bring to her local unit sufficient information on all phases of public welfare to arouse her community to action.

Each afternoon of the convention from 1:30 to 3:30 o'clock, conferences are scheduled. These conferences cover the wide variety of interests to be found in an organization of 1,580,000 members, and include: parent education, radio, school education, humane education, summer round-up of the children, rural service, membership legislation, library service, motion pictures, recreation, safety, the exceptional child, music, student aid, character education, home education, home-making, international relations, child hygiene, The National Parent-Teacher magazine, and congress publications.

Birthday Party

The birthday party commemorating the eighth anniversary of Hiram Hendrix was one long to be remembered not only for the celebrant but for his young friends who were invited to share the pleasures. Following an afternoon of fun and frolic, ices and cakes were served to:

Taylor-Roddy Nuptials

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Dove Taylor and Mr. Charles Roddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Roddy, at the rectory of St. Matthews' Catholic church on the twenty-second of April with assistant pastor, Reverend Father M. E. Walsh officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Roddy are now at home to their friends at 309 North Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boyette, of Portland, Ark., are receiving the congratulations of friends over the arrival of a son, James Lucas, Jr., at Riverside sanitarium on the tenth of April.

THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO DO . . .

To tell a lot of people a few homely truths . . . the perennial flapper to be her age and cut out the girly-girly stuff . . . to tell the chatter-box not to monopolize the conversation . . . to cut loose, once and for all, from the woman who can't keep a confidence . . . that semi-starvation is not becoming to any woman over twenty . . . to steal away for days and bathe our spirits in the freedom of the woods . . . to dash through the red stop light.

BANKS LEND AID IN MODERNIZING

Money For Mortgages, Repair Credit Allocated In Four States

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Financial institutions in many sections of the country are cooperating with the Federal Housing administration by allocating large sums of money specifically for insured mortgage loans and modernization credit. The practice is becoming more prevalent weekly according to reports received in the Washington headquarters of the housing administration.

Under this procedure the banks allocate a specific amount of funds for such applications and advertise the fact to the general public. Such allocations received from three states so far aggregate in excess of $12,810,000.

Minnesota Reports

Most recent to report is Minnesota, with total reported allocations to date being in excess of $6,000,000. Indiana previously reported aggregate allotments of $5,285,000; Illinois, $1,525,000.

The movement is probably more widespread than indicated by the figures obtained so far, according to the Federal Housing administration. The Minnesota figures were submitted from the state director of that state who made a check of his territory after hearing that such a practice was in effect in Indiana and Illinois. In reply to a letter he sent to banks in Minnesota he obtained the information that 23 Minnesota banks had made allocations so far. One of the banks headed the list with allocations amounting to "several million dollars."

Other state directors are expected to submit similar findings in their respective states within a few weeks, according to the Federal Housing administration.

REPAIR PLANS AID TO COPPER

Industry Feels Stimulating Benefit Of Federal Housing Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Success of the modernization credit program of the Federal Housing administration and the more widespread use of quality materials for building are given as reason for a marked increase in the consumption of copper and its alloys, according to a statement by Bertram S. Caddle, secretary of the Copper and Brass Research Association of New York City.

Mr. Caddle's statement:

"Consumption of copper and its alloys in the building field have shown marked improvement since the inauguration of the Better Housing Program sponsored by the Federal Housing administration. This can be attributed to two factors: First, the success of the modernization of homes, and second, to the use of better building materials.

"Large tonnages of copper are being used for repairs to leaky roofs; copper and brass pipe and copper tubing to replace worn-out water lines; solid brass and bronze for hardware and lighting fixtures, and bronze for insect screens. In addition, these metals are being used in modernizing business buildings and in new construction.

"Any general movement, whether governmentally or privately inspired, that has for its purpose the modernization of American homes and business buildings, must necessarily have the endorsement and support of those whose business is in raw materials and articles manufactured from raw materials. The basis of the better housing program is, as I understand it, the replacement in residences and business building of durable materials for the shoddy and unreliable, and the bringing up-to-date of properties which haxe deteriorated badly during the period of economic stress. The copper and brass industry, through its own organization, has preached the modernization doctrine for many years, and have met with a large measure of success. Now that the government has made the financing of repairs and improvements a relatively simply matter, this movement should gain impetus rapidly."

WOMEN ENLIST IN PWA PLANS

Initiate Program To Organize Home Clubs Throughout Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—Organization of Home Improvement clubs, composed of members of women's clubs, labor and farm clubs, and civic organizations will get under way within a few days in Oklahoma as a part of the nation-wide movement to acquaint the women of America with the details of the better housing program, the federal housing administration is advised.

The plan, as it is being evolved in Oklahoma, is being organized by the staff of the federal housing administration for the western district of the state, and a woman field representative has been assigned to organize the home improvement clubs.

Contact will be made with all women's organizations and organized clubs in as many cities as possible. As soon as 10 or 12 units are organized, a state meeting will be called, with representatives of all clubs participating in the movement in attendance. At this state meeting a constitution and bylaws will be adopted and an application for a charter filed with the secretary of state. When this charter is granted, individual charters will then be issued to each local club organized. State headquarters will be established and additional clubs will be organized wherever possible.

The purpose of the clubs, it is explained, will be to "stimulate interest in better homes, to educate citizens as to the best methods of improving their homes, and to encourage every citizen to make all necessary improvements to his home, as such improvements are consistent with intelligent domestic economy."

Architects Lend Aid With Novel Service To Home Modernizers

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—A newly organized consultation service through which approximately 50 registered architects have made their training and experience available to householders, in a manner similar to the services of a doctor, has been inaugurated here.

Organization of this service, which marks a change in precedent in the architectural profession, has been instituted to bring about a closer contact between the profession and home owners, particularly at a time when great stress is being placed upon remodeling and modernizing of dwellings. Heretofore property owners have been able to employ architects solely on the basis of complete service, involving the praparation of plans, designs, specifications, and supervision. For these reasons the average home owner desiring expert advice on small modernization projects, has in the past found it impracticable to employ an architect.

Now an architect's services may be obtained for advice on remodeling work on the basis of a very nominal fee, either for office consultation or home inspection. A standard fee has been agreed upon by the Philadelphia architects participating in this movement. A central point has been established where property owners may make inquiries by telephone.

PAINTING ELIMINATES

Paint minimizes the danger of damage by insects and vermin. A fresh coat of light colored paint in clothes closets, linen closets and other poorly lighted parts of the home deter moths, ants, spiders, mice and other household vermin from emerging from dark places; and putty, paint and varnish fill up their hiding places. Surface protection should also be given floors and all portions of the home where cracks and crevices occur. This modernizing may be done by loans insured through the federal housing administration.

CELLAR REPAIRS GAIN IN FAVOR

Wide Variety In Improvements For Waste Space In Basement

Opportunities to make good use of little-used space in the cellar or basement are being realized by more and more home owners, the federal housing administration is advised.

In hundreds of homes there is ample space, in which to construct a recreation room, den, playroom, or study nook. Although few southern homes have cellars in the ordinary sense, there is other available space under the house that can be put to good use.

Utilization of any of a score of wall materials now on the market; modern floor covering; built-in effects; careful color scheme has produced many strikingly effective results in homes that have taken advantage of the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration. Cost of such projects has been found to be extremely low, when the added comfort and value to the property made by such additions are taken into consideration.

The transformed cellar, when properly insulated, can be made into a delightful room in which to live by the inclusion of air-conditioning equipment to regulate the temperature and humidity of the room.

There has been a noticeable trend in the construction of such rooms toward individuality. Rooms of this character have been found to be very effective when a definite theme in design and decoration are carried out. The rustic charm of the "hunting lodge" motif is one popular design. In other instances a nautical atmosphere is effectively created with the appointments of a ship's cabin, with color scheme and furnishings of a like nature. Other cellar modernizations have been constructed to emulate the tap room of an old inn; the trophy room of a country gentleman; the studio of an artist; the variations are many.

Inclusion of an open hearth, both for utility as well as decoration, adds much to such a room.

The added convenience of an extra room where guests may be entertained, where privacy may be had for reading, study, or an afternoon nap, are only a few of the features of such a room. Careful planning, use of quality materials, and intelligent decoratoin can easily make such a room the show place of the entire home.

REPAIR CRACKS

Cracks which may have developed in stucco walls during the winter should be repaired before the walls are saturated by driving spring rains. Rainwater may cause deterioration of interior portions of the wall and be a contributing cause of further cracking of the stucco necessitating complete replacement of the exterior surface.

J-M Roof Coatings make old roofs absolutely water-shedding

WATER runs off a roof treated with Johns-Manville Roof Coating like water off a duck's back. Even leaky composition or metal roofs may become absolutely water-shedding when treated with J-M Roof Coating. Not a drop of rain, sleet or melted snow can seep through!

When the roof has cracks or small holes, use J-M Fibrous Enamel. Its heavy asbestos fibre content bridges gaps and forms a protective membrane over the entire roof area. Regal Roof Coating, a similar material, but without the asbestos, can be used when the roof is in better condition.

All J-M Roof Coatings can be applied with a large brush. A simple treatment—yet it will make your old roof good for many more years. Full directions on every container.

BANKS LEND AID IN MODERNIZING

Money For Mortgages, Repair Credit Allocated In Four States

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Financial institutions in many sections of the country are cooperating with the Federal Housing administration by allocating large sume of money specifically for insured mortgage loans and modernization credit. The practice is becoming more prevalent weekly according to reports received in the Washington headquarters of the housing administration.

Under this procedure the banks allocate a specific amount of funds for such applications and advertise the fact to the general public. Such allocations received from three states so far aggregate in excess of $12,810,000.

Minnesota Reports

Most recent to report is Minnesota, with total reported allocations to date being in excess of $6,000,000. Indiana previously reported aggregate allotments of $5,285,000; Illinois, $1,525,000.

The movement is probably more widespread than indicated by the figures obtained so far, according to the Federal Housing administration. The Minnesota figures were submitted from the state director of that state who made a check of his territory after hearing that such a practice was in effect in Indiana and Illinois. In reply to a letter he sent to banks in Minnesota he obtained the information that 23 Minnesota banks had made allocations so far. One of the banks headed the list with allocations amounting to "several million dollars."

Other state directors are expected to submit similar findings in their respective states within a few weeks, according to the Federal Housing administration.

ETAIL GROCERS TO PARTICIPATE

New York Merchants Lead Way In Modernizing Campaign

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Plans are rapidly being completed to organize a food-store modernization program in the state of New York, by the New York Food Merchants association in cooperation with the federal housing administration.

The plan is expected to open a market this year for millions of dollars of [illegible] equipment and building materials.

Working in close harmony with federal housing administration representatives, the food association will function as a clearing house for information relative to all phases of modernization and repair of food stores.

45,000 Affected

Approximately 45,000 individual food stores in New York state will be the objective of the program. The advantages from a merchandising standpoint of attractive store fronts and appealing displays will be pointed out to the store owners. The advantages of increased value of property and the retarding of depreciation by improvements will also be cited. The annual sales volume of such stores in the state is estimated at $750,000,000.

Robert F. Miller, executive secretary of the food association, recently toured the state and found that many store owners who have been holding back are making definite plans to modernize their establishments during the coming spring and summer.

It is the intent of the program to approach the problem in an organized way according to Mr. Miller. Through cooperation from the federal housing administration, each store owner will be supplied with accurate information, giving him details of the manner in which to obtain modernization credit and suggestions as to how he may carry out his individual project.

Scope Of Plan

Every type of permanent improvement, including the installation of many forms of built-in equipment, besides actual repairs to the building, are possible through the federal housing administration's modernization credit plan. Where the merchant is without the adequate cash to complete his project, to obtain from commercial banks and other financial agencies a sum not in excess of $2,000.

In New York several primary factors will be stressed: Modernization of store fronts, lighting, open display, [illegible], refrigerator display cases, [illegible] display racks, flooring, and [illegible] equipment.

In line with the New York movement, the housing administration is advised that the National Association of Retail Grocers has estimated that not less than 50,000 of the more than 300,000 retail grocers in many sections of the country are planning to modernize their places of business this year.

COLORED CONCRETE

The use of color adds charm and beauty to pools, walks, drives, terraces, recreation rooms, porch floors, hearthstones and other home improvements in the construction of which concrete is used. Rich browns, pleasant greens and similar colors break the monotony of large expanses of concrete, either blending with surrounding settings or contrasting harmoniously with them.

Unemployment Decrease Is Shown By Labor Federation

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A two-per cent decrease in unemployment in the building trades unions was noted in March as compared with February, according to the unemployment report of the American Federation of Labor, the first March since 1930 to show such an improvement.

In March, according to the report, 59 per cent of the membership of building trades unions was unemployed as compared with 61 per cent unemployed in February.

In 1934 the month of March showed no gain over February, while in 1933 the month of March showed a 1 per cent loss. In 1932 and 1931 there were no changes while in 1930, comparison of the two months showed a 2 per cent loss. In 1928, the boom year, a loss of 1 per cent was noted. A 1 per cent gain was shown in 1929.

Significant in the report are employment gains in the larger cities. In every previous depression, the larger cities with their large pools of skilled labor have been the last to feel the effects of revival in the building industry, the smaller places always leading the way. The tendency of the larger places to get into line, first noted in the late autumn, is shown by reduction of unemployment in March form the preceding month ranging from 2 per cent in Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, and Washington to 14 per cent in San Francisco.

New York, which has hitherto lagged in a discouraging degree, shows a 3 per cent reduction; Birmingham, Ala., 4 per cent; Denver, 11 per cent; Jersey City, 5 per cent; Milwaukee, 13 per cent; Minneapolis, 3 per cent; Philadelphia, 6 per cent; Pittsburgh, 5 per cent; San Antonio, 7 per cent; St. Louis, 9 per cent; and Seattle, 9 per cent.

Dealing as it does with employment of trade unionists, the report does not reflect the employment of so-called "handy men" who do much repair and modernization work nor the employment of nonunionists in such "open shop" cities as Los Angeles where there is a large volume of modernization and repair work under way, as well as a considerable amount of new construction.

Needs Of Farms Shown In Government Study

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Outstanding needs of the farm home, as indicated by 17,981 cases investigated by the department of agricultural extension of Purdue university, are principally sewerage, paint, and screening, according to a report received by the federal housing administration.

Of the farms investigated the following percentage table was formulated: 95 per cent were found to be in need of a safe method of sewage disposal; 55 per cent were in need of new paint; 41 per cent required more adequate screening; 31 per cent, miscellaneous repairs and replacements; 28 per cent, foundation repairs; 25 per cent, more closet space; 14 per cent, kitchen sinks.

The purposes of the Purdue investigation were to promote sound and attractive building and to protect the farm home from unnecessary depreciation; to develop conditions which promote health and comfort; the provision of conveniences which will end needless drudgery; and to encourage a suitable setting for the farm home.

REPLACING WALLS

Gloomy, chipped walls will spoil the interior appearance of any home. It is possible today to very economically repair, replace or cover over these walls, adding both to the durability and beauty of your home. Panelling with wall board or plywood in the living rooms, wainscoting in the dining room, kitchen or bathroom; plaster or wallboard in the bedrooms; will make the home look years younger. In the attic or cellar new rooms may be added by a few partitions and by applying new materials over the unfinished or unattractive wall surfaces.

SASH ADVICE

When removing the storm sash with the advent of warm spring weather, it is advisable to clean and oil hinges or similar fastenings to protect them from rusting or deteriorating during the spring and summer. Fastenings left on the house should be firmly secured to the building and a protective coat of paint or varnish applied, if necessary. Then when the home owner is ready to use them again in the fall, there will be no delays or expensive repairs to make.

HOME IS MORE THAN A HOUSE

Writer Urges New Homes As Means To Deter Decay Of Social Order

"America has been losing its homes for years and we must stop this social decay. I hope to see millions of new houses building soon—then turned into real homes. America—Land of Homes!"

With these words Walter Pitkin, professor of journalism at Columbia university and well known author, completed an address delivered recently over a nation-wide hook-up on the subject "What Home Means to Me." The address was a part of a series presented under auspices of the federal housing administration by the General Electric company.

Professor Pitkin said, in part:

"You notice they don't call the fellows who handle this money the federal home administration. They call them the federal housing administration. And with good reason.

Government Helps

"Let me put you straight. The government can't build a home for you. All it can do is to help you put together some lumber and hardware on some plot of ground. The finest architect in the world can't design a home for you. The best he can do is to arrange some rooms for pleasant living.

"You alone can make your home. Not with sticks and stones. Not with rugs and curtains. Not with shower baths and spiral staircases. Oh, no! If ever you have a home you make it out of yourself. You are at home only when you are yourself. You are your own building material. And your house is your castle, but your home is yourself in architecture.

"Some people have one-room personalities. Others have parlor-bedroom-and-bath souls. Some are ground-floor characters, and others have pent-house personalities. Some are by nature, homeless; they merely reside somewhere or else they keep moving. Those who just keep moving are bums. We'll forget them this morning. Those who just reside somewhere may be homeless by choice or homeless out of necessity.

"A home is more than a residence. Home is wherever you can comfortably be yourself."

Building Orders Tax Supply House Ability

A business increase in which demand is in excess of ability to supply is credited largely to the better housing program by F. K. Weyerhaeuser o fthe Weyerhaeuser Sales company, St. Paul, Minn.

An excerpt from a letter from Mr. Weyerhaeuser reads as follows:

"Such items as moulding, natural shingles, stained shingles, plywood, stepping, lath, etc., which enter largely into modernization and repair jobs are being ordered at a faster rate than we can supply. All lumber items that enter into house construction are in greater demand and the ratio of our business to our inventories is better than it has been for a long time. The operations of the national housing act are no doubt, largely responsible for this condition."

RETAIL GROCERS TO PARTICIPATE

New York Merchants Lead Way In Modernizing Campaign

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Plans are rapidly being completed to organize a food-store modernization program in the state of New York, by the New York Food Merchants association in cooperation with the federal housing administration.

The plan is expected to open a market this year for millions of dollars of new equipment and building materials.

Working in close harmony with federal housing administration representatives, the food association will function as a clearing house for information relative to all phases of modernization and repair of food stores.

45,000 Affected

Approximately 45,000 individual food stores in New York state will be the objective of the program. The advantages from a merchandising standpoint of attractive store fronts and appealing displays will be pointed out to the store owners. The advantages of increased value of property and the retarding of depreciation by improvements will also be cited. The annual sales volume of such stores in the state is estimated at $750,000,000.

Robert F. Miller, executive secretary of the food association, recently toured the state and found that many store owners who have been holding back are making definite plans to modernize their establishments during the coming spring and summer.

It is the intent of the program to approach the problem in an organized way, according to Mr. Miller. Through cooperation from the federal housing administration, each store owner will be supplied with accurate information, giving him details of the manner in which to obtain modernization credit and suggestions as to how he may carry out his individual project.

Scope Of Plan

Every type of permanent improvement, including the installation of many forms of built-in equipment, besides actual repairs to the building, are possible through the federal housing administration's modernization credit plan. Where the merchant is without the adequate cash to complete his project, to obtain from commercial banks and other financial agencies a sum not in excess of $2,000.

In New York several primary factors will be stressed: Modernization of store fronts, lighting, open display, shelving, refrigerator display cases, vegetable display racks, flooring, and working equipment.

In line with the New York movement, the housing administration is advised that the National Association of Retail Grocers has estimated that not less than 50,000 of the more than 300,000 retail grocers in many sections of the country are planning to modernize their places of business this year.

COLORED CONCRETE

The use of color adds charm and beauty to pools, walks, drives, terraces, recreation rooms, porch floors, hearthstones and other home improvements in the construction of which concrete is used. Rich browns, pleasant greens and similar colors break the monotony of large expanses of concrete, either blending with surrounding settings or contrasting harmoniously with them.

Unemployment Decrease Is Shown By Labor Federation

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A two-per cent decrease in unemployment in the building trades unions was noted in March as compared with February, according to the unemployment report of the American Federation of Labor, the first March since 1930 to show such an improvement.

In March, according to the report, 59 per cent of the membership of building trades unions was unemployed as compared with 61 per cent unemployed in February.

In 1934 the month of March showed no gain over February, while in 1933 the month of March showed a 1 per cent loss. In 1932 and 1931 there were no changes while in 1930, comparison of the two months showed a 2 per cent loss. In 1928, the boom year, a loss of 1 per cent was noted. A 1 per cent gain was shown in 1929.

Significant in the report are employment gains in the larger cities. In every previous depression, the larger cities with their large pools of skilled labor have been the last to feel the effects of revival in the building industry, the smaller places always leading the way. The tendency of the larger places to get into line, first noted in the late autumn, is shown by reduction of unemployment in March form the preceding month ranging from 2 per cent in Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, and Washington to 14 per cent in San Francisco.

New York, which has hitherto lagged in a discouraging degree, shows a 3 per cent reduction; Birmingham, Ala., 4 per cent; Denver, 11 per cent; Jersey City, 5 per cent; Milwaukee, 13 per cent; Minneapolis, 3 per cent; Philadelphia, 6 per cent; Pittsburgh, 5 per cent; San Antonio, 7 per cent; St. Louis, 9 per cent; and Seattle, 9 per cent.

Dealing as it does with employment of trade unionists, the report does not reflect the employment of so-called "handy men" who do much repair and modernization work nor the employment of nonunionists in such "open shop" cities as Los Angeles where there is a large volume of modernization and repair work under way, as well as a considerable amount of new construction.

The DARK BLOND

BEGINNING THE LOVE STORY OF A GIRL WHO BAFFLED AN ENTIRE CITY

CHAPTER I

Millicent Graves glanced from her new fur coat, which was visible through the open door of the coat closet, to the clock.

The clock showed 5:35, and George Drimgold hadn't as yet returned to sign the mail.

Her capable fingers flew over the keys of the typewriter, finishing the last stereotyped "Beg to remain, very truly yours," of the voluminous correspondence.

The outer door opened with explosive violence. George Drimgold pushed toward his private office.

"Come in, Miss Graves," he said. "Bring a notebook."

Millicent frowned.

There was a stack of mail that would take 10 or 15 minutes to fold, seal and stamp. Of late this overtime work had been getting to be a habit with Drimgold, and Millicent Graves had made up her mind that she'd tell him, in a nice way, that just a little more consideration would give her time to freshen up a bit before dinner.

But Millicent, however, was hardly in a position to become firm with her employer tonight. She had a favor to ask. So she sighed, picked up her notebook, and followed George Drimgold into the private office.

Drimgold stared at her with eyes which glittered strangely.

Millicent Graves didn't notice the signs of inner emotion. A sudden surge of valor possessed her. She acted upon impulse, and heard her own voice speaking, almost before she realized what she was doing.

"Mr. Drimgold," she said, "I wonder if it would be possible for me to get an advance on next month's salary? It happens that I've had some rather heavy expenses this month, and . . ."

"No," he told her shortly. "I'm sorry, but it's impossible."

"Very well," she said with dignity. "It's after 5 o'clock. Your mail is ready for signing. Shall I get it?"

"Not yet. I've got something to dictate to you."

"It's after 5."

He said irritably, "I don't care what time it is. I told you I've got some dictation. You're going to have to work tonight. You'll have to eat downtown. There's a tearoom in the block."

She could feel the pulse pounding in her throat. She realized now that Drimgold was in a most irritable mood. Yet, having started to assert her rights, she didn't intend to stop.

"What I am about to dictate, Miss Graves," Drimgold said, "is of the utmost importance. I don't want to be interrupted . . ."

"Before we start in on that dictation," Millicent Graves said firmly, "there's the question of finances and overtime. I know that jobs are scarce, Mr. Drimgold, but it takes virtually every cent that I make in order to live."

"I noticed you flashed out with a new fur coat," he retorted sarcastically.

"Yes, I did," she said, "and I needed it. It was a bargain I couldn't pass up. I paid for it out of my own money. You don't have to give me an advance if you don't want to. On the other hand, I certainly don't have to work overtime for you. As it happens, I can't do it tonight. I haven't enough money to even pay for any dinner."

Drimgold frowned, thrust a hand into his trousers pocket, pulled out a roll of bills. He hesitated a moment, then replaced the bills. From his other pocket he took some silver and slid a 50-cent piece across the desk to her.

"You can get enough to eat," he said, "for half a dollar. I'll pay for the meal. I won't pay for overtime. If you don't want this position, I can get others who do."

Millicent Graves pushed back her chair. Despite herself, her voice rose.

"That's the thing that I hate about you!" she screamed. "Your lack of consideration—your penny-pinching tactics. It took two girls to do your work before I came here. I'm doing the work of both of those girls at one girl's salary. Even then, I would not mind the work if you'd be decent about it. You treat a girl like a slave, and I'm not going to be a slave. I don't care how scarce jobs are. I'm going to get a raise or I'm going to quit."

She heard one of the janitors moving around in the other office, and realized her voice had been high-pitched with rage.

"You don't need to quit," Drimgold shouted. "You're fired!"

"Very well," she said, and closed her book with a vicious snap.

Her hand was on the knob of the door as Drimgold's voice, strangely changed, reached her ears. "Wait a minute," he pleaded. "Let's be reasonable. I need you. I've got some most important dictation. You can't leave me now. I'm all upset. Please forgive me."

She turned to stare at him, and suddenly realized that the man was speaking the simple truth. She hesitated for a moment, then came back to the dictating table, spread out her notebook, and said frostily, "Very well. What is it, a letter?"

"No," said Drimgold slowly, "it's a confession."

Despite herself, she felt quick sympathy, as she saw the expression on his face.

"Wait a minute," Drimgold pleaded. "Let's be reasonable. You can't leave me now."

"I'm going to dictate this confession," he said. "You're going to write it out. Then I'm going to sign it, and you'll witness it. Please take this down, Miss Graves. To whom it may concern: This is to certify that I, George Drimgold, of the age of 48 years, president of the Drimgold Realty Revaluation company, am guilty of being an accessory to a murder.

"I am not guilty of that murder. I do, however, know the guilty party. For years I have protected this party and have myself shared in the benefits which accrued from that murder.

"In order to make this confession intelligible at this late date, it is necessary for me to set forth certain facts. These facts can be best be explained by certain documentary evidence, certain newspaper clippings which I will quote herein at length."

Drimgold paused in his dictation, turned to the wall safe above his desk. His fingers touched the knob of the combination; then he turned to Millicent Graves.

"I've got to get some documents," he said. "Go ahead and get that mail. I'll sign it. Then you can get it in the mail chute."

She went to the outer office, returned with the stack of mail, placed it on the desk in front of him. He signed the letters with a firm, steady hand. She folded the mail, placed it in the envelopes, sealed and stamped the envelopes. Drimgold took some papers from the wall safe, started pawing through them, arranging them in some sort of a sequence.

"Go get yourself something to eat," he said, without looking up. "Lock the door as you go out. I don't want to be disturbed. Be sure the door's locked. If you see a woman in a black ermine coat, with a big collar up around her face, don't let her in under any circumstances. If she's in the corridor when you come back from dinner, don't unlock the office door. Go some place and telephone me. I'll answer the telephone. And don't be long."

"Very well, Mr. Drimgold," Millicent said, with mechanical obedience, but she was thinking that the dinner she could buy at the tea room for 50 cents wouldn't unreasonably detain her.

She stood in front of the mirror, giving finishing touches to her face, and thinking of Drimgold's strange confession. She might have known it was something like that. No man who was guilty of the petty, chiseling tactics George Drimgold used could be quite the pillar of society that he liked to simulate.

She snuggled into her fur coat, scooped up the mail, snapped an elastic band around the pack of letters, took care to throw the spring lock on the door into position, nodded to the assistant janitor as she stepped out into the corridor.

She went to the elevator, dropped her letters down the mail chute, pulled her coat tightly around her figure as she met the cold wind of the street. The tingling air felt good to her skin. She fought her way to the lighted tearoom. After all, it was frightfully high priced. However, they did have nice food; and there was a woman who told fortunes with the tea leaves, who went from table to table.

Millicent Graves suddenly realized that her own future was going to cause her some concern. Drimgold had told her she was fired. Quite probably he was serious.

She pushed the door and entered the welcome warmth of the tearoom. She hung up the fur coat where she could keep an eye on it, dropped her purse to a chair beside her and consulted the menu.

MILLICENT GRAVES

She could, she saw, get some chicken croquettes and tea and still leave a 10-cent tip for the waitress out of the 50 cents Drimgold had given her. The croquettes, she knew, were small and entirely unsatisfying as fuel to fortify herself against the cold ride home. However, if she had the small steak at 50 cents, it would mean there was no tip for the girl, and the waitress looked tired. Probably she, too, was overworked and underpaid.

Millicent decided on the croquettes, and gave her order. She took a cigaret from her purse and was holding a match to it when her eyes suddenly snapped to quick attention. A woman, with a coat of black ermine wrapped around her, had entered the tearoom. She walked with quick, nervous steps. Millicent couldn't see her face, but she could glimpse a coldly baleful eye.

Then the woman in the ermine coat swept past her and took the table just back of the one where Millicent sat.

Millicent ate in slow, thoughtful silence. The woman, dressed as a gypsy, whose duty it was to tell fortunes, came across the room toward her, eyes smiling, white teeth gleaming from between red lips.

"I feel," she said, "that you're going to have a very interesting fortune. Have you finished your tea?"

Millicent smiled wanly. "Really," she said, "I'm not particularly interested, and I haven't any money for a tip if you should give me a good fortune."

The woman sank into a chair beside her, pulled Millicent's tea cup across the table, said, "I do this because I like it. I'm called to do it, you know. Many times I can save people from misfortune."

She stared steadily down into the few tea leaves in the bottom of the tea cup.

Abruptly she stiffened.

"Look," said the fortune teller "Look at the way those leaves are arranged. See how black they are, and notice this leaf which has twisted its edges."

"What do they mean?" Millicent inquired.

"Dark deeds of violence," the fortune teller said. "There's murder in the tea cup."

"Murder!" Millicent exclaimed.

"Not yours," the gypsy said hastily. "The murder of someone who's close to you. There's danger to you, but you're not going to be murdered. The danger comes from a woman. I can't see her clearly. She's menacing you, and yet she's the woman you'd least expect."

Millicent hastily pushed the tea cup away.

"I've heard enough," she said irritably. "I'm tired and nervous, and I don't want to hear any more of your predictions."

The gypsy scraped back her chair from the table.

"I'm sorry," she said. "Genuinely sorry, I've only told you because I thought you should be warned."

Millicent flashed her a quick glance, and saw the gypsy's face was white and strained.

"Please forgive me," she said.

Millicent left a tip for the waitress, picked up her check, her gloves and purse, strode to the door. Strange chills tingled up and down her spine. The hairs at the back of her neck seemed to crawl at the roots, trying to bristle.

The fresh bite of the wind helped to steady her nerves. She was sorry that the walk was not longer. As she turned into the lighted lobby of the office building, she signed her name on the night register, and was swept up to the 17th floor. She walked down the flagged corridor with quick, nervous steps, the sound of her heels clacking in echoes from the sides of the corridor. She paused before Drimgold's office and opened her purse.

Consternation gripped her.

It was not her purse at all.

Millicent turned the purse over in her hand and stared at it curiously. It was an exact duplicate of her purse—even to the initials, "M. G.," monogramed on the leather.

With the quick mental processes of one who has worked for a living, and who, therefore, has grown accustomed to responsibilities, Millicent Graves, standing before Drimgold's door, made hasty mental inventory of the situation.

She had made up her face before leaving Drimgold's office. She knew, therefore, that she had taken her own purse when she left the office. The substitution must have taken place at the restaurant. The woman in the black ermine coat, with the high collar, in taking the table immediately behind Millicent, must have have left her own purse near Millicent's.

Millicent tucked the purse under her arm, whirled and almost ran toward the elevators.

She pressed her gloved finger against the bell which summoned the elevator. It seemed ages before it swept into view. When it did she saw, to her surprise, that the man at the controls was not the janitor at all, but a well-dressed individual of suave manners, who swung open the door for her with something of a flourish, and, at the same moment, raised his hat.

"You'll pardon me," he said, "but I found the elevator on the 16th floor. I was in something of a hurry to go down. I rang several times for the janitor. He didn't show up, so I decided to take a hand at the controls myself. I figured the janitor could walk down 16 flights of stairs better than I could. Then I heard you ringing from the 17th floor and couldn't conscientiously abandon you to a long climb down the stairs. Would you care to share in my adventure?"

Perturbed as she was, Millicent nevertheless recognized the man's inherent strength of character, was moved by his magnetic personality.

"Are you," she asked, "quite certain that you know how to operate it?"

"Oh, quite," he told her. "After all, it isn't too complicated."

As she entered the cage, the man moved a lever, the door clanged shut. He pressed over on the control throttle and the elevator shot downward.

"The trick," he said, smiling, "lies in knowing just when to stop." And then, before fear could grip her, he pushed the control lever back into neutral and the cage slid smoothly to a stop. He moved the lever which opened the door.

"Permit me," he said and, taking her arm, escorted her to the street.

"You go this way?" he asked, nodding toward the right.

"Yes," she said, hardly knowing whether it was proper for her to continue the acquaintanceship so informally begun.

"Well," he said, to her relief, "I go the other way. You won't tell the janitor about the elevator, will you?"

He raised his hat, and, smiling, turned to sweep down on the wings of the cold night wind.

Millicent almost ran through the swinging door into the tearoom. Her eyes encountered the gypsy girl.

"My purse," she said breathlessly. "What became of the woman in the black fur coat? The black ermine with the collar around the neck?"

The fortune teller stared at Millicent strangely.

"She crossed to a table back of you," she said, "and only stayed for a minute or two. She wasn't served."

"Do you know who she was?"

"No."

Millicent Graves stared down at the black leather purse she held in her hand.

"If," she said, "she comes in, tell her to get in touch with Miss Graves, at Mr. Drimgold's office on the 17th floor of the Wolgamott building."

The fortune teller nodded.

"I'll tell her," she said.

Millicent fled out of the door, was blown by the wind down the sidewalk.

She was within some 50 feet of the entrance to the Wolgamott building when a figure, garbed in white, came rushing out of the lobby. She recognized the man as the assistant janitor.

As she looked at his white, frightened face, conscious of the cold perspiration on his forehead, of the manner in which the night wind whipped her hair about his forehead, he screamed the single word, "Murder!" Then he turned and ran down the sidewalk as fast as he could go, the wind at his back helping him in his burst of speed.

Millicent Graves, filled with some sudden premonition of impending disaster, in turn raced toward the lobby of the building. She found the elevator open and deserted. She had remembered enough of the manner in which it should be operated to work the lever which closed the door, and pushed the throttle over to the left.

It took a moment of fumbling with the controls to get the cage stopped at the 17th floor. Then, having opened the door, she ran down the corridor.

The door of Drimgold's private office was open.

Drimgold lay on the floor. A bullet hole in the center of his forehead welled a thick, red stream across the carpeted floor. A half-opened purse was clutched in the fingers of his left hand. The contents were scattered over the floor.

One swift look at the purse, and she recognized it. It was her own purse. The things which were strewn about the room were her own—lipstick, compact, handkerchief, visiting cards.

She felt panic tighten her throat. Moved by impulse, she ran to the window, flung it open and looked down the 17 floors.

The white-garbed assistant janitor was just rounding the corner, and, slightly behind him, ran a uniformed policeman.

CHAPTER I

Millicent Graves glanced from her new fur coat, which was visible through the open door of the coat closet, to the clock.

The clock showed 5:35, and George Drimgold hadn't as yet returned to sign the mail.

Her capable fingers flew over the keys of the typewriter, finishing the last stereotyped "Beg to remain, very truly yours," of the voluminous correspondence.

The outer door opened with explosive violence. George Drimgold pushed toward his private office.

"Come in, Miss Graves," he said. "Bring a notebook."

Millicent frowned.

There was a stack of mail that would take 10 or 15 minutes to fold, seal and stamp. Of late this overtime work had been getting to be a habit with Drimgold, and Millicent Graves had made up her mind that she'd tell him, in a nice way, that just a little more consideration would give her time to freshen up a bit before dinner.

But Millicent, however, was hardly in a position to become firm with her employer tonight. She had a favor to ask. So she sighed, picked up her notebook, and followed George Drimgold into the private office.

Drimgold stared at her with eyes which glittered strangely.

Millicent Graves didn't notice the signs of inner emotion. A sudden surge of valor possessed her. She acted upon impulse, and heard her own voice speaking, almost before she realized what she was doing.

"Mr. Drimgold," she said, "I wonder if it would be possible for me to get an advance on next month's salary? It happens that I've had some rather heavy expenses this month, and. . ."

"No," he told her shortly. "I'm sorry, but it's impossible."

"Very well," she said with dignity. "It's after 5 o'clock. Your mail is ready for signing. Shall I get it?"

"Not yet. I've got something to dictate to you."

"It's after 5."

He said irritably, "I don't care what time it is. I told you I've got some dictation. You're going to have to work tonight. You'll have to eat downtown. There's a tearoom in the block."

She could feel the pulse pounding in her throat. She realized now that Drimgold was in a most irritable mood. Yet, having started to assert her rights, she didn't intend to stop.

"What I am about to dictate, Miss Graves," Drimgold said, "is of the utmost importance. I don't want to be interrupted . . ."

"Before we start in on that dictation," Millicent Graves said firmly, "there's the question of finances and overtime. I know that jobs are scarce, Mr. Drimgold, but it takes virtually every cent that I make in order to live."

"I noticed you flashed out with a new fur coat," he retorted sarcastically.

"Yes, I did," she said, "and I needed it. It was a bargain I couldn't pass up. I paid for it out of my own money. You don't have to give me an advance if you don't want to. On the other hand, I certainly don't have to work overtime for you. As it happens, I can't do it tonight. I haven't enough money to even pay for any dinner."

Drimgold frowned, thrust a hand into his trousers pocket, pulled out a roll of bills. He hesitated a moment, then replaced the bills. From his other pocket he took some silver and slid a 50-cent piece across the desk to her.

"Wait a minute," Drimgold pleaded. "Let's be reasonable. You can't leave me now."

"You can get enough to eat," he said, "for half a dollar. I'll pay for the meal. I won't pay for overtime. If you don't want this position, I can get others who do."

Millicent Graves pushed back her chair. Despite herself, her voice rose.

"That's the thing that I hate about you!" she screamed. "Your lack of consideration—your penny-pinching tactics. It took two girls to do your work before I came here. I'm doing the work of both of those girls at one girl's salary. Even then, I would not mind the work if you'd be decent about it. You treat a girl like a slave, and I'm not going to be a slave. I don't care how scarce jobs are. I'm going to get a raise or I'm going to quit.

She heard one of the janitors moving around in the other office, and realized her voice had been high-pitched with rage.

"You don't need to quit," Drimgold shouted. "You're fired!"

"Very well," she said, and closed her book with a vicious snap.

Her hand was on the knob of the door as Drimgold's voice, strangely changed, reached her ears. "Wait a minute," he pleaded. "Let's be reasonable. I need you. I've got some most important dictation. You can't leave me now. I'm all upset. Please forgive me."

She turned to stare at him, and suddenly realized that the man was speaking the simple truth. She hesitated for a moment, then came back to the dictating table, spread out her notebook, and said frostily, "Very well. What is it, a letter?"

"No," said Drimgold slowly, "it's a confession."

Despite herself, she felt quick sympathy, as she saw the expression on his face.

"I'm going to dictate this confession," he said. "You're going to write it out. Then I'm going to sign it, and you'll witness it. Please take this down, Miss Graves. To whom it may concern: This is to certify that I, George Drimgold, of the age of 48 years, president of the Drimgold Realty Revaluation company, am guilty of being an accessory to a murder.

"I am not guilty of that murder. I do, however, know the guilty party. For years I have protected this party and have myself shared in the benefits which accrued from that murder.

"In order to make this confession intelligible at this late date, it is necessary for me to set forth certain facts. These facts can be best be explained by certain documentary evidence, certain newspaper clippings which I will quote herein at length."

Drimgold paused in his dictation, turned to the wall safe above his desk. His fingers touched the knob of the combination; then he turned to Millicent Graves.

"I've got to get some documents," he said. "Go ahead and get that mail. I'll sign it. Then you can get it in the mail chute."

She went to the outer office, returned with the stack of mail, placed it on the desk in front of him. He signed the letters with a firm, steady hand. It took a moment of fumbling with the controls to get the cage stopped at the 17th floor. Then, having opened the door, she ran down the corridor.

The door of Drimgold's private office was open.

Drimgold lay on the floor. A bullet hole in the center of his forehead welled a thick, red stream across the carpeted floor. A half-opened purse was clutched in the fingers of his left hand. The contents were scattered over the floor.

One swift look at the purse, and she recognized it. It was her own purse. The things which were strewn about the room were her own—lipstick, compact, handkerchief, visiting cards.

She felt panic tighten her throat. Moved by impulse, she ran to the window, flung it open and looked down the 17 floors.

The white-garbed assistant janitor was just rounding the corner, and, slightly behind him, ran a uniformed policeman.

"LIVE AND LET LIVE WHILE DRIVING ON STREETS AND HIGHWAYS"

The municipal officials and the police department of the city of Monroe have inaugurated a forceful campaign designed to reduce accidents on the public streets of this city. The figures that are given on this page prove that this campaign has proven effective, for the reason that the number of fatalities in Monroe is far less proportionately than the record in other cities of similar size.

The city officials, however, are not satisfied with what has so far been accomplished in awakening the public to the need of precaution in observing the traffic regulations. Only by the fullest cooperation of motor vehicle owners and drivers in adhering strictly to the traffic rules will our streets be free from avoidable accidents and consequent injuries and fatalities.

Retail Liquor Dealers Organize Here Friday

Retail liquor dealers of Ouachita parish assembled here Friday afternoon to effect the organization of the Ouachita Parish Retail Liquor Dealers association in an effort to bring about closer cooperation in business among retail dealers of the parish.

W. K. Anders, of the Ritz bar, was elected president of the association. Other officers elected were secretary, M. R. Jackson, of Hotel Frances; first vice president, Jack Angell, of Three-Mile inn, and second vice president, John Spatafora, of Spatafora's pharmacy.

Twenty retail liquor dealers, of the 32 dealers listed in Ouachita parish, were present at the meeting which took place at Hotel Frances. A membership committee composed of John Spatafora and Harry Prophit was appointed to secure membership of the few remaining retail liquor dealers in the parish.

Final details of the association will be worked out at the next meeting of the group which is set for next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Hotel Frances. NEW LIGHT ON 'EXPERIMENTAL TWINS'

Johnny and Jimmy Woods, New York's psychology clinic twins, have gotten safely by their third birthdays after leading well-wishers a hectic chase. Johnny, who was brought up under care of psychologists for his first two years, jumped from bureaus, bit interviewers and tried to eat the candles from his birthday cake, while Jimmy his untrained brother, cautiously took part in the festivities. The brothers, with Jimmy at left, are pictured getting their faces full of icing from their birthday cake.

$1,000,000 LENT ON STATE CROPS

Loan Supervisor For Louisiana Makes Report On Saturday

About $1,000,000 has been made in crop and feed loans to farmers of Louisiana this spring by the federal government, D. R. Morrow, loan supervisor for this state, said Saturday. Although the state as a whole has not made quite as many loans as last year, the amount loaned is as much or slightly more than up to the same time last year.

Last year the government loaned to farmers of Louisiana a total of $1,190,000, lending this amount to 21,600 farmers. o date this year loans have been made to about 18,000 farmers and it is believed that this includes the greater number of farmers who will apply for loans this year.

The number of loans in Ouachita parish is running about the same as for last year. In some of the parishes in this section of the state, the number and amounts of loans have been larger than for last year, because of the drouth situation which prevailed during the last year and caused a shortage of feed crops on many of the farms.

Government loans are made only to farmers who are unable to obtain loans from banks, crop production loan corporations or other organizations of this kind.

City Authorities View Films On Safe Driving

A graphic story of the dangers that lie in the use of wornout tires on motors traveling the highway is given in a moving picture sponsored by the Goodrich Tire company and exhibited to members of the Twin City Safety Council and city officials last Thursday night in the Hotel Alvis. Judge W. M. Harper, Supt. of Police A. V. Tarver and several traffic officers, in addition to members of the Safety Council, viewed the pictures.

The film offers its own thrills as a competently played romance, in which a group of officers of the Pennsylvania state constabulary figure as participants. The story deals with a kidnaping, aided in its accomplishment through the bursting of a tire at a critical moment.

In addition to the feature picture a comedy was presented, during the action of which 23 varieties of violation of motor regulations are recorded.

The Twin Cities Safety Council is considering a plan to present the pictures for public view as part of its campaign to promote safety on the highways.

The well is located about five miles southwest of Bonita and is an offset to Meyers No. 1 drilled by the Texas Co. in 1928. Landowners and oil men are watching this test with much interest and active trading in leases and minerals is expected.

NATURAL GAS CO. IN NEW BUILDING

Concern Will Open For Business Monday In Remodeled Offices

The Natural Gas company, which for many years has been located on South Grand street, will be opened for business Monday in its new headquarters in the Woodmen of the World building at the northeast corner of the intersection of Jackson and Harrison streets, Alston Prophit, manager, said Saturday.

To provide suitable space for the gas company, the Woodmen building was completely remodeled and almost the only portions of the old building that were used in the remodeling work were the roof and outside walls. Plate glass fronts were installed on two sides and the outside of the brick structure was stuccoed. Inside the building was completely rebuilt, so that fixtures and interior walls could be installed in such a way as to provide the greatest convenience.

Work of repairing the building was started March 8 and good progress was made, considering the extensive alterations. The gas company has a 10-year lease on the building and thus will be permanently located for at least that many years.

Officials of the gas company expressed the opinion that the new location is much more convenient for the public than was the old building. It is less than a block from the intersection of Monroe's two principal thoroughfares—Jackson street and DeSiard street and is near the heart of the business section and yet is far enough back from DeSiard street to make it accessible for those traveling by automobile. In addition, it is on the main route leading to the postoffice, they pointed out.

Union Parish Farmers Get More For Cotton

MARION, La., April 27.—(Special)—Farmers of Union parish received for their 1934 cotton crop, including seed, benefit payments, etc., the sum of $1,006,722 as compared with $894,497 in 1933, and $604,079 in 1932, the 1934 cash received by the farmers of the parish during 1934 being $402,643 more than in 1932 and $112,225 more than in 1933, according to a statement released by Parish Agent J. V. Rabb.

There were no benefit payments in 1932. According to Mr. Rabb, the entire value of the cotton crop in the state in 1934 was $44,603,438, as compared with $32,924,816 in 1933 and $22,424,187 in 1932, which shows that the 1934 income of the cotton farmer in Louisiana during 1934 was approximately twice the 1932 income.

WOODMEN GIVEN SPECIAL HONORS

Meeting Held To Celebrate Opening Of Remodeled Building

Old-timers of the Woodmen of the World were shown special honors at the regular meeting of the organization Thursday night. The meeting also was in celebration of the formal opening of the newly remodeled building.

Some of those who were honored at the meeting as old members have been connected with the institution since 1891. Among the oldest members of the organization are Fred Meyer, L. R. Powers, R. Downes, Jr., and C. E. Bynum, Sr.

Mr. Downes presided as council commander, a position he held in 1905 but which he had not held since that time until the last election. After 30 years he assumed the leadership of the council with his old-time vigor.

Eight new members were initiated into the degree, doubling its size and making a total membership of 16. This group is under the leadership of U. W. Pickens.

The committee in charge of refreshments for the meeting was composed of Parker McComb, John E. Hay, Judge Charles Schulze, Billy Bynum and Charles Garvey. About 25 lodge members were in attendance.

The two main lodge rooms of the building, after being worked over, were painted cream-color, with an apple-green finish. Hallways and other parts of the building used by the Woodmen were painted light green, with a dark green finish. The portion of the building used by the Woodmen is well equipped with lavatory facilities and is well lighted and ventilated.

All of the lower of the building and half of the upper floor have been leased by the Natural Gas company. These parts of the building were remodeled by the gas company, so that the building now has the appearance of a new structure throughout.

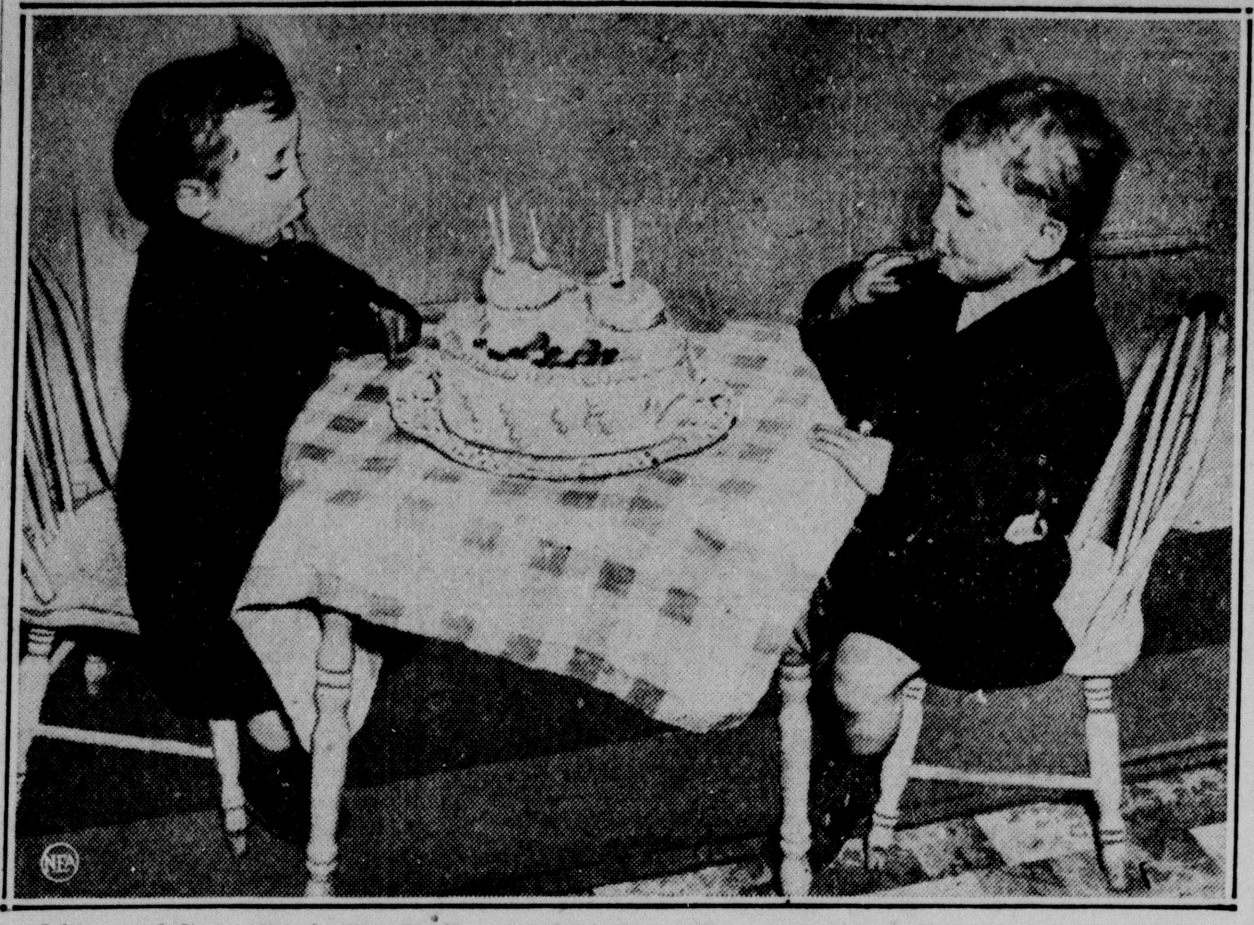
NEW LIGHT ON 'EXPERIMENTAL TWINS'



Johnny and Jimmy Woods, New York's psychology clinic twins, have gotten safely by their third birthdays after leading well-wishers a hectic chase. Johnny, who was brought up under care of psychologists for his first two years, jumped from bureaus, bit interviewers and tried to eat the candles from his birthday cake, while Jimmy his untrained brother, cautiously took part in the festivities. The brothers, with Jimmy at left, are pictured getting their faces full of icing from their birthday cake.

$1,000,000 LENT ON STATE CROPS

Loan Supervisor For Louisiana Makes Report On Saturday

About $1,000,000 has been made in crop and feed loans to farmers of Louisiana this spring by the federal government, D. R. Morrow, loan supervisor for this state, said Saturday. Although the state as a whole has not made quite as many loans as last year, the amount loaned is as much or slightly more than up to the same time last year.

Last year the government loaned to farmers of Louisiana a total of $1,190,000, lending this amount to 21,600 farmers. o date this year loans have been made to about 18,000 farmers and it is believed that this includes the greater number of farmers who will apply for loans this year.

The number of loans in Ouachita parish is running about the same as for last year. In some of the parishes in this section of the state, the number and amounts of loans have been larger than for last year, because of the drouth situation which prevailed during the last year and caused a shortage of feed crops on many of the farms.

Government loans are made only to farmers who are unable to obtain loans from banks, crop production loan corporations or other organizations of this kind.

City Authorities View Films On Safe Driving

A graphic story of the dangers that lie in the use of wornout tires on motors traveling the highway is given in a moving picture sponsored by the Goodrich Tire company and exhibited to members of the Twin City Safety Council and city officials last Thursday night in the Hotel Alvis. Judge W. M. Harper, Supt. of Police A. V. Tarver and several traffic officers, in addition to members of the Safety Council, viewed the pictures.

The film offers its own thrills as a competently played romance, in which a group of officers of the Pennsylvania state constabulary figure as participants. The story deals with a kidnaping, aided in its accomplishment through the bursting of a tire at a critical moment.

In addition to the feature picture a comedy was presented, during the action of which 23 varieties of violation of motor regulations are recorded.

The Twin Cities Safety Council is considering a plan to present the pictures for public view as part of its campaign to promote safety on the highways.

NATURAL GAS CO. IN NEW BUILDING

Concern Will Open For Business Monday In Remodeled Offices

The Natural Gas company, which for many years has been located on South Grand street, will be opened for business Monday in its new headquarters in the Woodmen of the World building at the northeast corner of the intersection of Jackson and Harrison streets, Alston Prophit, manager, said Saturday.

To provide suitable space for the gas company, the Woodmen building was completely remodeled and almost the only portions of the old building that were used in the remodeling work were the roof and outside walls. Plate glass fronts were installed on two sides and the outside of the brick structure was stuccoed. Inside the building was completely rebuilt, so that fixtures and interior walls could be installed in such a way as to provide the greatest convenience.

Work of repairing the building was started March 8 and good progress was made, considering the extensive alterations. The gas company has a 10-year lease on the building and thus will be permanently located for at least that many years.

Officials of the gas company expressed the opinion that the new location is much more convenient for the public than was the old building. It is less than a block from the intersection of Monroe's two principal thoroughfares—Jackson street and DeSiard street and is near the heart of the business section and yet is far enough back from DeSiard street to make it accessible for those traveling by automobile. In addition, it is on the main route leading to the postoffice, they pointed out.

Union Parish Farmers Get More For Cotton

MARION, La., April 27.—(Special)—Farmers of Union parish received for their 1934 cotton crop, including seed, benefit payments, etc., the sum of $1,006,722 as compared with $894,497 in 1933, and $604,079 in 1932, the 1934 cash received by the farmers of the parish during 1934 being $402,643 more than in 1932 and $112,225 more than in 1933, according to a statement released by Parish Agent J. V. Rabb.

There were no benefit payments in 1932. According to Mr. Rabb, the entire value of the cotton crop in the state in 1934 was $44,603,438, as compared with $32,924,816 in 1933 and $22,424,187 in 1932, which shows that the 1934 income of the cotton farmer in Louisiana during 1934 was approximately twice the 1932 income.

WOODMEN GIVEN SPECIAL HONORS

Meeting Held To Celebrate Opening Of Remodeled Building

Old-timers of the Woodmen of the World were shown special honors at the regular meeting of the organization Thursday night. The meeting also was in celebration of the formal opening of the newly remodeled building.

Some of those who were honored at the meeting as old members have been connected with the institution since 1891. Among the oldest members of the organization are Fred Meyer, L. R. Powers, R. Downes, Jr., and C. E. Bynum, Sr.

Mr. Downes presided as council commander, a position he held in 1905 but which he had not held since that time until the last election. After 30 years he assumed the leadership of the council with his old-time vigor.

Eight new members were initiated into the degree, doubling its size and making a total membership of 16. This group is under the leadership of U. W. Pickens.

The committee in charge of refreshments for the meeting was composed of Parker McComb, John E. Hay, Judge Charles Schulze, Billy Bynum and Charles Garvey. About 25 lodge members were in attendance.

The two main lodge rooms of the building, after being worked over, were painted cream-color, with an apple-green finish. Hallways and other parts of the building used by the Woodmen were painted light green, with a dark green finish. The portion of the building used by the Woodmen is well equipped with lavatory facilities and is well lighted and ventilated.

All of the lower of the building and half of the upper floor have been leased by the Natural Gas company. These parts of the building were remodeled by the gas company, so that the building now has the appearance of a new structure throughout.

"There is, to me, nothing more inspiring and worthy of commendation than the banker or banking institution, which has come through these trying years and has weathered all storms . . ."

"I am for the community bank. All the brains and ability are surely not centered in the colossal banks . . ."

"But I do believe in insurance. No banker should refuse to do with the funds left in trust with him by his friends and neighbors, what he requires of every applicant for a loan against, say—a home or building. Would you lend it to him if he has no insurance? No. Then you should insure your friends' funds too . . ."

DICK TRACY, CHIEF YELLOWPONY AND PAT PATTON FIND YELLOWPONY'S WIFE AND DAUGHTER BY FOLLOWING THE TRAIL OF BLANKET FRAGMENTS THROWN OUT OF THE SPEEDING CAR BY YELLOWPONY'S SQUAW . . . .

YOU AND SUNSET GO ON BACK TO OUR PAWNEE HOME ON TRAIN. I'LL GO WITH DETECTIVES AND HELP 'UM CATCH ARSON.
WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN WIGWAM - NOT IN POSSE CHASING GUNMAN.
NO TRUER WORDS WERE EVER UTTERED, YELLOWPONY! YOU SPEAK GREAT WISDOM.
NOW THE QUESTION IS, TRACY- WHICH WAY DID ARSON AND HIS SISTER GO FROM HERE.
MY IDEA, PAT, IS THAT THEY WENT STRAIGHT ON DOWN THE HIGHWAY.
2 HOURS LATER
HEY, TRACY! WHAT'S THAT STUCK IN THAT POST? STOP!
LOOKS LIKE A.. ..GREAT SCOTT! LOOKS LIKE A LICENSE PLATE!
IT IS A LICENSE PLATE- ..AN OKLAHOMA LICENSE PLATE!
THEY'RE MY NUMBERS!
AND HERE'S THE OTHER ONE- LAYING IN THE GRASS.
I GET IT! ARSON AND HIS SISTER STOLE A SET OF LICENSE PLATES FROM SOME OTHER CAR TO PUT ON YELLOWPONY'S CAR! AT THIS SPOT WHILE SPEEDING ALONG, THEY THREW THE OKLAHOMA PLATES AWAY AND BY ONE OF THOSE STRANGE COINCIDENCES, ONE PLATE HIT THIS POST AND STUCK.
THEN WE'RE ON THE RIGHT TRACK.
MEANWHILE, MANY MILES AHEAD, ARSON AND HIS SISTER HAVE REACHED THEIR DESTINATION. . . . .
SO YOU'RE "CUTIE" DIAMOND, EH? WELL, MY SISTER TOLD ME A LOT ABOUT YOU. IT'S PRETTY SQUARE OF YOU TO INVITE US TO YOUR OZARK HIDEOUT HERE TILL THINGS COOL OFF.

GO AHEAD, ARSON-SNAP OUR PICTURE STANDING HERE LIKE THIS. KEEP THAT CIGAR IN YOUR MOUTH, ZORA. I'LL SEND SOME TO THE PAPERS NEXT TIME I'M IN TOWN. I LIKE FOR 'EM TO PRINT GOOD PICTURES OF ME AS LONG AS THEY'RE PRINTING THEM.

"Saves $2.00 A Week On Groceries"

Says W. W. Montgomery, Jr.

"When your salesman told us a STEWART-WARNER would pay for itself, we naturally accepted his statement as 'sales talk.' Nevertheless, we have found that it is MORE than paying for itself! It is saving our ice bill and at least $2.00 per week on groceries . . . and our foods are decidedly better."

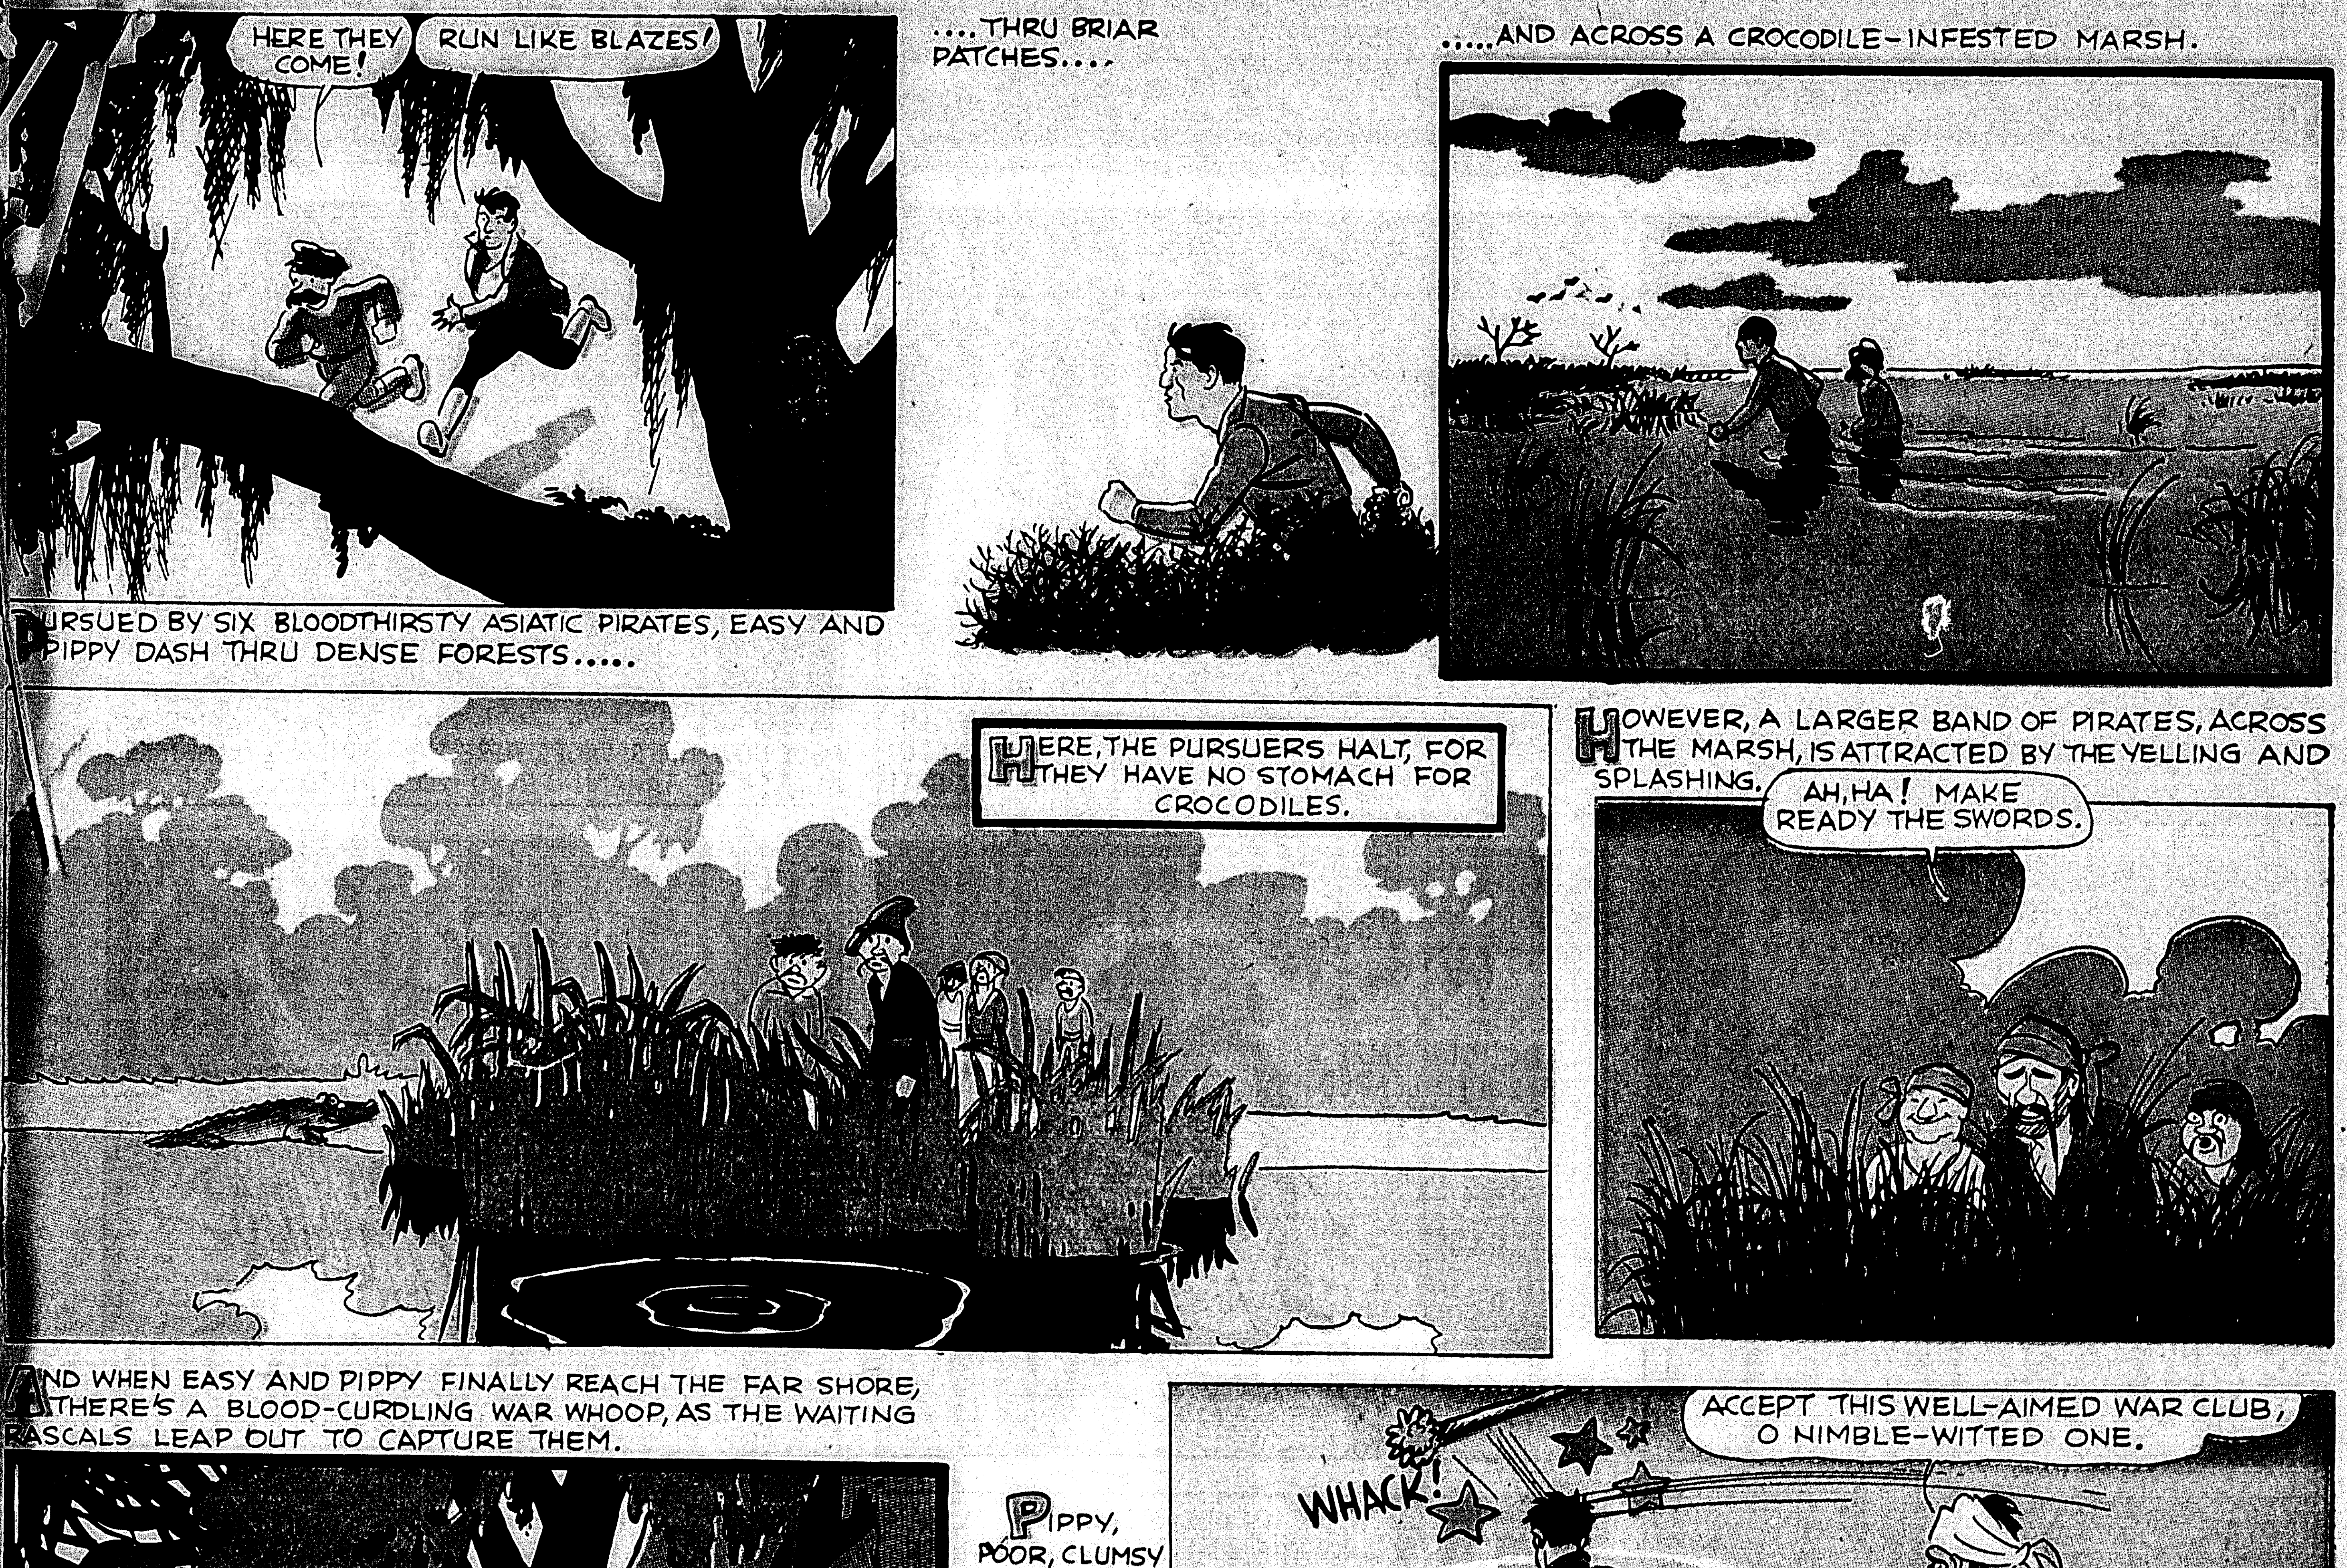
CAPTAIN EASY
SOLDIER OF FORTUNE
by ROY CRANE



HERE THEY COME!
RUN LIKE BLAZES!
PURSUED BY SIX BLOODTHIRSTY ASIATIC PIRATES, EASY AND PIPPY DASH THRU DENSE FORESTS.....
....THRU BRIAR PATCHES....
.....AND ACROSS A CROCODILE-INFESTED MARSH.
HERE, THE PURSUERS HALT, FOR THEY HAVE NO STOMACH FOR CROCODILES.
HOWEVER, A LARGER BAND OF PIRATES, ACROSS THE MARSH, IS ATTRACTED BY THE YELLING AND SPLASHING.
AH, HA! MAKE READY THE SWORDS.
AND WHEN EASY AND PIPPY FINALLY REACH THE FAR SHORE, THERE'S A BLOOD-CURDLING WAR WHOOP, AS THE WAITING RASCALS LEAP OUT TO CAPTURE THEM.
QUICK! BACK TO THE MARSH.
SPLAHSH!
PIPPY, POOR, CLUMSY FELLOW, IS NABBED IMMEDIATELY.
AND EASY FARES EVEN WORSE.
ACCEPT THIS WELL-AIMED WAR CLUB, O NIMBLE-WITTED ONE.
WHACK!
HE IS DRAGGED FROM THE WATER, HALF DROWNED.
AND IS KICKED, BEATEN, AND BOUND.
BEHOLD THE PRECIOUS JEWELS WE FOUND ON HIM.
OH, HO! THE DOG IS RICH. PREPARE THE INSTRUMENTS OF TORTURE, THAT WE MAY LEARN WHERE HE HAS MORE OF SUCH PRICELESS PRETTIES.
NEXT WEEK: INSTRUMENTS OF TORTURE!

Tarzan
[illegible] HIS SPEAR. BOHGDU DODGED AND THE LANCE BURIED ITSELF IN THE TRUNK OF THE TREE
TARZAN THREW HIS MIGHTY STRENGTH AGAINST THE ROPE, WHICH HAD BEEN WEAKENED BY THE APE'S GNAWING. IT BROKE! HE AND SYBIL WERE FREE!
BUT NOW THE SAVAGES WERE SURROUNDING THEM. "TAKE THE SHE!" TARZAN CRIED TO BOHGDU.
[illegible] AND [illegible] OF THE FIGHT-ING [illegible] WHILE . . .
. . . BOHGDU SEIZED SYBIL AND LEAPED INTO A TREE.
THEN TARZAN SPRANG AFTER THEM, AMIDST A FLIGHT OF WILDLY AIMED ARROWS.
THE JUNGLE LORD TOOK THE GIRL FROM BOHGDU AND THEY TRAVELED ALL NIGHT TO THE FAR-THEST TIP OF THE ISLAND.
THERE, IN GREATEST HASTE, TARZAN AND THE APE GATHERED FALLEN LOGS AND BOUND THEM TOGETHER WITH GIANT VINES.
JUST AS THEY WERE READY TO LAUNCH THEIR CRUDE RAFT, THE CRIES OF THE PURSUING WAIORIS PIERCED THE FOREST.
THE FUGITIVES PADDLED FROM SHORE IN A HAIL OF ARROWS. TARZAN TRIED TO SHIELD SYBIL, BUT SHE DISDAINED HIS PROTECTION.
"YOU SEE, WE ARE ALL SAFE," SHE SMILED WHEN THEY WERE OUT OF RANGE OF THE DEADLY MISSILES.
TARZAN SHOOK HIS HEAD AND POINTED AHEAD. DARK STORM CLOUDS WERE GATHER-ING OVER THE PERILOUS TROPICAL SEA
